Two Guides to Happiness. Here are a couple of guides to happiness which some wise person has discovered: "For a fit of passion take a walk in the open air. You may then speak to the wind without hurting any person or proclaiming yourself to be a simpleton. For a fit of idleness count the tickings of a clock. Do this for one hour, and you will be glad to pull off your coat and go to work like a man."

Franklin's Sawdust Pudding.

Franklin believed in fair competition in freedom for others as well as him self and cared more for his personal independence in the conduct of his business than for the business itself. The story of the sawdust pudding should be known in every newspaper office in the country. When he first at Nanchang assert that a Catholic started the Gazette he made some free priest named La Cruche stabbed the comments on certain public officials, and some of the influential patrons of the paper resented it and tried to stop it. SCORES HEPBURN PLANS

Declares Congress Has No Power of Rate Making-The Pending Measure Contrary to Spirit of Our Institutions

Washington, March 1 .- For three hours, lacking a few minutes, Mr. Foraker held the attention of the senate while he read a carefully prepared speech of 25,000 words on the railroad president to devise means to eradicate test against any general legislation, on the causes which have made the rioting | the theory that the existing Elkins law could be so extended as to make it answer all the requirements. He did not fail, however, to point out what he considered the defects of the Hepburn-Dolliver bill, and he made the declaration more than once that it would fail to remedy the evils complained of. Mr. Foraker conceded that some evils exist in connection with the railroads, miles from Springfield, they were met but urged that all of them could be more by a courier who had been sent to in- effectively met by amending the Elkins law than by passing the pending bill. oners was anticipated by the mob and He announced his regret at differing that they would certainly lynch them from the president, but said he could not see his way clear to pursue any other course. His attitude towards the pending bill was outlined in his first aragraph, in which he said of the meas-

"It is so contrary to the spirit of our stitutions and of such drastic and evolutionary character that, if not in its immediate effect, at least as a precedent, the consequences are likely to be most unusual and far-reaching." He discussed the railroad evils as of three classes—excessive rates, rebate and discriminations. He believes in the court plan, as contradistinguished from the rate making plan. Regarding the right of congress to make rates, he declared "the supreme court has never yet passed on that question and there are many eminent lawyers who are of the opinion that the court will hold, when it does decide that question, that congress when the action of the St. Petersburg does not have that power." He asserted police in closing the central bureau of that it is utterly impossible for congress the constitutional democrats was dis- by statute to fix all the rates for interstate commerce, "for it will be conceded reau was allowed to be reopened and that it is unconstitutional for congress Mr. Foraker also contended that the

turbance from the south passed New England pretty well off shore, its western edge was sufficiently energetic to cause some delay and damage to shipping, but so far as known no lives were

A New Bedford fishing sloop was nearly wrecked on Block Island, a small coaster was driven on the beach at Cottage City, two barges were blown away from the tug Gettysburg off Cape Cod and a light barge went ashore on an island in Boston harbor.

As usual, exposed points like Block Island, Nantucket and Cape Cod bore the brunt of the storm, and for nearly 24 hours withstood a 50-mile-an-hour gale, with once in a while a puff of 60 or 70 miles an hour. Snow fell heavily at Nantucket and there were snow squalls at Martha's Vineyard and Cape Cod, but elsewhere scarcely any snow fell. The passage of the storm toward the provinces permitted the resumption of coastwise traffic.

Reports from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia show that the disturbance was of a greater severity there than on the New England coast. Trains on the Inter-colonial railway are being delayed. It will probably be many days before the disaster record of the storm is complete.

To Investigate Thurston's Death Exeter, N. H., March 1 .- As the body of Chase W. Thurston, who died at his lonely home under mysterious circumstances last Sunday, was about to be placed in the grave for burial, the county authorities ordered the remains to be taken to a local undertaking establishment pending the result of an examination into the cause of the man's death. Thurston was found dead with his clothes burnt from the upper part of his body, with his trousers smouldering and with an empty revolver near his body, while five bullets were found lodged in the side of Despondent Over Consumption Boston, March 1.-Despondent at the discovery that he was in the last stages of consumption and possessing morbid views of his business relations and domestic affairs, Charles W. Ward, 28, a wealthy and brilliant Boston lawyer, shot himself through the heart, dying instantly, at Los Angeles, Cal., yester day. He had gone west for his health six weeks ago. News of the deed came yesterday to the man's homein Dorchester, where his wife and 4-yearold son reside in a beautiful home.

New Born Babe Out In the Cold Lowell, Mass., March 1 .- With nothing but a sheet of paper to protect her from the cold of a stone doorstep, and with absolutely nothing over her to keep away the cold of the night, a tlny baby girl, just born, was found in a doorway on Market street. Dr. Dolan of the city farm reports that the little girl is doing very well and will not saffer from her exposure to the elements. The police have been unable to locate the mother who abandoned the Warner was treasurer of the savings bank and president of the Hampshire County National bank, and the shortage in the two institutions amounted to $450,000.

Ne Postoffice "Deficit"

Boston, March 1 .- More than a hundred members of the New England Postmasters' association attended a banquet of the organization here last night. The principal speaker was Postmaster Wilcox of New York city, who characterized the "deficit" in the postoffice department as a misnomer, saying in explanation that items appearing as paid from the postoffice appropriations should be paid by other departments.

Declared Bankrupt Though Absent Boston, March 1 .- Charles F. Berry, the trustee of numerous estates, who is alleged to have used up over $300,000 of the money entrusted to his care, was adjudged a bankrupt by Judge Dodge in spite of the opposition of the trust fund creditors, who claimed that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter, inasmuch as Berry has disappeared and no personal service of the bankruptcy papers has been made upon him.

Want Tucker's Sentence Commuted Boston, March 1.-Counsel for Charles L. Tucker, who is under sentence of death for the murder of Mabel Page at Weston, say that they will appeal to Governor Guild for a commuta tion of sentence. The case will be carrled to the United States supreme court only in the event that the governor declines to commute the sentence.

A number of doctors and representapeared before the committee and made sweeping condemnation of these drugs, many of which, it was declared, contained cocaine, alcohol, opium, chloroform and other insidious drugs. Three of the bills heard provide for itemized labels showing the alcoholic sition on the part of the other memand poisonous ingredients in the med- bers of the board. icines; the other three bills limit the sale of certain beverages and dangerous drugs, and most of the measures carry a penalty clause.

In opening the hearing Chairman Grosvenor announced that the committee would take up the bills as one measure, inasmuch as they were identical in most respects. At the request of Representative Peabody, sponsor for house bill 231, the state board of health was officially invited to attend. This bill is aimed particularly against so-called | Oil company, having a monopoly on oil | Hasty Lunch Chocolate-Barker's, spring medicines, and requires that their alcoholic contents shall be shown in percentage on the labols. It was favored by President Cabot of the Massachusetts Medical society, on the ground that the consumption of alcohol and dangerous drugs, unknown to the consumer, forms a deplorable habit against Representative Walker declared that great many people are using patent edicine in absolute ignorance of the fact that the preparations contain aicohol and they suffer the consequences while others use it as a substitute for cheap whiskies.

Dr. Harrington of the state board of health favored the bill on the ground icines upon public health and public

The first direct attack on specific preparations was made by Melvin M. Johnson, who offered a substitute bil! embodying most of the provisions of the Portraits Copied in Crayons other six measures. He would have publicity and restrictions extended to all medicinal preparations containing alcohol or narcotic drugs such as oplum, alkaloids, codeine, morphine, cocaine and their derivitives. He said that proprietary medicines may be divided into two classes, those which are harmless frauds and those which contain deleterious drugs. He named many of graded and degrading; only those most as alcohol stimulators, catarrh powders, opium-containing soothing syrups which, he said, stunt and kill helpless children; consumption cures, headache powders, concoctions for the treatment of the alcoholic habits. He spoke of what these drugs contained, and said his authorities for his statements were the United States department of agriculture and the Massachusetts state board of health. The consumption cures placed on the market today, he said, contain chloroform, cocaine, morphine and other drugs which, instead of curing the disease, hasten it, and are "of the most diabolic medicine manufactures put opium into | lands. their cough and consumption cures, principally because this drug advertises tself, one dose calling for another. Normal people do not use opium except as prescribed by physicians, but they are led by fraud to take it unknowingly. The other class of proprietary medcines, he said, approaches more nearly to the ethical class, so-called; they are the remedies which depend upon the heart depressing action of acetanilid. Five grains of acetanilid are known to have killed a man. Any bill enacted ought to be broad enough to cover this class, which includes practically all of dies vended in the drug stores under proprietary names. One of the physicians favoring a stricter regulation of the drug trade made the statement that a certain proprietary article he had analyzed is so largely charged with acetanilide that the ordinary dose, a teaspoonful, contains 10 grains of drugs, whereas the national pharmacoepia gives a dose as four grains, and five grains have been known to prove fatal. Other largely used medicines, according to druggists and others who expressed their views | iff rates on United States products. to the committee, contained quantities of alcohol and narcotic drugs which almost surpassed belief. At this point of the hearing the real contest before the committee developed. The druggist interest claims to be hard hit by any legislation forbidding the sale of alcoholic drugs without detailed labels, because it is a matter of financial importance. Though the bills, the new drafts as well as the original documents, are friendly in most respects, their variation on the alcohol question indicates a strong contest.

SANDALS AT DINNER.

Social Fad Introduced by a Dress

Reformer. That sandal wearing is to be more of a New York fad than ever next spring was demonstrated at a recent fashionable dinner at which all the guests present were required to wear sandals, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. After the dinner there was a dance, at which the sandals still were worn. The wearers declared they never enjoyed dancing so much before, as they seemed to lighten their feet and enable them to move with so much more elasticity. The dinner was given by one of New York's most noted dress reformers. She is a dress reformer, however, that occupies a social position higher than the class usually known by this title. She is a confirmed believer in sandal wearing, as she thinks cramping the feet in shoes is decidedly injurious to the health, affecting the entire system.

At the dinner a strictly modern simple menu was served. It consisted of blue points, olives, celery, consomme, rare roast canvasback duck, ice cream, coffee and cheese. Claret was drunk during the meal.

The sandals were donned after the guests arrived. They were dainty creations-those for the women-soles of leather symmetrically shaped, such as can be found only in the best shops. They were fastened to the feet by a thong, passing between the great and the second toe, meeting a heart shaped fibula and the strap running along the instep and joining a strap from the Pleasure had been pent during the interval of preparation and was now ready to burst forth with new vigor. Brilliant lights fell on resplendent cos tumes. Jewels received the rays, broke them and sent them back in dazzling hues. The music had in it a quickening thrill to set the blood coursing, the feet flying. There were girls with supple figures, women with queenly ones slender youths and men of stately mien, all swaying, rocking in the dance. As the hours flew by the music grew madder, the dancing more abandoned. From a supper room came popping of corks, bursts of laughter, shouts of merriment. Trial Electric Lighting.

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition. To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge. This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary.

Per order of Directors, QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT & POWER COMPANY, By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

M'CURDY GOES ABROAD

Insurance King Said to Be In Very Feeble Condition

New York, March 2.—Tottering, pale, shadow of his former virile self, his eyes leaden and unobserving, Richard A. McCurdy, accompanied by his wife, his daughter and her husband, Louis A. Thebaud, travelled by night from his Morristown home, was whisked across the city in carriages shortly before midnight, and slowly, very slowly, was assisted up the steep gangplank onto the Hamburg-American line steamer Amerika at Hoboken. It took the former "Czar McCurdy," former president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, to exile. He has gone to France to join, perhaps, that little colony of insurance men already there. He was guarded by servants. No one was permitted to aproach him.

At the dock, when boarding the steamer, the coachman was arrested because of an alleged assault on a citizen who tried to speak to the insurance king. McCurdy did not wait for explanations, but hurried to the magnificent suite which he will occupy on the trip across the ocean. It is the same suite that was especially prepared for the German emperor when he planned to visit here

BEATEN TO DEATH

Neil's Frightful Blows Proved Too Strong For Young Tenny

LAD'S STOMACH REMOVED

Strychnine and Possibly Other Drugs Used, Though Coroner Finds That Death Was Due to Cerebral Hemorrhage

San Francisco, March 2.-Harry Tenny, who was knocked out Wednesday night by Frank Neil, the bantam champion pugilist, died yesterday.

The fight was held in Mechanics' pavilion and Neil defended his title of bantamweight champion by knocking out his opponent in the 14th round. As early as the fourth round Neil had Tenny "groggy." In the 14th and last round Tenny received such punishment as has seldom been administered to a pugilist in the San Francisco ring. At no time during the fight was Neil in danger of losing, and only once did Tenny appear to have a chance. Through every round the winner battered and pounded his opponent almost

Some uneasiness was felt Wednesday night by persons connected with the contest when the condition of Tenny after the knockout was noted. He went down before Neil's hard left hand blows during the 14th round, falling near the centre of the ring. The time seeper counted him out, but in the noise of the shouting Referee Roche did not hear the completion of the count and when Tenny staggered to his feet allowed the fight to proceed.

A howl of derision greeted the referee's ruling, but it was soon ended, for Neil went at his opponent like a madman and hammered him in his weakned condition against the ropes. Helpless and without strength to strike a blow in return, Tenny dropped against the hopes. His head sank on his chest and his arms dropped to his ides. In this position Tenny was literally beaten to the floor by Neil and was counted out by the referee. He was carried to his dressing room. When he was revived an hour later he complained of pains in his body, which he ascribed to the terrific blows with which Neil had reached his stomach. Later, the defeated man was removed to the bath house, where he grew worse until death ended his suffering.

Mark Shaughnessy attended Tenny at the bath. The beaten pugilist complained of terrible pains in his stomach and head. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning he fell asleep and the physician left, saying that all danger was over. At 7:30 o'clock Shaughnessy was awakened by a cry from Tenny The pugilist's body was doubled up in agony and a hurry call was sent in for the central emergency ambulance. Before it arrived Tenny was dead.

The news of Tenny's death spread ice given at police headquarters to arest all concerned. Neil soon surendered himself, as also did James Coffroth, Eddie Graney, Willis Britt, Morris Levy and Mark Shaughnessy. All were charged with manslaughter. They promptly made arrangements for release on bail.

After making an autopsy, Coroner's Surgeon Cussack announced that Cenny's death was due to cerebral emorrhage, caused probably by a olow. It was discovered that strychnine and possibly other drugs were given Tenny during the night, so the stomach was removed and sent to the city chemist, who will analyze the con-

The mother of the dead boy, Mrs. Israel Tennebaum, this being his real name, asserts that he was poisoned. A prother, James Tennebaum, charges hat the little fighter was "doped" before entering the ring. This sensational charge is denied by Neil and others onnected with the tragedy.

Mark Shaughnessy, one of his seconds, says that Tenny fell in a fit after eaving the ring

Captain of Police Duke, who wit nessed the fight, blames the referee for permitting the contest to continue after it was evident that Tenny was helpless. Chief of Police Dinan declares that the promoters of the fight complied with the city ordinances in every particular, and that physicians' certificates had been given to the authorities as to the ability of the two contestants to fight.

Philippine Tariff Bill and Santo Domingo Treaty Are Scheduled For Defeat--Congress to Adjourn Next Month

Washington, March 2 .- That the railroad rate bill will be passed by the senate practically as it came from the house is an admission that the opponents of the measure are almost ready to make. It is admitted that they cannot hope for any assistance from the president in getting an amendment for judicial review of orders of the interstate commerce commission. The president made this clear to Senators Crane and Spooner yesterday.

The only hope left to the opponents of the measure is in the Democrats. They have not definitely determined what the party position will be toward such an amendment, but it is admitted that more than half of the minority favor passing the bill exactly as it came from the house. The task of lining up senators on this subject is proceeding daily, both factions being active in this respect. It is believed that by the time the bill is taken up it can be determined whether there is a possible chance for an amendment. If there is not, the opponents unhesitatingly say they will make their speeches and record their votes against the measure and lend their assistance in bringing about an early vote.

The railroad bill for several days has been regarded as the one measure standing in the way of an early adjourn ment of congress. One of the leading Republican senators, a member of the steering committee, declares that "the Philippine tariff bill, the statehood bill and the Santo Domingo treaty are all dead." He qualified his statement concerning the statehood bill by saying that he meant that the friends of the bill could not pass it without the For aker amendment providing for the submission to the votes of the people of New Mexico and Arizona separately the question whether they should have joint statehood. A poll of the senate yesterday showed that if voted upon now the Foraker amendment would win 48 to 40, providing the full vote of the senate was cast.

A vote on the Philippine tariff bill in committee is about due. A majority of the committee is opposed to the bill, al though two members have not said defi nitely that they are not willing to permit the bill to be reported to the senate. Only Senators Lodge, Beveridge, Long. Carmack and McCreary have declared their positions in favor of reporting the bill. Senators Hale, Burrows. Brandagee, Culberson, Dubois and Stone are pronounced in their opposihile Senators Dick and Nixon said to be opposed to the measure, have been inclined to vote to bring the bill from the committee.

A hasty poll of the senate, taken yesterday, indicates that if brought to a vote the Philippine tariff bill would be defeated by a much larger vote than was found for the Foraker amendment to the statehood bill. In the event the bill is defeated in the committee the opponents have expressed the intention of making a motion in the senate to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the measure, and thus finally dispose of it by a test vote on such a motion. Practically all of the senate leaders concede that the Santo Domingo treaty will be defeated if brought to a vote, and the plan generally favored is to defeat the treaty as early as possible and thus avoid continued discussion of

Under this general program, outlined by senate Republican leaders, a great amount of expected oratory will be eliminated. These leaders say freely that congress will adjourn early, and May 1 has been named as the latest probable date.

Moran Wants to Know If They Chose Chairman by Lottery

Boston, March 2.-The seven Boston aldermen who agreed upon a chairman "by lot" Wednesday were in a defiant mood when they heard last evening that District Attorney Moran was determined to probe to the utmost the details of the alleged "trade" involved in the CATHOLICS FARED BADLY

"Let Moran indict us if he can," was their defiant retort when told that he would have them summoned before the Six Priests, Two Protestants and grand jury next week if they did not come before him today and tell him all the details of the "deal."

The seven aldermen who carried out the details of the election are Bangs, Bell, Baldwin, Cauley, Curley, Draper and Hennessey. Last evening Moran sent a personal letter to each of the seven, asking them to call at his office today. If they do not respond to his invitation Moran says he will serve a summons on each of the seven to appear before the grand jury next week.

Great excitement prevailed on Friday. A mass meeting was held on Saturday and was followed on Sunday by a riot during which the property of the Catholics was burned. The Protestants took refuge in the adjoining house of were so badly frostbitten and frozen Mr. Kingman. The house was burned that it is considered absolutely neces- and six priests and two members of the Kingman family were killed.

The Chinese governor attempted to check the riot and rescue the mission aries. The men of the Methodist mission, aided by Chinese soldiers, took their school girls to Chinese homes in the city and brought Miss Hoyt and Miss Kahn from a hospital. All took refuge in mid-river in a launch which was furnished by Chinese officers. The launch waited until Chinese soldiers brought the remaining missionaries at daylight on Monday. The launch reached Kiukiang on Tuesday.

The wounded Kingman girl died on the way. Chinese could have blocked the passage of the launch during the they were friendly. Rev. A. P. Quirmbach of the Methodist China inland missions remained at Nanchang to care for property. He is under the protection of the governor and is probably safe.

Rev. Spencer Lewis, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal mission at Chung King, wired the facts to Bishop Bashford at Shanghai on Monday. Captain Fletcher, commanding the American ships, had the location of every American missionary in the Yangtse valley. After consultation on Monday, Fletcher ordered the gunboat El Cano from Nanchang to meet the fugitives at Klukiang, or Poyang lake.

They were met at Kiukiang. The cause of the riot was local. Serlous blame attaches to the French Breaking the Trail.

Winter in the mountains is severe in its restrictions. Sledging and travel over the snow banked trails are limited to bare necessity. In the colder seasons the trails are kept open by shoveling and packing them down. When the runners sing intermittently in high, thin voices, the teamster, with a belt tight around his overcoat and flopping his arms to keep warm, faces his greatest hardships, but when the heavy snows and rapid thaws of spring come teaming means a battle and a venture with a sudden termination hanging just above. Thousands of tons of snow up the mountain sides hang on a trigger that can be sprung by the sigh of a breeze or the rolling of a pine cone, and in summer many a barren slope and pile of rock and timber at the bottom tells a skeleton tale of the winter's night. Floundering, swearing and persevering open the trail-a little ruffed thread of white

There are parts of the world where girl babies are drowned like superfluous kittens and others in which it is not uncommon for the daughters in the large families of the poor to be sold by their parents into lives of prostitution. On the other hand, the pages of history are filled with examples of the devoted lives of childless men and women who have worked unselfishly for the good of their kind. Bachelors and virgins have been the saints of the world, and the childless are the philanthropists, the founders of colleges, hospitals, art collections and libraries, the philosophers, the great writers, leaders and thinkers of the race. Plato, Joan of Arc, Savonarola, George Washington, David Hume, Locke, Spinoza, Thomas Carlyle, Florence Nightingale, Ruskin and Herbert Spencer are only a few of the great names in this class. Free Trial Electric Lighting.

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition.

To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge.

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary. Per order of Directors,

Social Club Entertainment

The young people of First church fully sustained their reputation of being good entertainers last night, when they gave a fine dramatic - vaudeville entertainment in the chapel to a crowded house. It was the last entertainment in the series given by the Social club, and is the one always looked forward to with pleasant anticipations as it is generally by local talent and is sure to have some new features and surprises.

Music throughout the evening was by Daggett's orchestra. New scenery has been purchased by the club and was used for the first time, receiving many favorable comments. There were two sets, an indoor parlor and a beautiful A Washington dispatch of Friday out door one showing landscape of trees order to meet objection on the score of the impossible and to anticipate inquiry as to whether "The Dispatcher's Story" is true it may be well to state frankly at the outset that this tale in its inexplicable psychological features is a transcript from the queer things in the railroad life. It is based on an extraordinary happening that fell within the experience of the president of a large western railway system. Whether the story, suggestive from any point of view of mystery, can be regarded as a demonstration of the efficacy of prayer may be a disputable question. In passing, however, it is only fair to say that the circumstance on which the tale is presidents and magnates and some of and he hadn't so much as a fly speck tum based was so regarded by the dispatcher himself and by those familiar with men with the common alkali flecking grave when the evidence was all in, and the circumstance.

had been, on appeals for betterment, enough. before the board of directors. It was the one piece of track on the mountain division that trainmen shook their heads over - the Peace river stretch. To run any sort of a line through that gineer. Give him all the money he more himself. Brodie in his day said there was nothing worse in the Andes, and Brodie, before he drifted into the Rockies, had seen, first and last, pretty much all of the Chilean work.

But our men had the job to do with one-half the money they needed-the lines to run, the grades to figure, the culverts to put in, the fills to make, the blasting to do, the tunnel to bore, the bridge to build, in a limit; that was the curse of it-the limit. And they did the best they could. But I will be candid-if a section and elevation of Resamond's bower and a section and elevation of our Peace river work were put up to stand for a prize at a civil engineers' cakewalk the decision would go, and quick, to the Peace river track. There are only eight miles of it, but our men would back it against any eighty on earth for whipping curves, tough grades, villainous approaches and railroad tangle generally.

The directors always have promised to improve it, and they are promising yet. Thanks to what Hailey taught them, there's a good bridge there now -pneumatic caissons sunk to the bed. It's the more pity they haven't eliminated the dread main line curves that approach it through a valley which I brief as a canyon and the mauvaises terres rolled into one single proposi-stretch. Our e eers thread the cuts elevations, hoping some night the except on the Peace.

It was in the golden days of the battered old Wickiup that the story opens, when Blackburn sat in the night chair, the days when the old guard were still there, before death and fame and circumstance had stolen our first commanders and left only us little fellows, their greater stories.

Hailey had the bridges then, and Wetmore the locating, and Neighbor the roundhouses, and Bucks the superintendency, and Callahan, so he claimed, the work, and Blackburn had the night trick.

When Blackburn came from the plains he brought a record clean as the book of life. Four years on a station key, then eight years at Omaha dispatching, with never a blunder or a break to the eight years. But it was at Omaha that Blackburn lost the wife whose face he carried in his watch. I never heard the story, only some rumor of how young she was and how pretty and how he buried her and the wee baby together. It was all Blackburn brought to the West End mountains-his record and the little face in the watch. They said he had no kith or kin on earth besides the wife and the baby back on the bluffs of the Missouri, and so he came on the night trick to us.

I was just a boy around the Wickiup then, but I remember the crowd. Who could forget them? They were jolly good fellows. Sometimes there were very high jinks. I don't mean anybody drunk or that sort, but good tobacco to smoke and good songs to sing and good stories to tell, and, Lord, how they could tell them! And when the pins slipped, as they would, and things went to put things right. Blackburn, as much as I can rememlike nobody else's-a silent, beaming manner. When Bucks would roll a great white Panhandle yarn over his ers over the main line on some kind of fresh linen shirt front and down his men the earth then. Everybody was June 1.

No. 1 and No. 5 trains caught practically all the coast passenger business. They were immensely heavy trains. and three sections of them each way, and they always ran into our division on the night trick. Blackburn handled all that main line business with a mileage of 805, besides the mountain branches, say 400 more; and the passenger connections came off them, mostly at night, for 1 and 5.

Now three men wrestle with Blackthey found out that dispatchers, algood way from civilization and extra at that minute Blackburn stepped into P. M. men. If a dispatcher took sick there was no handy way of filling in; it was just double up and do the best you could.

One lad in the office those days everybody loved-Fred Norman. But he was all light-Yet we do lots of business along that ning-a laughing, restless, artless boy, and are glad to get safely through | There was a better reason still, though, them. Our roadmasters keep up the why they loved Fred-the boy had consumption. That's why he was out in blooming right of way will tumble in- the mountains, and his mother in Deto perdition. Our dispatchers, study- troit used to write Bucks asking about ing under shaded lamps, think of it him, and she used to send us all things with their teeth clinched and hope in Fred's box. Fred brought out a tennis set with him, the first we ever saw ir Medicine Bend, and before he had been playing an hour he had Neighbor, big as a grizzly, and Callahan, with a pipe in one hand and a tennis guide in the other, chasing all over the yard after balls, and Hailey trying to figure forty love, while Fred taught Bucks the Lawforgotten by every better fate, to tell | ford drive. I don't say what he was to me; only that he taught me all I ever knew or ever will know about handling trains, and, though I was carrying messages then and he was signing orders, we were really like kids together. Fred for a long time had the early trick. He came on at 4 in the morning and caught most of the through freights that got away from the river behind the passenger trains. There was no use trying to move them in the night trick. Between the stock trains eastbound and the both way passenger trains, if a westbound freight got caught in the mountains at night the engine might as well be standing in the house saving fuel; there wasn't time to get from one siding to another. So Fred Norman took the freights as they came, and he handled them like a ringmaster. When Fred's whip cracked, by Joe! a ter mechanic sprang at each other in a silent fury. No man dare say where it might have ended had not Fred Norman day they had the rest to do or busiand they had the rest to do-or business to do with the superintendent or hands up-but the blood was gushing with Doubleday, Neighbor's assistant from his mouth.

in the motive power. There was only one tendency in Fred Norman's dispatching that anybody could criticise. He never seemed, after handling trains on the plains, to appreciate what our mountain grades really meant, and when they pushed him he sent his trains out pretty close together. It never bothered him to handle a heavy traffic. He would get the busiwrong, as they will, there were clear ness through the mountains just as heads and pretty wits and stout hearts fast as they could put it at the division, but occasionally there were some hair curling experiences among the freights ber, always enjoyed it, but in a differ- on Norman's trick trying to keep off ent way. He had such times a manner each other's coattails. One night in July there was a great press moving Civil Engineer and Surveyor eight or nine trains of Montana grass-

Fred at 4 o'clock took the steers and sent them train after train through the Rat river country like bullets out of a Maxim gun. It was hot work, and before he had sat in an hour there was a stumble. The engineer of a big ten wheeler pulling twenty-five cars of steers had been pushing hard and at the entrance of the canyon set his air so quick he sprung one of the driver shoes, and the main rod hit it. The great steel bar doubled up like a man with a cramp. It was showing daylight. They made a stop and, quick as ways bared to the elbow, sanding his men could do it, flagged both ways. But the last section was crowding cigar, and Neighbor would begin to into the canyon right behind. They were too close together; that was all there was to it. The hind section split into the standing train like a butcher yell with delight, and the slaves in the knife into a sandwich. It made a

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earn eatly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Julincy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase, bavings Bank Building, Ouincy, will be very glad o confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.) The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the domitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor. The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

> Origin of Two Tavern Terms. The term "entire," so often seen over is said to have first been used about 1722. Prior to that date the malt liqnors in general use were ale, beer and "twopenny." It was usual for tavern of half and half-that is, half ale and half beer, half ale and half twopenny or half beer and half twopenny. In course of time it became customary to call for a tankard of "three threads," meaning a third of ale, beer and twopenny. To save publicans the trouble and waste of turning three taps for one pint of liquor a brewer named Harwood conceived the idea of making a beverage which should unite the flavors of all three drinks. He called his production "entire," or "entire butt eer." As it was considered suitable "Lady Moon," he began unsteadily. for porters and other working people,

There will be no dance in Quincy Music Hall tonight; Mr. Baker having announced the Saturday night dances discontinued until after lent. There will be a dance however on Saturday evening March 17, St Patsick's day.

A large number of people were present at the "old-fashioned dance" in Wollaston hall last evening, and a good time was enjoyed by all. Cuff's orchestra furnished excellent music. The demand for tickets to the series of dances is as great as ever, and about fifty couples are present at each dance.

Services appropriate to the Lenton season will be held at St. Francis church on each Wednesday and Friday evening during the season. The exercises on Wednesday evenings will consist of sermon and benediction, on Friday evenings of the Way of the Cross and benediction. The pastor's return is looked for this week.

Picturesque Kentucky Farm, Where He Was Born, to Be Turned Into a National Park

Scenes Where Martyred President Spent His Early Days Are Not Without Natural Beauties---Humble Features of His Father's One Room Log Cabin. How the Dream of a Distillery Firm's Representatives Was Shattered and the Farm Saved as a Mecca For All Sons of Freedom

complete incarnation of the spirit of democracy seen in our times, is to have one more memo-It is to be nothing less than the farm on which he was born converted into a national park. This has been made possible by the action of Robert J. Collier, publisher of Collier's Week ly, who has purchased the farm and organized the Lincoln Farm association, to which body the property will be turned over. Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri is president of this society, and on its board of trustees are such distinguished names as Mark Twain, William H. Taft, Joseph H. Choate, Henry Watterson, Cardinal Gibbons, Ida M. Tarbell, Horace Porter, William Travers Jerome and Augustus St. Gaudens, the sculptor. The treasurer of the body is Clarence H. Mackay, 74 Broadway, New York. To create a permanent endowment for the purpose of turning the farm into a park and maintaining it as such everybody is requested to contribute from 25 cents to $25 and become a member of the association. Such contributions should be sent to the treasurer direct. It is designed to make this a people's offering, as Lincoln was a people's man. Situated as the farm is, in the heart of Kentucky, the park that is to grow out of it will be nearer the cen- dividual went too far even for Tom ern cities.

BRAHAM LINCOLN, the most be erected. President Roosevelt has suggested that this be called "A Temple of Patriotic Righteousness." Others have proposed that it be named "A Temple of Peace." Whatever the designation finally adopted, some sort of an edifice is certain to be constructed.

Good Story Tellers and Ever Popular. It has been 100 years since Thomas incoln obtained title to the Kentucky farm on which the future president was born. He laid claim to the property in March and went to live on it June 10, 1806. Prior to that time the family had lived in a small shanty in Elizabethtown, where Tom Lincoln had worked at his trade of a carpenter. Later investigations are showing that there has been much injustice done to the father of the war president. He was not entirely the shiftless character he has been painted, but a man

Indiana. It was in Knob creek that the boy almost lost his life, but not in Nolin creek, as is sometimes erroneously stated. It is probable also that when in later life President Lincoln spoke affectionately of his Kentucky home and expressed a desire to revisit It he referred to the Knob creek farm rather than to his birthplace, though he may have had both in mind. A National Shrine. One of the most exciting things about a country boy's life in those days was going to mill. That to which Thomas Lincoln sent his grists was situated about five miles from the Rock spring farm, and he patronized it even after moving to Knob creek. The milling was usually attended to by Abe, who would throw a sack of corn or wheat across the old horse, climb on behind and trudge off in the morning to remain all day waiting for the grist to be ground. It is probable that at such times and when on hunting trips he often revisited the farm on which he was born. However that may be, it is the birthplace in which the American people are interested, and it is here that they are to establish a national

Thomas Lincoln sold this little stony farm of 110 acres to a man by the name of Creal. The reason for the sale was that Lincoln could not pay for it. He was not a very thrifty man, spent much of his time in hunting and telling "yarns," and with the little corn and wheat he could raise on the place and the few odd jobs of carpentering he got to do it was hard to make both ends meet. It was so hard, in fact, that Tom Lincoln never succeeded in getting a clear title to any of the many farms on which he lived.

The Rock spring place remained in well up to the average of those about the hands of the Creal family for sevhim. He was a good story teller, was enty years, after which it was bought always popular, had strong religious by A. W. not keep the place up, for recently it was advertised to be sold for taxes. This announcement was noted in the country papers, but beyond this created little comment. In some way it reached the attention of Robert J. Collier, however, and he realized its significance. It also caused an enterprising firm of distillers in Louisville to sit up and take notice. They decided that a brand of firewater known as "Lincoln Birthplace Whisky" ought to be a good seller, and they decided to gather in that little farm for advertising purposes. So confident were they of being able to do so that they had their labels printed in advance.

The representatives of the distillery had not yet appeared on the scene, and Mr. Jones watched anxiously for the cloud of dust that would herald their coming. When the property was put up at auction there were present as bidders a Wisconsin Grand Army veteran, who lost interest after the price of $2,500 had been reached; a northern newspaper man, who dropped out at $3,000; a New York lawyer, who struck his limit at $3,200, and a Louisville attorney, who was overcome by weariness when the bidding reached $3,500. Mr. Jones got the property. With the papers safe in his inside pocket he started back to Elizabethtown. On the way he met the two Louisville men, who were lugging the remainder of their load; also their dream of "Lincoln Birthplace Whisky,"

That Abraham Lincoln, born in a one room log cabin on a sterile Kentucky farm, should have risen to be the savior of his nation and an inspiration to all mankind is one of the strange romances in the history of the race. There is nothing that quite equals it since the birth in a manger of the original "Man of Sorrows."

A Man That Does Things.

One other strange thing is that Linjust how universal and all inclusive was the great souled liberator. For an environment more radically different men it would be hard to imagine. Collier's father is a New York millionaire publisher. The son was educated at Georgetown university, at Oxford, England, and at Harvard. He married the daughter of James J. Van Alen, another millionaire. Collier moves in the highest society of New York and Newport, is a crack polo player, rides to hounds and affects the other sports indulged in by the Four Hundred. But that he does things is shown by the manner in which he is handling the publication of which he is now the active manager. It is also evidenced by the fact that he was the moving spirit behind the fight made in his paper on Judge Deuel and Colonel Mann of Town Topics, which recently culmi-

Mrs. Miller believes that the pure food legislation is adequate to prevent the sale of many spurious articles in Illinois, but that the lax enforcement of the laws enables manufacturers and dealers to foist impure and doctored

The speaker urged that the subject of pure food is of sufficient importance to health and life to make it worthy a place in the public school curriculum. In the public schoolroom, she declared, the future breadwinners and home makers should be taught how to distinguish between honest and dishonest labels on canned and bottled goods. It would be a great step forward in the process of educating the child to urge them to make collections of labels just as they now collect cigar bands and stamps, declared Mrs. Miller.

"The first thing the clubwoman of Chicago and Illinois should do," declared Mrs. Miller, "is to demand pure There is nothing of greater importance to the home than pure food. A demand should be made by the clubwomen for a general education, a general knowledge of pure food and the existing pure food laws. The housewives and even the children should learn to

To Drink From Gourds. Instead of drinking water from glasses certain persons in Washington soon may be using gourds in old rustic style, says the New York Press. Mrs. Roosevelt is preparing to give such receptacles to several close friends. The gourds are of a new variety, called the Theodore Roosevelt gourd, and are the products of the farm she bought in Virginia last summer. The Roosevelt gourd will hold almost a half gallon. Only two have been delivered in the White House, but there is the promise of a big crop. The president loves to drink from a gourd, and when he is at Plain Dealing he delights to go to the spring and quench his thirst in that primitive way.

Adams Tells of Doings of the Miners' "Inner Circle"

Correboration of Orchard's Confession Regarding Assassination of Steunenberg by Western Federation Men

Boise, Ida., March 3 .- The States-

"The Statesman is authorized to announce that Steve Adams, arrested at Haines, Or., on Feb. 20 in connection with the assassination of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, has made a full and sweeping confession.

"This confession is far more imevening by James McPartland, a dein the presence of Governor Gooding of Idaho and J. H. Hawley, the latter in charge of the prosecution.

"Mr. McPartland added that Adams' confession fully and exactly corroborated that made by Orchard at every point touched on by both.

"Moreover, McPartland continued, Adams knows far more of the workings of the 'inner circle' than Orchard did and was able to give a mass of detailed information that Orchard's confession did not cover. The confession of Adams, he said, corroborated that given by Orchard in every substantial point connected with the assassination of Steunenberg. Adams, however, was not at Caldwell at the time of the assassination, nor was Orchard at the time of the unsuccessful effort to kill Steunenberg in November.

"Still another statement made by Detective McPartland was that the Adams confession gave the details of a large number of murders that were not referred to in any manner by Orchard. It was further stated that the confession had been reduced to writing, signed and acknowledged. It was a voluminous document, covering a greater field and in more detail than was made by Orchard. The further statement was made that Adams had made this confession without being promised anything. When talked with about the matter he simply made a clean breast of all he knew of this case and of the secret workings of the Western Federation.

"It was announced by the governor, Mr. Hawley and Mr. McPartland that while they thought these facts should be given to the public, there would be no further information given out or hinted at respecting the confession."

A Two-Minute Storm Creates Havoc In a Mississippi Ci y

Mobile, Ala., March 3 .- A long distance message to The Item from J. D. Breaux, service man of the Cumberland Telephone company at Meridian, Miss., gives complete details of the eyclone that struck Meridian last evening as follows:

During a heavy rain at 6:40 o'clock a storm cloud developed in the south and moved quickly over the city, striking Front street, the business centre, with full force. The wind was probably blowing 77 miles an hour.

The cyclone passed over in about two minutes and during that period three or four whole squares were devastated. A conservative estimate places the number of buildings blown down at between 30 and 40.

Among the heaviest losers are the Meyer and Neville Hardware company; Tom Lyle & Co., wholesale drygoods and grocers; Joseph H. Moore wholesale drygoods and groceries; the New Orleans and Northeastern railroad freight depot, and oher buildings. The Mobile and Ohio depot is safe, as portant than that made by Harry Or- well as the Southern hotel, but the chard. This statement was made last Grand Avenue hotel was considerably damaged. The guests in the latter tective in charge of the investigation, building escaped, however, and no one was injured.

From the business centre the cyclone jumped to East End, where a number of residences were blown down and others badly damaged. Breaux stated that the number of lives lost is small, probably not more than three or four. Several fires were started as a result of the cyclone, but the only one of serious consequence was that in the compress. All fires were extinguished by 10 p. m. Wires of the telegraph companies are still down.

Odd Fellow Buried.

Stephen B. Burch, whose sudden death by accident took place at Owensboro, Ky., received funeral honor Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his father, J. S. Burch of Squantum street. The Rev. J. G. Miller of the Memorial Congregational church spoke the ministerial consolation, and representative members of Neponset lodge, 84, and America lodge of Odd duties. The former of which the de ceased was a member, bestowed beautiful and abundant floral offerings.

Many friends were present to bestow their final tokens of love and esteem for the one who had gone and sympathy for those left to mourn for him. Miss Mabel Bnrr, Miss Barber and Mr. Cassidy rendered appropriate vocal selections.

It may be said of Stephen Burch, who, so far as life was spared to him, improved its opportunities to their fullest that

Too Late To Recover

The full bench of the supreme court fraudulently to defeat the payment of a judgment of about $21,000 recovered against her for a loan made by the Na tional Granite Bank of Quincy, for whose benefit this suit was brought.

The bank had obtained judgment and took measures to recover the real 282 estate. The land court recently decided 1375 the plaintiff was entitled to judgment for the land. The full bench holds, however, that the suit for the land was brought in that court too late, and was barred by limitation. R. M. Morse, W. H. Leonard and C. H. Hanson; S. 275 H. Tyng and J. F. Why Quincy Backslid

Those who have wondered why Quiny is not the paradise which they had expected it would be, have a possible solution in the story told by H. A. Newton of North Weymouth in the Sunday Herald:

About 100 years ago the "Union Church of Weymouth and Braintree" was organized. It was an offshoot of the Old North church of Weymouth, and a question arose as to whether the new church should adhere to the Trinitarian belief of the mother church or embrace the new Unitarian doctrine.

Mr. Whitney of Quincy or Mr. Lincoln Braintree.

Among the wealthy men of the town started the officers in pursuit. was Capt. James White, who, although a liberal contributor to the financial ceived that Santro was at the colony. end of the church, was not remarkable lish was correct, it was at times somewhat vigorous.

One day he called upon Mr. Perkins,

"Yes, I believe there was some understanding of that kind." "Well, Mr. Perkins, you don't do it

"No, Capt. White. I am afraid Mr. Whitney and Mr. Lincoln do not preach the gospel. "Don't you think the people of Quincy and Hingham have the gospel preached to them?"

"I can't say that I do, Capt. White." "Then why in ---- don't you go over there and preach it to them?"

Russia Will Not Let Go of Northern Manchuria

HELPS AMERICAN TRADE

Campaign of Development Includes Use of Chinese Eastern Railway and Establishment of Steamship Service to Make Vladivostok a Home Port

Washington, March 5.-Russia's renewed attempt to establish a permanent foothold in northern Manchuria by making Vladivostok the port of entry, thereby offsetting the loss of Dalny and Port Arthur, is described in an official report made public at the state department. The report recently reached Washington from one of the department's agents in China. It expresses the belief that this will redound to the development of American trade and will result in a great curtailment of the importance of Shanghai as a distributing point. The extract made public at the department says:

"Since the conclusion of peace between Russia and Japan there has been speculation in the foreign community of Shanghai as to the future opportunity for trade and development in Manchuria, and therefore the negotiations between Japan and China on the one hand and the diplomatic moves of Russia at Tekin have been watched

"If the half of the optimistic views of those who talk from the Russian standpoint concerning northern Manchuria and the Chinese Eastern railway come true, the world will speedily see that as a matter of fact Russia has suffered very little by the outcome of the war as it relates to her development projects in the Far East. In any event, in the Immediate future northern Manchuria seems, according to the present program, indicated as a good field for American enterprise."

Trees as a Monument to Hogg Austin, March 5 .- It has developed that former Governor Hogg, who died on Saturday, on the evening before his death talked at length as to the kind of monument he wished when he should die. "I want no monument of stone," he said, "but let my children plant at the head of my grave a pecan tree and at the foot of my grave a walnut tree, and when these trees shall bear let the pecans and the walnuts be given out among the plain people of Texas, so that they may plant them and make Texas a land of trees."

RUTLAND'S BIG FIRE

Chief Dunton Intended to Resign, but Changed His Mind

Rutland, Vt., March 5.-An unusual situation has resulted from an investigation of the great fire which three weeks ago yesterday destroyed six of the largest mercantile blocks of the city with a loss of $700,000. G. W. Dunton, chief of the fire department for more than seven years, resigned his position because a virtual recommendation that such action be taken was made in the report of the investigating committee. Dunton's resignation was to take effect tomorrow morning.

After a conference with Mayor Manning, however, Dunton stated that he intended to continue in office until the board of alderman accepts his resignation, which action he did not believe the board would take. A meeting of the board will be held tonight, but Dunton says that the mayor told him that it was not the intention of the aldermen to consider his resignation at that meeting.

Comedian Stirred Up Anger

Boston, March 5 .- A mass meeting was held in the Majestic theatre yesterday in commemoration of the birth of Robert Emmet, at which speeches eulogistic of Emmet's life and work were delivered. A sensational feature of the celebration was an outburst of wrath on the part of the audience when a comedian who had been engaged to sing Irish songs essayed to give "a correct imitation of an Irishman coming down the street behind a St. Patrick's day parade." The comedian apologized and explained that he intended

No Brutality In Whipping Salem, Mass., March 5 .- After a thorough investigation into the facts of the case in which Principal Wentworth of the Saltonstall school whipped Harry Russell, 13 years old, it has been decided not to proceed further in the matter and the case will be allowed to drop. The intimation is given that inrestigation showed that there was no brutality on the part of the master of the school, and that he simply administered punishment to the boy in a manner which has been the custom for

In a Pitlable Plight

Damariscotta, Me., March 5 .- Virgit T. Payson, 27 years old, was found in a parn at Newcastle Sunday with both legs frozen to the knees and in such an exhausted condition that it is doubtful if he recovers. Payson was unconscious when discovered in a haymow in the barn, and when he had revived he said that he could remember nothing except walking from Warren to Newcastle, a distance of 18 miles, and entering the barn Tuesday afternoon. He was taken to a hospital.

Used Gas to Take Life

Lynn, Mass., March 5 .- With a rubber tube in his mouth, through which he had inhaled illuminating gas, Charles R. Warner, 36 years of age, an employe of the General Electric company in the draughting department. was found dead in his room at 89 Mall street. Warner boarded with a Mrs. McCoy, with whom he is said to have been infatuated, and upon coming home early Sunday morning had some words with her. A few hours later Warner was found dead

Held on Assault Charge

Bar Mills, Me., March 5 .- Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hanscom were arraigned before a trial justice in connection with the complaints that they had abused Christine M. Webber, aged 10. who lived with them. Hanscom was charged with simple assault, also with assault with a dangerous weapon, with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty and probable cause was found for holding him for the supreme court. Mrs. Hanscom was also held on the charge of simple assault. Thought He Had Consumption

Burlington, Vt., March 5 .- Believing that he was suffering from consumption, Jere H. Lord, a member of the Fifteenth cavalry, committed suicide by shooting. Lord had recently been at his home at Skowhegan, Me., on a furlough because of poor health. Physicians declared that he had no symptoms of serious disease, but Lord persisted in the belief that he was suffering from tuberculosis.

Baby Fell to Death Boston, March 5 .- While playing in the kitchen of his home on the third floor of 54 Billerica street, Moses Rossman, 14 months old, was instantly killed by a fall from the window to the yard of the next house, striking a fire escape and a fence on his way down-DLUMERS HALL at No. 1605 Hancock ward. The child's neck was broken and he sustained bad cuts and severe bruises about the body. Poison Kills Newspaper Man

Augusta, Me., March 5 .- Frank H. Perkins, a newspaper reporter of Plymouth, Mass., aged 55, was found dead in a room in a hotel in this city. The coroner stated that death was due to poisoning, but whether the drug was taken accidentally or with suicidal intent is a matter of conjecture.

Charged With Setting Fire Concord, Mass., March 5 .- William H. Ryan was arrested last night, charged with saving set a fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Frank E. Williams, burning to death 12 cattle and two horses. Williams llever Sons of Nippon Succeed In Securing 3,000 Acres Which Will Be Watered by Government Ditch. How They Compete With Americans In Farming and Take Great Care of Vegetables.

Farmers in Nebraska are now convinced that the Japanese are the real 'yellow peril," since a colony of 600 sons of Nippon has settled along the government irrigation ditch between North Platte and Guernsey, secured control of 3,000 acres of land soon to be watered by the great ditch and is showing American farmers how to make fabulous sums from land supordering a pair of slippers made of posed to be arid by producing large crops of beets and potatoes, says a North Platte special to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Japanese were brought to the North Platte territory last summer to work in the sugar beet and potato fields. They had with them a number workmen employed in making slippers of "business agents," who looked after all the business of the company. Being educated men, these business agents at once saw the advantage of owning lands under the big govern-

These clever Japanese organized cooperative companies last year and secured control of large tracts of land, now holding more than 3,000 acres.

The men will work in the beet and potato fields next summer. They are bright and clean, doing their work intelligently and working every hour of the day. They live cheaply and save much. The money the American beet farmers pay the Japanese will go into the general treasury and will be handled by the "business agents," who will proceed to procure more of the Last year several of the Japanese entered into competition with the Ameri-Weymou'h and was held in $400 for the grand can farmers and planted fields of potatoes and beets. They employed their countrymen and produced big crops Half a section of Nebraska land near North Platte was planted by one Jap in sugar beets, and he took off $200 worth of beets to every acre. Others planted potatoes. One Japanese laborer who came to North Platte a year ago planted forty acres of potatoes, and he has realized $1,385 on the crop, selling them to a firm in Toronto a few days ago for 53 cents a bushel. Records in the North Platte freight office of the Union Pacific Railse farmers who only started last year shipped ninety car-loads of potatoes and four carloads of celery. celery.

Especially at raising celery do the Japanese surpass the American farmers. They are very particular about their framing, and celery requires great care. They aim to have every

"A Japanese laborer is a perfect gar dener." said A. K. Beemis, a ranch man near North Platte, who is a great admirer of the Japanese farmers. "They take such care of everything. They care individually for almost everything they grow, weed out the extra plants carefully if the beets are planted too thick, cover the seed with an even amount of soil, so the plants all sprout together and grow better, there being no little ones for those further advanced to overshadow."

More Japanese are arriving in the North Platte country daily, and the work in the beet fields in that section and parts of Colorado will be done almost entirely by the Japanese laborers this season.

Novel Electric Light Experiments. The Danish Biological society is at present experimenting with electric lighting of the deep strait known as the Little Belt, says the New York Tribune. The lights are far beneath the surface of the waters, so as to light the sea bottom. The intention is not, as might be supposed, to make impossible the clandestine passage of submarines, but purely and simply to frighten the eels and to prevent them from passing into the outer seas and thus being lost to the Danish fisheries. The experiments are based upon the fact that these fish are well known to be afraid of light and never, for example, migrate during the time of a full moon. By the expedient of arranging a whole row of artificial full moons across the mouth of the strait the wily grating at all.

petitions so as to reach villages.

Mr. Conway was asked a number of questions by several of the Councilmen. In answer to these he said the matter of distribution could be arranged later. The road would be in competition with other companies and if it does the business satisfactory, business men will patronize the line. The cars would be large double truck ones with modern $1,000 for Assessors plans for Ward equipment. Negotiation's were now pending with Boston Elevated to run into Boston. The order states that the freight cars shall in no way interfere with the passenger service. The passenger cars to have the right of way.

Henry L. Kincaide appeared as representative of the Citizens' Association to urge favorable action on the petition. He also urged it as a business man. Competition is a thing to be desired. Before the combination of the New York & Boston and Austin-Winslow and Gallagher we were able to get reasonable rates. We can not get them under the new arrangement. With a competing line we would be able to have freight transported at reasonable rates.

We have not been getting the service we should. The Austin-Winslow company have advanced rates. If the trolley freight did not give good service they would not get the business. He believed that certain restrictions and conditions should be imposed.

For the general good of the community it should be granted. He also hoped the line would be extended to West Quincy.

Tuition Fees Not Turned In

*-Re-elected.

Rutland, Vt., March 6 .- After the esignation of Willard A. Fraser, for ight years superintendent of the chools of this city, had been unanimously accepted at the meeting of the school committee last evening, it was announced that $4490 which the city should have received for the tuition of outside pupils was unaccounted for. An investigation of the tuition fees, which are paid to the superintendent, revealed the fact that some of the fees had been paid, but that the city has not as yet received any money.

Resignation Due to Shortage Providence, March 6 .- The resignation of Edward Field as clerk of the municipal court was accepted by the common council last night. Field's resignation was due to the discovery of a shortage of $2488 in his accounts, which his friends made up. He had held office since 1889 and was paid from $2500 to $3000 per annum. Field is one of the best known authors of books dealing with colonial history and

versity conferred the honorary degree of A. B. upon him.

Brown Debaters Beat Dartmouth Hanover, N. H., March 6 .- The debate held at Dartmouth college last night between Dartmouth and Brown was won by Brown. The subject was: That it would be for the best interests of American colleges that no money should be expended for the maintenance, coaching, traveling expenses and equipment of athletic teams engaged in intercollegiate contests, except from the voluntary bona fide contributions of the student body." Brown had the negative side of the subject.

Foreclosure on Cordage Plants Boston, March 6 .- All the property of the Standard Rope and Twine company, otherwise known as the cordage combine, is to be sold under foreclosure proceedings at auction at the Suffolk county courthouse in this city on April B. The corporation has falied to pay the interest due on $2,740,000 bonds of a mortgage was given in 1896 to the Man-

New Owners of Cotton Mills Burlington, Vt., March 6 .- The Burlington cotton mills were sold to the meeting of the stockholders of the local | tation and apparatus during the absence of concern. The sale price is said to be $240,000, and it is announced that the mills will be operated without any ma terial change. The retirement of J. H. Gates, who held the majority of stock in the Burlington mills, is given as the reason for the sale.

Forced to Abandon Steamer Boston, March 6 .- For three days the crew of the British steamer City of Gloucester, from which they were taken by the Norwegian bark Gerd and landed here, kept their leaking vessel's head to a north Atlantic hurricane and her pumps working by breaking up the steamer's woodwork for fuel. finally left her at sunset on March 2 with five feet of water in her hold.

Hub to Have $1,000,000 Temple Boston, March 6 .- In an address be fore the Baptist Social Union last night. Rev. A. C. Dixon announced that plans were under way to construct a great temple on the site of the Dudley Street Baptist church. The building will cost about $1,000,000. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 3000 to 4000. There will also be a gymnasium, bath, swimming pool and library. Priest Accumulated a Fortune

Bridgeport, Conn., March 6 .- It is stated that a private reading of the will Telephone 47-2 of Mgr. Cremin, late permanent rector of St. Augustine's Roman Catholi church, whose death occurred last week, shows an estate estimated at be tween $500,000 and $750,000. Dispatcher's Story

Copyright, 1900, by S. S.

I reread the first order and read again the second. O'Fallon's for No. 1. That was right. O'Fallon's it should be for the Special 202, of course, to meet her. But it wasn't; it was the first station east of O'Fallon's he had ordered the special to run to. It was a lap order. My scalp began to creep. A lap order for the Irving special and the No. 1 passenger, and it doomed them to meet head on somewhere between O'Fallon's

My mouth went sticking dry. The sleet outside had deepened into a hail that beat the west glass sharper, and the window shook again in the wind. I asked myself, afraid to look around, what Blackburn could be doing in Callahan's room. The horror of the wreck mpending through his mistake began to grow on me. I know what I suffered; I ask myself now what he suffered, inside, alone, in the dark. Young as I was I realized that night the meaning of the career to which my little ambition urged me. The soldier, the officer, the general, the statesman, the president, may make mistakes, do make mistakes, that cost a life or cost 10,000 lives. They redeem them and live honored. It is the obscure dispatcher under the lamp who for a single lapse pays the penalty of eternal disgrace. I felt something of it even then, and from my boy's heart, in the face of the error, in the face of the slaughter,

I pitied Blackburn. Callahan's room door opened again, and Blackburn came out of the dark. I had left the table and was standing in front of the stove. He looked at me almost eagerly; the expression of his. face had completely changed. I never in my life saw such a change in so few minutes on any man's face, and, like all the rest, it alarmed me. It was not for me to speak if I had been able, and he did not. He walked straight over to the table, closed the order book, plugged Callahan's house wire again and began calling him. The assistant superintendent answered, and Blackburn sent him just these words:

"You need not come down." I heard Callahan reply with a question: "What is the matter?"

Blackburn stood calmly over the key, but he made no answer. Instead, he repeated only the words, "You need not come down." Callahan, easily excitable always, was wrought up. "Blackburn," he asked over the wire impatiently, "What in God's name is the matter?" But Black-

'Mr. Blackburn," I said, my heart thumping like an injector, "Mr. Blackseemed for the first time to see me. "Is Granite street. there anything," I faltered, "I can do?" Even if the words meant nothing, the Jack," he answered quietly, "there 'sn't." With the words the hall door ulster, threw it wide and stood facing Murray us both. The wind that swept in be-Fizgerald hind him blew out the lamps and left Jason us in darkness.

"Jack, will you light up?" It was Blackburn who spoke to me. But Bucks broke in instantly, speaking to him:

"Callahan called me over his house wire a few minutes ago, Blackburn, and told me to meet him here right away. Is anything wrong?" he asked, with anxiety restrained in his tone.

I struck a match. I was so nervous that I took hold of the hot chimney of the counter lamp and dropped it smash to the floor. No one said a word, and that made me worse. I struck a second match, and a third, and with a fourth got the lamp on the dispatchers' table lighted as Blackburn answered the superintendent. "Something serious has happened," he replied to Bucks. "I sent lap orders at 1 oclock for No. 1 and the Irving special."

Bucks stared at him. "Instead of making a meeting point at O'Fallon's I sent 1 an order to run to O'Fallon's and ordered the special to run to Salt Rocks against 1."

"Why, my God," exclaimed Bucks, "that will bring them together in-the Peace canyon! Blackburn! Blackburn! Blackburn!" he cried, tearing off his storm coat. He walked to the table, seized the order book and steadled himself with one hand on the chair. 534-539 Tremont Building, Boston I never saw him like that. ADAMS BUILDING

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition. To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge. This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary.

Per order of Directors, QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT & POWER COMPANY, By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

Well Known Citizen Passes Away

John S. Gay, a well known resident f Quincy passed away shortly before nidnight at his home on Newcomb place of Brights disease. Mr. Gay was orn in Quincy and has practically made his home here all his life.

He received his education in the pubic schools, and later learned the ousiness of a carriage painter, which ne has followed until failing health obliged him to relinquish active work. During his early life he was employed for a time as instructor in carriage painting at the Westboro reform school, and later he travelled for a time as a varnish salesman.

Of late years, however, he was employed by S. Scammell & Sons as their Point society on Tuesday evening. carriage painter.

St. Petersburg, March 7.-The full text of an imperial manifesto and laws relative to the national assembly and the reorganized council of the empire, the main features of which already have been published, throws a flood of light on the purpose of the government to keep a firm check on the new Russian parliament and to exclude certain subjects from consideration by the people's representatives. The composition of the council of the empire, or upper house of the national assembly with one-half appointed by the emperor and 26 elected from the nobility and clergy, not counting scattering supporters from other classes, seems to insure a conservative, if not a pliable, majority in the council, to block the national assembly should the majority of the latter be in opposition

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earn estly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, Timothy Reed, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad a confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

SIX CITY ELECTIONS

Vermonters Choose Their Officials For the Enstling Year Burlington, Vt., March 7 .- All of the six cities in Vermont elected mayors yesterday. So far as the candidates were concerned there were no surprises. In all of the cities the license question was the chief issue. Two of the cities, Montpelier and Vergennes, changed from license to no-license by very small majorities. The change of these two cities from license to no-license was offset in part by the results in the various towns throughout the state, where in several instances the towns which had previously forbidden the sale of liquor declared in favor of licensing saloons.

In Burlington J. E. Burke, the labor mayor, (Dem.) defeated W. J. Bigelow (Rep.), who conducted his campaign on a platform of retrenchment in city expenditures. At Montpelier J. S. Haley (Cit.) was re-elected without opposition. William Barclay (Dem.) was re-elected mayor of Barre and Harvey Ketcham (Rep.) was returned to office at Vergennes. C. E. Paige (Rep.) was chosen mayor of Rutland, while in St. Albans Mayor Wheeler (Rep.) was re-elected.

Gains For No License

Burlington, Vt., March 7 .- Complete returns from all of the 246 cities and towns in the state show that the license supporters have suffered slight losses. Last year 36 of the towns and cities declared for license, but returns from yesterday's elections cut this number somewhat, only 25 municipalities voting in favor of license.

Quarter Million In Public Bequests Georgetown, Coun., March 7 .- Public bequests totalling over $250,000 are provided for in the will of Edwin Gilbert, president of the Gilbert and Bennett Manufacturing company, who died last week in Crescent City, Fla. In addition to $60,000 and the "Model Farm" given previously announced, are: Northfield seminary, Northfield, Mass., $25,000 Mount Hermon school, Mount Hermo Mass., $25,000; Georgetown pub. schools, $15,000; farm at Branchville $15,000; for care of worthy poor of Georgetown, $10,000. There are several bequests outside New England.

No Hazing at Williams

Williamstown, Mass. March 7 .- Hazng has not been practiced at Williams college in recent years, but at a student meeting held a few days ago it was voted to resume the practice. This ac- month. tion on the part of the undergraduates prompted President Hopkins to denounce hazing from the chapel pulpit, and he ordered the students to hold another meeting to reconsider the matter. 653 Washington Street, Quincy Point At last night's meeting Hopkins made a brief address to the students and then left the hall. The matter was debated and then put to vote, the anti-hazing faction winning, 199 to 139.

Proposed Changes In Liquor Law Boston, March 7 .- It was agreed upon by the legislative committee on liquor laws in executive session at the state house to recommend to the legislature that the screen law and the abutter's law be repealed. Members of the committee will confer with Attorney General Malone, who will be requested to draw the proposed amendments to the liquor law. The committee also considered the so-called semi-colon law and members of the committee stated Civil Engineer and Surveyor, and members of the committee stated to recommend a 12 o'clock closing law

Citizens Afraid of Hydrophobia Marlboro, Mass., March 7 .- The fear of hydrophobia has become so great in this city that Mayor Parsons is to call a special meeting of the board of aldermen to deal with the matter. The dog, it is stated, had bit a number of canines in this city and David H. O'Connell was bitten in the face. Weavers Form New Union

Fall River, Mass., March 7 .- Weavers representing fellow-workers in this city, New Bedford, Lawrence, Lowell and Baltic, Conn., met here and formed Federation of Weavers. The new organization may have the effect of not only making a material reduction in the ranks of the United Textile Workers, but it will undoubtedly place itself beyond the pale of the American Federation of Labor unless an amicable adjustment can be arranged.

Killed by Live Wire

Portland, Me., March 7 .- Irvin L Field, 42, employed in an electric leht power station, was standing on a ladder taking some measurements at the switchboard when the ladder slipped slightly. The motion startled Field and to save himself from a fall he unconsciously pushed his hand out against the board and over a live wire. He was instantly killed.

Preacher Swallowed Morphine Oldtown, Me., March 7 .- S. E. Yates, aged 50, committed suicide at a local hotel by drinking a quantity of morphine. Yates' home was at Brookton and he did considerable preaching in that vicinity.

Killed Two Theatrical Men

Gaffney, S. C., March 7 .- The jury in Real Estate, Insurance, Mortgages the case of George Hasty, indicted for the murder of Milan Bennett and Ab-bott Davison, members of the "Nothing" Furniture Packed and Stored. Carpets taken up, Cleaned and Relaid. But Money" Theatrical company, brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree, accompanying it with a recommendation to mercy. He was immediately sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Bondsmen Superseded

The personal bondsman is fast becoming obsolete; the risk to private fortune is too great.

The corporate bond is just as rapidly supplanting the old form; and, in time, men will marvel that they were ever called upon to incur the danger of personal suretyship.

In point of safety, convenience and propriety, there can be no comparison between the two; the one is just as weak and perilous as the other is strong and safe.

The time is near when it will be thought as reasonable to borrow the key of a friend's safe as to borrow his name for surety purposes. Persons who are required to give bonds should apply to

Hamilton Heard Something of Criminal Proceedings

RETURNS FROM EUROPE

He Declares That Though His Health Is Far From Good He Is Ready to Accept Any Challenge Reflecting Upon Him

New York, March 7 .- Andrew Hamilon returned to New York on the steamer Deutschland, on which he was registered under the name of W. Milton. Hamilton was at the head of the legislative bureau of the New York Life Insurance company and had charge of the legislative work of several of the large companies. To obtain an accounting from him of moneys alleged to have been advanced to him by the late John A. McCall as president of the New York Life, John C. McCall, secretary of the company, went to Paris recently. The accounting was asked for by the Fowler committee which is investigating the New York Life's affairs. Mr. Hamilton's statement was also placed before the legislative investigating committee.

When John C. McCall met Hamilton in Paris and urged his return to this country Hamilton said that his physicians would not permit his return. Hamilton's connection with the New York Life was mentioned at length in a recent report of the Fowler committee and it was urged that he should return to New York. John A. McCall, shortl before his death, sold his Long Branch home in order to return to the New York Life moneys which it is alleged he advanced to Hamilton without proper vouchers. McCall maintained, both during the insurance investigation and after he resigned the presidency of the company, that he would trust Hamilton with every penny he had.

Commenting upon McCall's death, Hamilton said that he gave the former president of the New York Life vouch ers for all expenditures, and that to any and all of these vouchers McCall would have given a certificate of indisputable TO LET-Large Stable, $12 per character. He said that he registered under an assumed name on the Deutschland in order to have his return voyage free from annoyance.

"I have something to say," he said, "but not much. I know practically nothing as to the nature of the Fowler report. It will be time enough for me to talk about it when I have become familiar with it. "What I suppose you want to know is why I have returned. Well, I heard something about criminal proceedings. and here I am. This signifies that though my health is far from being reestablished, I'm ready to accept any challenge implied by such proceedings. As to my health let me add that there is no necessity for any resort to fiction I'm fortunate to be alive after all that has happened. But I'm not so fortunate

FROM "INNER CIRCLE"

Alleged Dynamite Plot of Union

and Thomas Weir, two members of the Structural Iron Workers' union, were arrested last night, following their indictment by the grand jury on charges of attempting to explode dynamite in a place where human lives were endangered. The men were arraigned and held for trial in $1500 bail each. It is alleged they were concerned in a plot to dynamite a building being erected in East 23rd street by Post & McCord, who have recently been employing nonunion men

Assistant District Attorney Nott stated that John Guthrie, a third member of the party alleged to have been engaged in the dynamite plot, and who was arrested with Moran and Weir at the time the plot was discovered, had appeared before the grand jury and revealed the whole scheme

Guthrie, according to Nott, confessed that he learned of the plan of the iron workers to dynamite the buildings over which the firm of Post & McCord were In charge. Guthrie went to Post & Mc-Cord and told them what he had learned and at the firm's advice, and at its expense, Guthrie joined the union and became a member of the "inner circle." Guthrie told how he had been designated one of a committee of three, to consist of Moran, Weir and himself, to dynamite the building in East 23rd street. He says he notified the police and the conspirators were arrested when they appeared on the scene.

Shonts Before Canal Commission Washington, March 7 .- Chairman Shonts of the isthmian canal commission, under examination by the senate canal committee, answered questions concerning the plans for the construct tion of the great waterway and his relations to the organization. Incidentally he left the inference that he would sever his connection with the Clover Leaf route if this was demanded of him, but that he would not take his family to the isthmus. He urged congress to take action immediately on the type of canal to be constructed, economical procedure on the part of the canal commission demanding such action.

Bucks was pacing the floor. Callahan stuck silent to the key, taking what little work came, for I saw neither of the chiefs wanted to trust Blackburn at the key. He sat looking, for the most part, vacantly into the fire. Callahan meantime had the orders repeated back from Ames and Rosebud. It was as Blackburn had said; they did lap; they had been sent just as the order book showed. There was nothing for it but to wait for Rosebud to hear from No. 1. When the night to hear fro operator there called the dispatcher again it brought Blackburn out of his gloom like a thunderclap.

German Contention For Collective Action by Powers Met With Convincing Argument From Russian Delegate--Ambassabut good work is being done under the der Sternberg Stirred Up

'King Rem's Daughter," on which the Algeciras, March 6 .- Yesterday afternoon's sitting of the conference on Moroccan reforms was marked by an 17th, when it is hoped all members of unexpected and important move on the the club who sing will attend the part of the Russian delegates, who laid pefore the conference an exposition of the police question. The document, which minutely goes over the existing William R. Lord of Rockland, formerly situation in Morocco and analyzes the position of the various powers, conand Culture." Mr. Lord is a most cludes with an argument for the propoentertaining speaker and is a lover of sition that France and Spain are the most fit to be entrusted with the task of controlling the police force which is Interest in the Quincy Women's club continues unabated, judging by the about to be created.

The British, Spanish and Portuguese delegates expressed their concurrence in the Russian views. Italy, however, though inclined to favor the scheme, reserved final approval. Count Von Tattenbach, the junior German delegate, Henry White, the chief of the American delegation, and the delegates there will be vacancies at the end of of the several neutral powers did not express their views.

The French and British delegates to he conference regard the expressions from the Mediterranean powers as likey to exert great influence on the final ote of the neutrals relative to the poleing of Morocco.

An official communication shows that Herr Von Radowitz, the first German delegate, also joined in the discussion of the police question, and admitted March 13th meeting to receive the anthat of necessity the police force must be organized by the sultan, but he claimed that there should be participation by all the powers represented at the conference.

The German delegates' contention, therefore, is directly opposed to the Russian suggestion, as Baron Bacheracht, a Russian delegate, argued that nefficacy of collective action by the powers in Morocco had been proved by ternational sanitary committee at Tangier. He pointed out that French officers' experience with Mussulmans, and Spanish officers' experience with Riffians, had placed them in the best position to control the Moorish elements. which eventually must form the main body of the police by which the security of foreigners is to be assured and commerce facilitated.

M. Revoll, the senior French delegate, expressed France's willingness to accept the Russian suggestion, following on with the proposal that the police force shall consist of 2000 Moors distributed at eight ports, each having four European non-commissioned officers and the whole being under command of with the sultan's assent and who shall become Moorish officials.

The Spanish delegates strongly supported joint Spanish and French control, arguing from the point of view that the proximity of those countries

Germany Not Seeking Trouble

Washington, March 6 .- Criticism of Germany's course at Algeciras and charges that the German emperor is seeking there an excuse for trouble with France, rather than an agreement about Morocco, which have been current in Washington for some time, have received an emphatic reply from Baron Von Sternburg, the German ambassador, who discussed them in the course of a conversation with a press correspondent.

"The time has come for plain speech," the ambassador said. "Enough has poured into America from European sources about Germany's intentions.' The ambassador then proceeded to deny in the most emphatic terms the charge that Germany wanted war.

"It was for the specific object of reaching a peaceable arrangement that my government urged the conference at Algeciras," he said. Von Sternburg declared that Germany was contending for a very important principle at Alge-

"Important as is the German trade with Morocco," he said, "the commercial side of the question is of secondary consideration. Germany's policy has been and is to preesrve the status quo in all countries whose rights rest on the laws of nations. It is this policy alone which has enabled Emperor William to maintain peace in Germany since the time he became the leader of Germany 19 years ago and to keep her out of the wars in which the great powers have since been engaged."

For Italian Banker's Son New York, March 7 .- A banker's son kidnapped and held for $20,000 ransom is the latest puzzle the New York police have been called upon to solve. The parents, frantic with fear, have received two letters from the boy, implorng that the sum mentioned be sent to his captors. The kidnappers themselves have twice written, demanding proaches," said the bride. "I guess I'm the ransom on penalty of the lad's the most excited person in town at this $20,000 is Antonio Bozuffi, the 14-yearold son of a leading Italian banker of newspaper offices."-Catholic Standard the upper East Side. The kidnapping occurred last Sunday, on which day the bank is kept open during the afternoon. The boy was sent out to purchase $10 worth of stamps and did not return. Inquiry proved that he had made the purchase. Monday the first letter came from the lad. Yesterday Old Grumleigh-Then what do you came the second and with it the letters of the abductors. The latter were well written and in Italian. The boy's first letter said he was held captive in Brooklyn. After asking that the money be paid, the note concluded: "Do not advise the police under any circumstances, because if you do my life will leave this world."

One of the letters from the boy's capors contained this sentence: "Our cope, Signor, is not vindictiveness. It s solely the extreme necessity which exists for the possession of the sum indicated. Upon your consignment of the money all at once, without default, your son will be set free and safe."

March 8 is the day set for the paynent of the ransom.

Looking to United States Algeciras, March 7 .- Considerable peculation prevails concerning the attude of the United States in the police juestion before the conference on Moroccan reforms. Both the British and the French delegation are inclined to the belief that America will soon break er present silence. The French delegates even suggest that the United States should instruct its delegates to declare openly in favor of the French roposal if they are satisfied that these roposals offer the proper guarantees for the maintenance of the equality of ommercial rights. Such an event night, the Frenchmen argue, mean the difference between failure or success of the conference.

Od Men Have Big Salaries

Washington, March 7 .-- A provision imiting the salaries of government elerks over 65 years old to $1000 a year has been attached to the legislative appropriation bill which a sub-committee will report to the house committee or appropriations. It is shown that $2. 000,000 is paid annually to clerks in Washington over 65 years of age and that 77 percent of these clerks receive more than $1000 annually.

Cancellation of Big Contracts

Philadelphia, March 7 .- One of the first official acts of Thomas L. Hicks who was yesterday sworn in as direc or of public works, was to annul the five contracts held in the name of Daniel J. McNichol for the construction of parts of the city's filtration system because of alleged fraud. The total value of the cancelled contracts is $1,976,000.

DEBATE OVER A RIOT

Leads Up to a Crisis Which May Have Important Bearing on the Franco-German Controversy Over the Control of Morocco

Paris, March 8 .- The Rouvier ministry was defeated in the chamber of deputies last night and immediately resigned. The cabinet crisis comes at a most dramatic moment, when the Franco-German contest has reached a decisive stage, and may exert an important adverse influence on the Algeciras conference and on European af-

The defeat of the government came suddenly, on a comparatively minor debate over the church disorders. The government succeeded in holding only 234 votes, while the various elements in opposition-Clericals, Socialists and Nationalists-polled 267 votes, thus placing the ministry in a minority of 33.

Premier Rouvier, with all of his colleagues, immediately proceeded to the foreign office, where a joint letter of resignation was prepared. Later Rouvier presented this letter to President 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 Fallieres, who accepted the resigna-

The debate in the chamber of deputies was upon the bloody riot Tuesday during the inventory of a church in the village of Boeschepe, resulting in the death of a manifestant. Various orators severely criticised the government's course, asserting that it threat ened to precipitate a religious warfare Premier Rouvier responded:

"SLEEPING SICKNESS"

Probably 200,000 Persons Never Awakened From It

Berlin, March 8 .- Professor Robert Koch lectured here on the "sleeping sickness" which he investigated for several months in equatorial Africa during the year 1905. The malady, said the professor, had been known on the west roast of Africa since the beginning of the last century and it had spread to the north shore of the Victoria Nyanza and threatened German Africa. Probably 200,000 persons had died from the disease. He had found whole villages on the shore of Victoria Nyanza to be empty and the population of some groups of islands had died to the last

The infection was spread from human to human by the sting of a fly, the glossina palpalis, somewhat larger than an ordinary fly. The poison affected the usual health for several days and then the sufferer was attacked with fever, became incoherent, and glands were swollen, the patient became enfeebled and eventually was seized with the sleep mania. Koch knew of no remedy for this disease, but hoped the infection might be ended by the extermination of the insect which propagated it by slowly burning the undergrowth at its favorite home.

LURED INTO A CELLAR

and Robbed of His Money and Clothing -- Policeman Has a Hair-Raising Chase For Thief

Boston, March S .- William T. Schofield of Calais, Me., was robbed of his money, stripped of his clothing and left nearly suffocated in the cellar of a house in the South End yesterday afternoon, but two energetic policemen, after an exciting and at times perilous chase over the housetops, capturing his assailants, recovered the money and clothed him again in his own raiment, while a physician revived him.

Schofield has been staying at 365 Huntington avenue since his arrival from Maine. Yesterday afternoon he strolled over to the South End and there picked up three chance acquaintances, two of whom told him that they had had a dispute and asked him to go with them to a house on Shawmut avenue as referee of a fight which was to settle the affair. Schofield, having a little time on his ands, agreed, and the party went to 185 Shawmut avenue. Before they entered the house one of the three ac quaintances disappeared, but Schofield lid not suspect a plot until he was invited down cellar and there bound, gagged and knocked down. His money was taken from him and his clothing stripped off and before the men left him they stuffed his head into a bag. A woman in an opposite house saw the party, however, and notified the police, so that when the two men came out of the cellar they found two officers just entering the house. Both men jumped for the stairs, and one ran straight to the roof, while the other, who had Schofield's clothing, locked himself in a room on the first floor. One of the officers gave chase upstairs, but the other went into the back yard, reaching if just in time to receive a blow from one of Schofield's boots, which had, with the rest of the clothing, been thrown from the window.

The first officer reached the skylight in time to see his man far out on the sloping roof near the gutter. The officer crawled after him, but the man walked along the gutter until he reached the next house, and then clambered up the roof to the skylight. He wrenched it open and ran down through 183 Shawmut avenue, much to the surprise and consternation of the inmates. with the policeman close at his heels. The officer caught him two blocksup the street. In the meantime the sec ond officer had captured his man, and earned from him of Schofield's plight.

At the station the arrested men gave their names as William Shea, 29 years old, and Stephen McDonough, aged 30. The police recognized both men and they will be arraigned on a charge sault. Schofield had resumed his cloth ing and appeared at the station in time to identify the men and claim his

THE RATE PROBLEM

Court Review Amendment Pro posed by Bailey

IT STANDS A GOOD SHOW

President Said to Find the Provision Satisfactory--The Whole Question of Economy In Railroad Management Comes Up

Washington, March 8 .- There is good prospect of an aggressive Democratic novement for the settlement of the rate controversy. Senator Bailey has drafted an amendment providing for the kind of court review that the president and those who favor radical rate legislation want, and Bailey is now showing his scheme to his Democratic colleagues, and as soon as assured that t will command solid party support, difficulty. t will be introduced.

If has been shown to the president, nd apparently meets his views. If it should turn out satisfactory to the White House, to the Dolliver Republicans and to the Democrats it would stand a good charice of passage; or at who sincerely desire that the legislation | murder of his sister, Mrs. Alice C. Everybody wants "court review." The difference relates to the degree of fully from his malady. Arrangements court review, whether it shall constitute | will be made that Hill report every 30 retrial of the case, making the courts drivally an appellate branch of the interstate commerce commission, or whether court review shall be more closely limited. Bailey has tried to work out in his amendments the conception of the court review which is in the president's mind, and also Bailey's own heory of what ought to be done.

Senator Bailey's amendment, besides conomy of railway management by declaring the power of the interstate breakers. commerce commission to fix rates that would be "justly compensatory" instead of "remunerative," as in the present bill. Bailey urges that if the bill is left as at present it will be possible for a railroad to defend a high rate on the ground that it is only remunerative, when in fact the road is conducted extravagantly and the rate is far from ust. Under the language he would use, t would be possible to bring up the whole question of economy in manage-

This is the argument for the broadest measure of court review, the degree to which the president is avowedly opposed.

Many amendments are flying around the senate, but none which deserve to be magnified as basis of compromise. There is no need of a decision yet. Neither side will yield so early in the controversy, when so many influences remain to exert themselves on both sides. The search for an agreement will continue for some days. heriff Shot at Suspicious Characters, but Without Effect

Portsmouth, N. H., March 8 .- That two men whom Sheriff Collis of Rockingham county surprised in the jail yard last night were either trying to rescue the two prisoners that held up the St. John express at Rockingham Steam Heat, Electric Lights, New Plumbing. Junction last month and killed an Ital ian, or were making an inspection of the jail in anticipation of such an effort, is the belief of the county authorities and the local police. The two strangers escaped by scaling the yard fence and neither has been captured.

The sheriff has thought that an efort might be made to rescue the two andits and they have been guarded vith great care. Last evening about 10 'clock the sheriff was returning to the fail by way of an alleyway in the rear which gave him a view of the prison yard. On looking over the fence he saw a man skulking along on the opposite side of the yard near a fence. The sheriff hailed him and, when the man turned, the sheriff fired four shots at him. One of the party was out of her element. This was Marie de Tour, a young girl from the provinces. Her family had sunk from comparative affluence to poverty, and she had recently come to Paris to study art. She had no knowledge of Paris or Paris customs and had taken up with these companions simply because she chanced to be thrown with them. She did not realize that they were not safe associates for a pure young girl. The ball she had attended was something very strange to her, and the mad pace they were going in the automobile and their shouts and songs were discordant to her. She did not drink wine or join in the shouting and singing. Gradually she began to feel an inexpressible dread.

"Ask him not to go so fast," she said to her companion. "Mlle de Tour wishes you to go fast-

An Argument Against Commissions

It was brought out before the committee on roads of the Legislature this week that a deadlock over the apportionment of the cost of the new Weymouth Fore River bridge was costing Norfolk County $4000 a year, to meet which the county was borrowing the money. Perhaps Quincy will ultimately have to pay the larger part of this interest charge.

Two Odd Volumes.

The book done by a French monk who instead of writing the words cut the letters from the vellum page and formed a sort of stencil has its opposite in a Swedish translation of the four gospels, which was done in gold and silver leaf. The initial letters are cut from thin sheets of beaten gold done in delicate tracery, while the body of the text is of heavy silver. The foil is cemented to the parchment page with an adhesive which in spite of the undoubted antiquity of the book has not lost The Committee on Public Buildings its powers. CONSUMPTION OF LIQUOR.

Norway 1s the Least Intemperate of All the Nations

Americans are only moderate drinkers compared with those of other countries. The average citizen of the United States, counting in the women and children (which is not fair, but serves for the moment as a basis to figure upon), consumes in the course of a year liquors which contain one and a third gallons of pure alcohol. But the Frenchman, who, though formerly one of the soberest, has become the worst drunkard in the world, absorbs annually three and a half gallons of alcohol. The Belgian and the Swiss come next, with a consumption of two and fourfifths gallons. ECSTASIES OF MECCA.

Scene at the Annual Visitation of Mohammedan Pilgrims.

Mecca, at the season of the annual visitation of Mohammedan pilgrims, is thus described in Everybody's in "With the Pilgrims to Mecca," translated from the narrative of Ibu Jubayr Ali of Bandar Adas: "Like a gigantic catafalque, somber, shrouded in mystery, the Kaaba rises out of the seething sea of white garbed humanity that crowds the great sacred square of Mecca. Its door is covered with plates of solid silver studded with silver nails. From the exterior of the roof, above a stone marking the sepulcher of Ishmael, which lies at the base of the northern wall, there projects a horizontal, semicircular rain spout five yards long, twenty-four inches wide, made of massive gold. Within the roof is supported by three columns of aloe wood; the walls are hung with red velvet alternating with white squares in which are written in Arabic the words, 'Allah-Jal-Jelalah' ('Praise to God, the Almighty'). The building is packed with pilgrims, praying, weeping, beside themselves in an ecstasy of passionate devotion. Mingled with their voices there rises from outside the chant of the Talbih, the song of the winding sheet, which every pilgrim must sing on entering Mecca, on donning the sacred Ihram, on entering the Haram, and on starting for Mina, the valley of desire, and Arafat, the moun-

It is possible that entries will be made from Australia and Don't stand for it. South America.

The real contest will likely be beween Clay McConagil and Ellison Caroll. However, there are other cowboys in Oklahoma who claim they can rope steers in quicker time than either Mc-Conagil or Carroll. Carroll wrested the championship from McConagil a year ago and cattlemen predict he is destined to keep it.

The greatest roping contest in the world perhaps up to that time was last one in the car. Now, let's do it." arranged for at San Antonio, Tex., in 1905, during the Christmas holidays. The contest was to be for the championship of the world, and it was thought, of course, that hundreds of ambitious cow punchers would enter the battle for supremacy.

Clay McConagil of Texas then held the championship, and his prowess was so well known and feared that only one man had any hope of being able to beat him. That was Ellison Carroll of Mangum, Okla., and even he was looked on as being foolhardy in his ambition. When the entries were closed it was discovered that only two contestants had qualified. Clay McConagil had been the champion for so many years that at the last minute even the sturdy kings of the range had suddenly been seized with that most unpleasant feeling, "loco." The steers were corralled in a small pen at one corner of the baseball park on the outskirts of the town. The contest was to see which man could rope and tie thirty-six of these animals in the shortest time. Thousands of cowboys and their wives, daughters and sweethearts, from all over the southwest, who had seen many previous contests of the kind, declared the battle to be the greatest ever waged.

McConagil gave up on the twentyeighth steer and acknowledged that he was badly defeated. Owing to inclement weather and the further fact that some of the cattle had escaped he agreed to surrender in favor of Carroll, McConagil being then more than three minutes behind his opponent, with no chance to win in the remaining trials. Carroll made the marvelous record of roping and tying twenty-eight steers in 18 minutes and 58 1-5 seconds, his The polar quest! Life's offer to the best time on one being 21 4-5 seconds. His average on the twenty-eight was 40 3-5 seconds. McConagil's average was 46 4-5 seconds, and his best time erwhere for one was 28 seconds flat, though he had a previous record of 211/2 seconds, made at El Paso some years ago.

Carroll rode three different horses during the tourament-Jack Hill, Red Buck and Necktie.

The occasion was the "baby ball" given by Mrs. Alexander Brown. The handsome ballroom was turned into an immense nursery. The young men came in knickerbockers and the women in short frocks. All the guests were lined up when Miss Harriet riage, pushed by Miss Mary Van Lear (Okla.) correspondent of the St. Louis Findlay as a "black mammy" and at-Miss Bessie Beale Wilson. 'PUNCH, BROTHERS, PUNCH' Preacher Advocates Using Force or Obnoxious Car Conductors.

The Rev. Frank B. Reazor, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church at West Orange, N. J., in a talk to the mempers of the Men's club of St. Paul's Episcopal church at East Orange the other night advocated the use of a 'good, strong right arm" in dealing with insolent conductors on trolley cars, says an East Orange special to the New York Times. He also suggested the formation of a "Society For the Amelioration of the Condition of Street Car Passengers and the Suppression of Brutal Conductors.'

"We are up against a condition to day," said the clergyman, "that is growing worse. It is the brutality and shameful conduct of some of the employees of our street corporation companies. The gruff manner of these men is disgusting, and there seems to be no remedy but to leave the matter to an organization which will regulate it. I am a man of peace, and I do not like to advise any one to do anything rash, but I will confess that often I am tempted to throw out my right hand when I see a conductor say to some tired woman, 'G'wan.' western city of 75,000, I have the honor floral tributes. and pleasure, on behalf of the citizens of Des Moines, of presenting to the officers and men of this cruiser this slight token of our esteem and appreciation. the meeting of the Wollaston Unity

"American history is filled with darng and wonderful achievements of her ships and sailors. From Paul Jones to with victory and honor. There have been few defeats, but many victories, especially the city of Des Moines, are nonored in that this cruiser is to bear J. Gurney. in the future its share of the victories on numerous seas, telling the story of liberty and freedom, typical of our govrment and our grand nation. "I now present this bell, the gift of the citizens of Des Moines.

Commander Halsey accepted the gift. Then came an oration by S. B. Allen and the poem which was read by Milo Ward.

The ceremonies were witnessed by the crew who were massed on the port side. The visitors took pleasure in inspecting the crusier, and were hospitably entertained.

Des Moines first wished to give the ship a big silver punch bowl or a silver service. Certain interests opposed that. Fresh Killed Fowl, Telephone 47-2 Finally a silver bell was decided upon "Table" Brand Wax Beans, as the most appropriate. But it was Pastry Flour, 1-8 barrel, found that the solid silver bells of some of the other U. S. ships were practically useless, being too soft and of no tone, so a tin and copper bell was decided

> Then how to embellish it caused a warm controversy, and finally it was decided to place the city seal in bas relief, and about eight inches in size upon the bell, and underneath the simple inscription that it was "the gift to the U. S. cruiser Des Moines by the citizens of the city of Des Moines, Ia."

Jolly Evening

> Pine Tree Club of Braintree Entertained by Local Club

Of the many pleasant gathering held under the auspices of the State of Maine, or Pine Tree Club, that of 241 Thursday evening takes rank as among

The meeting was, as usual, held in Colonial hall, and besides a large atten-219 dence of the club's own members, forty 225 or more members of the Pine Tree Club 214 of Braintree were present as special 250 guests.

It was a jolly crowd, and a jolly time they had. There was not an idle moment during the entire evaning, and the merry peals of laughter that resounded through the hall and corridors for which the cruiser was named, in-

The evening's pleasure started in with the singing of a song entitled erybody sang and that their hearts were with the song, no one could doubt.

Then came a brief address on the State of Maine by C. H. Brigham, followed by a song by Mrs. Blanche Rich-

The next number on the program was by Mr. Giles of Boston, who gave several readings. His selections were all sired.

The literary part of the evening's entertainment closed with brief remarks

Ices and cake were then served and dancing was in order until midnight, music being furnished by Mrs. Rhines. There was some of the modern dances and there were some of the good old times kind. Some of those which wake they had it, and it was with a sigh of regret when it was realized that the hour of parting had come. The affair was in the hands of an efficient committee who did their part well.

Teachers Going West.

The next convention of the National Educational Association, which will be held in San Fransisco from July 7 to July 14 is destined to leave pleasant recollections with all who will attend, for the rest of their existence. The people of California, and of the whole Pacific coast vie with each other to extend to the visitors a cordial and generous welcome and make them wish to come again. San Fransisco has earned the reputation for lavish hospitality and, with the aid of the leading men and women of the coast, will strive to maintain that reputation with the teachers.

THREE INDICTED

Officers of Mutual Reserve Are Dealt With by Grand Jury

MONEY FOR LAW FIRMS

Said to Have Been Illegally Obtained by President and First and Second Vice Presidents --Larceny and Forgery Charged

New York, March 9 .- Indictments charging grand larceny in the first degree and forgery in the third degree by Frederick A. Burnham, president; George D. Eldridge, first vice president, and George Burnham, Jr., second vice president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, have been found by the grand jury.

In all, five indictments were brought against each officer, two for grand larceny and three for forgery. The alleged larceny and forgery was brought about, according to the indictments, by payment of $9000 of the company's money to law firms, the apparent purpose of which is alleged to have been to settle claims against the company, while the real object is alleged to have been to settle actions which had been brought against officers of the company as individuals.

The indictments on which a charge of larceny is based alleged that the officers embezzled two sums, one of $7500 and the other of $1500 on Oct. 24, 1901. In the first case of alleged forgery the indictment charges that $7500 was entered in the cash book as paid to Nicholls & Bacon, attorneys of P. P. Armstrong, to settle a claim of Armstrong against the insurance company arising out of a contract between him and the company. In fact, however, the indictment charges, the money was paid to Nicholls & Bacon in settlement of an action which they, as attorneys

The second indictment for forgery charges that the defendants caused the item of $1500 to be entered on the comthem to the company. In reality, declares the indictment, the money was paid with instructions to turn it over to the attorney of J. D. Wells to reimburse Wells for disbursements which he claimed had been made by him in deby F. A. Burnham individually and by G. D. Eldridge individually, and in order to induce Wells to consent to a discontinuance of those actions.

The third indictment for forgery is based on the payment of $5000 of the company's money on Sept. 24, 1901. was entered in the cash book as made to Schell & Elkus for legal services. The real purpose of this payment is, however, alleged to have been for delivery to Baldwin & White, attorneys for J. T. Patterson, for the purpose of settling one action which Patterson had settling one action which Patterson had previously brought against the company and against F. A. Burnham and and three actions which had been brought against Patterson, one by Eldridge, individually, one by Burnham and one by the

NERVOUS COLLAPSE

Juryman's Affliction Causes Stoppage of Cooper Trial

Augusta, Me., March 9.-The trial of Mrs. Alice F. Cooper of South-Windsor. charged with the murder of Charles D. Northey, Jr., came to an unexpected stop last night when the jury was excused by Judge Peabody on account of the sickness of one member of the panel, Charles C. Lawrence.

Wednesday night, after the jury had been formafly impanelled, Lawrence suffered a slight attack of nervous prostration. He was unable to sleep and the services of County Physician Sturtevant were required yesterday. Dr. Sturtevant advised that Lawrence be withdrawn from the murder case, but in the hope that his condition would improve, Lawrence accompanied the rest of the jury to South Windsor to view the scene of the tragedy. Upon his return to this city he suffered another nervous collapse and was obliged to take to his bed.

Last night Judge Peabody had the jury brought before him. He gave them a formal discharge from the case, but directed them to refrain from discussing the case in any way. The question has now arisen whether a large number of new venires shall be issued to secure a new jury or whether the remaining 11 jurors shall serve with a new member added.

Mrs. Cooper, who accompanied the jury and court officers to South Windsor, continues in a cheerful frame of mind, as has been the case since her arrest last October. She remains at liberty under bail.

Marchioness Killed by Auto Rome, March 9 .- The Marchioness of Corsini was crushed to death last evening by the overturning of an automo-The marchioness, who was 62 years old, was driving the automobile, her husband, aged 69, sitting beside her. While crossing a bridge the auto ran into the parapet with such violence that the parapet gave way and the automobile was thrown from the bridge into a ditch 15 feet below, turning completely over as it fell. The marquis and the chauffeur escaped without a scratch. News of the accident was telephoned to Rome and Queen Helena hastened to the scene of the tragedy, where she took the marquis and the dead body of the marchioness into her own automobile and carried them to the Quirinal.

Greene Found Not Gulty Washington, March 9 .- George E.

Green, a former state senator of New York, who has been on trial here for more than two weeks on charges of conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States and to defraud the government in connection with the time recording clocks to the postoffice department, was acquitted. The verdict was reached after four hours' delibera-

Mine Workers in Race Riot Duquoln, Ills., March 9 .- A lively race riot occurred between negroes and Hungarians employed in the coal mines at Zeigler and several combatants on both sides received injuries, but no deaths have been reported. Assistance Needed at Meridian Meridian, Miss., March 9 .- The finance committee reports that subscriptions to the tornado sufferers have reached $21,000. The needs are great and the amount so far contributed is inadequate. Five thousand dollars has been expended for daily relief and the demand is growing, while no effort is feared that the peace is only tempo-

being made at permanent relief. War on Tuberculosis

Washington, March 9 .- A crusade against the spread of tuberculosis among the employes of the government service in Washington has been directed by President Roosevelt, who has issued an order to the heads of all departments, giving them explicit instructions as to their duties in combatting the disease.

Navahoe in Great Danger Wilmington, N. C. March 9 .- Steamer Navahoe, which since Saturday night has been aground near Cape Fear bar, is still in desperate straits. All efforts to move her are without avail. A high northeast wind is forecasted and, if severe, the steamer will probably be a complete loss.

May Be a Fourth One to Claim the Pen ion of War Veteran Westerly, R. I., March 9.-Because of the applications of two women, each cialming to be the widow of Gilbert F. Roche, a Rhode Island veteran of the Civil war, for his pension, notwithstanding the fact that the pension has been paid during the past 10 months to Mrs. Rhoda Roche of this city, and because of an intimation of a fourth widow living in New York state, Special Pension Examiner McSooly has arrived here and begun an investigation to determine who the pension belongs to. Roche, who was a resident of this city for the past few years, died about a year ago, and two months later the pension was granted to Mrs. Rhoda Roche, his widow in this city. A few months later the department received another application from a Mrs. Gilbert F. Roche of Taunton and recently a third claimant appeared in a Mrs. Roche of Albany. Within the past few days it developed that there is a fourth Mrs. Roche living in New York state.

So far as the commissioner has learned, none of the women living outside of Rhode Island have ever been granted a divorce. Roche served as a member of company B of the Ninth Rhode Island infantry.

"Mysterious" Disease Was Typhoid Milford, Mass., March 9 .- A mysterious illness with which 18 young women living in the same boarding house and working in the same factory in Medway village were attacked recently has been diagnosed definitely as typhoid fever. The sickness developed about two weeks ago, and was at first attributed to ptomaine poisoning, and later to the grip. One of the girls is dead, another is in a critical condition and seven others are considered dangerously sick. The cause of the sudden outbreak of the disease has not been ascertained.

To Investigate Biliboard Nuisance

Boston, March 9 .- The common council passed an order last night calling for the appointment of a special committee of eight of the common council and such members of the board of aldermen as may join to conduct an investigation of the so-called "billboard nulsance." It is claimed that the setting up of great numbers of billboards in all parts of the city and suburbs has become an intolerable nuisance and the action by the common council was prompted by this sentiment.

Protest Against Congo Conditions

Boston, March 9 .- With a view to stirring up American sentiment against the conditions obtaining in the Congo Free State, Africa, a public meeting was held here last night under the auspices of the Congo Reform association. The speakers outlined deplorable conditions said to exist in the African state and appealed to the meeting for support of whatever action might be found possible for our government to take to relieve the situation.

Moran's Bill Knocked Out

Boston, March 9 .- District Attorney Moran's bill, designed to facilitate the collection of evidence against medical men carrying on an illegal business, was defeated in the legislature by a vote of 45 to 100. Last night Moran made a statement to the press; in which he charged that the police department of Boston had balked his efforts to secure convictions in a number of recent

Both prisoners pleaded guilty to the single complaint on which they were held. Most of the stolen property has been recovered.

Fortune Goes to Cremin's Family Bridgeport, Conn., March 9 .- The will of the late Mgr. Dennis J. Cremin, who is believed to have been one of the richest priests in New England, has been filed for probate. No estimate of the estate can be given at this time and appraisers will be named next week. The bulk of the estate is left to the family of the testator.

Great Grain Shipping Record Portland, Me., March 9 .- The grain shipments from Portland for the winter season ending May 1 will be about 7,-500,000 bushels, as against 2,750,000 for the same period last year. All of the grain which will be shipped out of Portland during the present season has now been contracted for.

THE RATE TANGLE

Senators Much Confused by the Various Plans Submitted

THE MEASURE'S WORDING

All That Prevents the Factions Reaching an Agreement -- The Suppor ers of Judicial Review Are More Sanguine

Washington, March 9 .- Regardless of the fact that the statehood bill was the only question discussed in the senate yesterday, the house railroad rate bill continued as an absorbing topic and groups of senators met in earnest but informal consideration of the many propositions that have been suggested in the way of amendment. Without doubt no bill has been before congress in years that has been given so much attention when the issue between the opposing factions has been one that could be settled through the use of so few words. The question is the choice of the words.

Judicial review of orders of the interstate commerce commission has from the first been the only real issue between the opposing factions. One faction, that supporting the bill in its present form, declares that it has no objection to railroads having their day in court, and it has made the assertion that this is provided by the present bill. The other positive faction contends that it wants the same thing, but that the bill should provide for this in specific

There are other factions which have amendments, such as the Spooner plan of impounding the difference between the commissions and the railroads rate, pending a determination of the equity of the former; and the senators advocating the Bailey proposition declaring for a full review by the courts, but limiting the power of the circuit courts to enjoin the orders of the commission. There are many senators who admit frankly that they are not experts on the subject of railroad rates and that they have been confused by the various plans that have been submitted. These senstors say that they will have to await the debate on the bill before they can feel quite certain of their position. On this account an accurate poll of the senate cannot be made. Supporters of a judicial review amendment have been more sanguine in their expressions concerning the situation since the speech made by Senator Balley. On the other hand, the friends of the house bill seem to have been encouraged by the same

Senator Dolliver and Attorney General Moody yesterday conferred regarding legal points raised in the senate discussion of the rate bill. The senator would not specify the questions considered, but at the conclusion of the conference expressed the opinion that the friends of the house rate bill need have no fear that the senate will be able to adopt an amendment which will add to the rights the railroads now have in the courts. He does not believe that the proposition suggested by Bailey, limiting the power of courts of lesser importance than the supreme court, will be acceptable to the senate. He says the friends of the bill considered that question and abandoned it for the reason that it did not appear to be constitutional. Dolliver did not think that the plan proposed by Spooner providing for the impoundment of the difference between the commission's rate and the railroads' rate would be feas-

The attitude of Bailey was discussed briefly by Dolliver. He said that many persons seemed to think that it proved that friends of the bill were divided. He took the position that Bailey's views were more stringent than those of other friends of the bill, and did not indicate that Bailey or other Democrats for whom he spoke were in any way unfriendly to the pending measure.

Democratic senators are disposed not to enter upon a general discussion of the rate bill until after Senator Bailey's proposition has been presented. He was called to Mississippi yesterday by the serious illness of his father.

Senator Aldrich, the leader of the Republican senators who are seeking to amend the bill, is in New York, called there by the illness of his daughter, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

First Annual Quincy L. O. L.

Quincy lodge, L. O. L., gave an entertainment and dance at Faxon ball on Thursday evening, styled the first annual, which was largely attended and very enjoyable. Large flags were used in decorating, the American colors, and also those of Great Britian, Scotland and Sweden.

Dr. J. H. Anderson chairman of the committee welcomed the friends and spoke briefly.

The entertainment was principally by Prof. G. Batty, who had various accomplishments, including vocal and instrumental music, recitations, and some very clever and artistic paper work. This was interspersed with solos and duets by Misses Gertrude and Mary Beach, who were always recalled; and selections by McTear's orchestra which also furnished music for the dancing. Dancing was enjoyed from 10 to 2, who was assisted by John McClay and Thomas Hewson. Refreshments were served during the

Dr. Anderson was assisted on the committee of arrangements by Andrew Stewart, John Gregory, Robert Neal, Oscar Frisk and David Wright.

Germany Makes Practical Capitulation In a Note From Her Chief Official at Moroccan Conference-- Austria Submits Plan

Algeciras, March 9 .- Success of the conference on Moroccan reforms cannot be described as absolutely secure since two of the main points in dispute, the allotment of bank capital and control of police, are not yet settled. Hopes, however, run high that these outstanding difficulties soon will become subject to arrangement. The French delethe floor director being George Ruxton, gates show an inclination to regard the way as opened to an understanding and the other delegates consider that a great forward step was made yesterday when a strong spirit of conciliation became evident. One of the most prominent delegates, moreover, expresses the view that "matters have proceeded so far that neither side will dare break up the conference." The delegates of the neutral powers generally regard the Austrian police proposal as being not feasible, but consider that it will serve the purpose of providing a basis for negotiations for an eventual compromise.

The Austrian plan gives the sultan supreme command of the police, and he is to select French officers for the poselect an inspector general of police from Switzerland or Holland. The inspector general is to have his headquarters at Casa Glanca on the Atlantic coast, and is to command the Franco-

Spanish police at the other ports. The opinion gains ground that France finally will consent to a diminution of her financial influence in Morocco by accepting a reduction of the voting power allotted to French subscribers to former loans, and in return for this concession it is thought the police will be placed under the direction of France and Spain, with neutral inspecting officers who shall report to the powers but not exercise command.

An official note, issued at the close of yesterday's session of the conference, says: "Herr Von Radowitz (chief of the German mission) referring to the statements made by the Russian, French and Spanish delegates at the last session of the conference, said that the German government did not object to the organization of the Moroccan poopen to commerce, under proper guarantees assuring economic liberty."

The conference then adjourned until Saturday night, in order to permit the delegates to study the police projects. The statement made by Herr Von

Washington Is Encou aged ment advices from Algeciras are destrong impression that the delegates are approaching an agreement. Details of the reports coming to the department are withheld, as has been the case since the beginning of the conference, but it is evident that a feeling of optimism prevails where there had been great doubt of the success of the conference.

It is not expected that the conference will terminate suddenly, even in the event that this hopeful feeling is well founded, but rather that, while the critical point may be safely passed within a day or two, the sessions will continue for some time, in order to permit of the arrangement of details under the general agreement on the great question of principle. Therefore no vote is looked for at once.

For Carrying Mails Only

Washington, March 9 .- The postmaster general has reaffirmed his position with respect to rural free delivery medium for taking subscriptions for newspapers. A recent act of congress prohibits rural carriers from soliciting business or receiving orders of any kind for any person, firm or corporation, or from carrying merchandise for hire during their hours of employment.

House Members Disappeared Washington, March 9 .- The house passed the Indian appropriation bill, carrying $7,785,528. It then proceeded to tangle itself up over the bill to abolish the grade of lieutenant general in the army. The result was an adjournment for lack of a quorum, after members had been locked in the hall for a half hour and the assistant sergeant-atarms had been scurrying to the various hotels in search of members.

Cannot Carry "Side Lines" Jefferson City, Mo., March 9 .- Superintendent Van Diver of the state insurance department has rendered his decision in the case of the Columbian National Life Insurance company - of Boston and allied companies. He holds that a life insurance company must do an insurance business and no other kind of business in this state.

Thef: of Government Funds Casper, Wyo., March 9 .- W. A Brother, government disbursing agent for the Pathfinder reservoir project, with headquarters at Casper, was arrested on a charge of embezzlement of government funds to the amount of High water-10:45 a. m.; 11:15 p. m.

NOTICE OF ADVANCE

Six Thousand Employes of Pa-

e fie Mills Will Be Benefi ed Lawrence, Mass., March 9 .- Notices have been posted in all departments of he extensive Pacific cotton mills here announcing that on March 19 an advance in wages will be made. The Pacific mills, which are among the largest in the world, employ nearly 6000 operatives. The rate of the proposed increase is not stated in the notices. The advance will be greater in some departments than in others, but it is expected will average nearly 10 percent.

When the new schedules go into effect the number of mill operatives in Lawrence who have had their pay raised this year will reach 17,000. On Jan. 1 the Washington mills of the American Woolen company, employing more than 6000 hands, and the Prospect mills, a small plant owned by the same corporation, advanced the pay of the operatives 10 percent. A general increase was made at the same time by the Arlington mills, an independent worsted and cotton plant which employs 5100 The textile industry in Lawrence is in

Tennebaum Killled by a Blow

San Francisco, March 9.-A coroner's ury, after holding an inquest of the leath of Harry Tennebaum, or "Tenny, who died after a prize fight with Frank Neil, rendered a verdict that death was caused by blows inflicted by Neil, and further that "there was gross negligence on the part of the parties having charge of the contest for not having the contestants examined by a registered physician prior to the exhibition according to law, and we hereby find said parties responsible for the death of said Harry Tennebaum."

Reaction in Rouvier's Favor

Paris, March 9.—President Fallieres forts to induce one or other of the several statesmen with whom he con ferred to undertake the task of forming a cabinet has not yet borne result. Members of the chamber of deputies foresee a possibility of the crisis lasting six or eight days, owing to the difficulty of finding a man sufficiently strong to ope with the pending serious internal and external problems. A strong reac ion has set in in favor of M. Rouvier.

Money Kings at White House Washington, March 9 .- H. H. Rogers and John D. Archbold of New York, vice president of the Standard Oil com pany, were in conference with Presilent Roosevelt at the White House last night. It was impossible to learn anything regarding the conference which the Standard Oil officials had with the president. Very few knew of their visit and the fact of their engagement to call on the president was ot known.

Startling Exposures Coming

New York, March 9 .- Evidence of a lefinite agreement between the railroads running out of New York city upon a division of the sugar freight business and also the payment of rebates was given before the United States grand jury here yesterday. It is said that the United States district attorney's office is confident of exposing the most startling relations existing between earrying and producing trusts.

Bubb Made Brigadier General Washington, March 9 .- One of the most spirited contests in the history of the army for place was settled when Secretary Taft announced that Colonel John W. Bubb had been selected to be brigadier general in the United States army to fill the vacancy originally created by the retirement of General Carr. Bubb is from Pennsylvania. He was born in 1843, so he must retire on account of age in 1907.

StrenLous Times In Poland

Warsaw, March 9 .- Owing to coninual robberies of postoffices, the central government has ordered the suspension until further notice of the transmission of money orders in Poland. The authorities have set sentinels over the electoral lists, which the terrorists have threatened to destroy. Two detectives thus detailed were killed yester-

For Contract Plan on Canal Washington, March 9 .- The examination of Professor Burr of New York, a nember of the board of consulting engineers appointed by President Roosevelt to report upon the most feasible type for a canal across the Isthmus of Panama before the senate committee, closed with testimony favoring the contract plan for constructing the waterway.

"Town Topies" Before Congress Washington, March 9.-Representative Cockran (N. Y.) has introduced a resolution requesting the postmaster general to report to the house whether "Town Topics" is admitted to the mails and whether the government assists the publication in "Its said occupation of extorting money by blackmail."

Kansas City, March 9 .- Charles M. Schwab arrived in Kansas City from the west in his special car yesterday afternoon. He said that he was only slightly indisposed, the result of three weeks of almost constant railway traveling. The trip was continued east last night.

Bullhead, though sufficiently gaudy in his new uniform, was not prepared for any question that might he thrown at him. He pulled out his book of rules, which he had been told to consult in case of doubt, and after some study referred his inquirer to the fire bucket hanging at the front end of the car. The passenger happened to be a foreigner and very thirsty. He climbed up on the Baker heater, according to directions, and did at some risk get hold of the bucket-but it was

"Iss no vater hier," cried the second class man. Bullhead sat half way back in the car, still studying the rules. He looked up surprised, but, turning around, pointed with confidence to the fire pail at the hind end of the smoker.

"Try the other bucket, Johnnie," he said calmly. At that every man in the car began to choke, and the German. thinking the new brakeman was making funny of him, wanted to fight. Now, Bullhead would rather fight than go to Sunday school any day, and without parley he engaged the insulted homesteader. Pat Francis parted them after some hard words on his part, and Kenyon, the trainmaster, gave Bullhead three months to study up where the water cooler was located in standard, A pattern, smoking cars. Bullhead's own mother, who did Callahan's washing. refused to believe her son was so stupid as not to know, but Bullhead, who now tells the story himself, claims he did

When he got back to work he tried the freight trains. They put him on the No. 29, local, and one day they were drifting into the yard at Goose River Junction when there came from the cab a sharp call for brakes. Instead of climbing out and grabbing a brakewheel for dear life Bullhead looked out the window to see what the excitement was. By the time he had decided what rule covered the emergency his train had driven a stray flat halfway through the eating house east of the depot. Kenyon, after hearing Bullhead's own candid statement of fact, coughed apologetically and said three years, whereupon Bullhead resigned permanently from the train service and applied for a job in the Bullhead and struck his boss. In the confusion Peter, who was nearly drowned, lost a set of teeth. That was sufficient in that department of the motive power; Bullhead moved ondo for a wiper. After the boy had learned something about wiping he tried one day to back an engine out on the turntable just to see whether it was easy. It was, dead easy, but the turntable happened to be arranged wrong for the experiment, and Neighbor, before calling in the wrecking gang, took occasion to kick Bullhead out of the roundhouse bodily.

Nevertheless Bullhead, like every Medicine Bend boy, wanted to railroad. Some fellows can't be shut off. He was offered the presidency of a Cincinnati bank by a private detective agency which had just sent up the active head of the institution for ten years, but as Bullhead could not arrange transportation east of the river he was obliged to let the opportunity

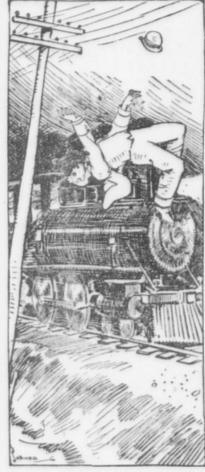

When the widow Lyons asked Callahan to put Jamie at telegraphing the tion, loaded and released, O. R. assistant superintendent nearly fell off his chair. Mrs. Lyons, however, was in earnest, as the red haired man soon found by the way his shirts were starched. Her son meantime had got hold of a sounder and was studying telegraphy, corresponding at the same time with the Cincinnati detective agency for the town and county rights to all "hidden and undiscovered crime" on the mountain division, rights offered by Frank H. Spearman at the very reasonable price of $10 by registered mail, bank draft or express money order; currency at sender's risk. The only obligations imposed by this deal were secrecy and a German silver star, and Bullhead, after holding his trusting mother up for the ten, became a regularly installed detective with proprietary rights to local misdeeds. Days he plied his sounder and nights he lay awake trying to mix up Pete Beezer and Neighbor with the disappearance of various bunches of horses from the Bar M ranch. About the same time he became interested in dentistry. Not that there is any obvious connection between railroading and detective work and filling teeth, but his thoughts just turned that way, and, following the advice of a local dentist who didn't want altogether to discourage him, Bullhead borrowed a pair of forceps and pulled all the teeth out of a circular saw to full name was James get his arm into practice. Before the dentist pronounced him proficient, though, his mother had Callahan re-Bullhead-just plain Bull- duced to terms, and the assistant superintendent put Bullhead among the operators.

That was a great day for Bullhead. He had to take the worst of it, of course, sweeping the office and that, the smoking car asked him where the but, whatever his faults, the boy did as he was told. Only one vicious habit clung to him-he had a passion for reading the rules. In spite of this, however, he steadily mastered the taking, and as for sending, he could do that before he got out of the cuspidor department. Everybody around the Wickiup bullied him, and maybe that was his salvation. He got used to expecting the worst of it and nerved himself to take it, which in railroading is half the battle.

A few months after he became competent to handle a key the nightman at

A NOTABLE FIGHT

Six Hundred Moros Annihilated by Americans

WE LOSE EIGHTEEN MEN

Natives Had Strongly Fortified Precipitous Volcanic Cone, Which Our Forces Had to Scale at Angle of Sixty Degrees

Washington, March 10 .- Not be cause of the casualties among the American forces engaged, though they were more numerous than in any battle in the Philippines for several years past, but rather because of the extraordinary large number of the natives killed, the news of the battle of Mount Dajo was received at the war department (and the navy department as well, for the bluejackets were in the thick of the fighting), with intense interest. The first authentic news of the battle came through the press reports, though at the same time the cipher experts of the war department were busily engaged in trying to unravel a long report which had come direct from Manila by cable. This was from Colonel Andrews, the military secretary at army headquarters at Manila, who had received his data by inter-island cable from Zamboango, where the commander-inchief of the Philippine division, Major General Wood, happened to be.

The latest dispatch concerning the fight is dated Manila, March 10, and is as follows: "The cable between Jolo and Mindanao is broken and there is only a launch service between the two islands. As a result of the interruption of the cable service, further details of the recent battle on Mount Dajo are not available, but the military authorities are endeavoring to obtain them speedily. Apparently there will be no more fighting on the Island of Jolo. On the Moros and probably some unimportant engagements will follow. "Advices on hand show that the attack on Mount Dajo was a notable one. Major General Wood directed Colonel Duncan of the Sixth infantry to attack the Moros in the crater and capture or kill them. This was accomplished after repeated demands to surrender. Six hundred Moros were killed. It is be-rise to the dignity of mountains. "Mount Dajo, referred to in the dispatch, was probably not mentioned in the same connection with these mountains because it was only 2100 feet high. The Jolo archipelago is inhabited by two races of people, the Jolo and the Sisma, the former a Malay people long inhabiting the Jolo islands, who had been proselyted to Mohammedanism. The sultan lives in a native town near the city of Jolo and is the nominal head of all Moros there and in Mindanao. The latter recognize him, however, only at their convenience. Two or three dattos have always resisted the sultan's claims and there has always been a state of war between them. The sultan's control over them, therefore, is quite limited, and with two or three warring factions in the islands the jealousy of the support of the Americans for one side is quite enough to keep them in a constant state of turbulence and fighting. I suppose one of the factions thought it had gotten together men enough and that they were absolutely immune, so they were just cleaned out.

"By the way, it is worth noting that the constabulary which was in that section was made up of Moros themselves. It has never been difficult to enlist them in our service to fight against their own people when called upon, probably owing to the number of factions in the islands.

"In this particular case the heavy mortality among the Moros engaged probably would be explained by their methods of fighting. It would have been impossible to have inflicted the same loss on the northern Filipinos. The latter have a way of disappearing before the troops in the jungles and conducting guerilla warfare. But the Moros, on the appearance of an enemy, sent and received during an hour. sound the alarm and gather everybody inside their forts, where they will fight to the end. Probably the loss in this case was caused by the fire of our artillery. The bluejackets were probably called upon to assist in getting this artillery up the steep heights of the mountain because of their knowledge of blocks and tackles.

"I have not the least fear that this movement will extend to the other islands and, in fact, I think that the heavy blow struck the Moros will have a strongly deterrent effect upon them." The Sixth infantry, which seems to have borne the brunt of the fighting, was from Fort Leavenworth and has been in the Philippines about a year. Officers of the general staff fully acquainted with the habits of the Moros say they have not the slightest fear that the Moros will try to retaliate for the crushing defeat administered to them. These officers judge that there were really two actions, the first probably a surprise and serving merely to locate the position and establish the strength of the Moro defenders. This having been done, the second day seems to have been occupied in hoisting the artillery and ammunition supplies to positions from which to operate upon the Moro fortress in the crater and the second action, fought under the conditions described, on the slope of the mountain, at an angle of 50 degrees, undoubtedly broke the Moro strength in that locality for an indefinite time.

War Against Monopolies

Washington, March 10.-Representative Townsend introduced a joint reso lution amending the resolution approved on March 7 for an investigation of various discriminations and monopolies, by giving the interstate commerce commission to subpoena witnesses and to compel the production of documentary evidence. The resolution also makes an appropriation of $50,000 to conduct the investigation. Representative Gillespie (Tex.) also introduced a bill, providing for an appropriation of $100,000 for the same purpose.

Five Hundred Converted In a Day

All Classes Stirred by the Torrey and Alexander Meetings In Philadelphia.

The Soul Winning Spirit Extends From Criminals to Ministers-Remarkable Scenes Witnessed-Business Men

> Enthused-Revival Conversations Frequently Heard on Street Cars and Trains. Thrilling Power of Childish Voices.

By GEORGE T. B. DAVIS. The first part of the Torrey-Alexander revival campaign in Philadelphia the first series of meetings nearly 6,000 people were crowded into the big armory, while thousands of others thronged the streets outside, clamorwent across the street to an overflow meeting addressed by another evangelist, while hundreds stood outside the part of the revival service The number of converts on the last day broke all previous records. At the afternoon meeting for children and young people 450 of them responded to Dr. Torrey's appeal to accept Christ, while at night sixty adults went forward, making a total for the day of

The scenes at the children's meeting were among the most interesting ever seen in Philadelphia. About 5,000 boys and girls, with their Sunday school teachers and friends, gathered in the armory at 4 p. m., immediately after the children had been dismissed from school. For half an hour Alexander, the tall, smiling conductor, drilled them in singing revival songs until their clear, childish voices made the rafters ring with a swelling volume of nspiring melody. Suddenly he stopped the big audience, which he had turned into a 5,000 voiced choir, and called five little girls up to the high dais on which he stood and, putting his arms around them, asked them to sing alone the chorus of the "Glory Song"-

Oh, that will be glory for me, Glory for me, glory for me, When by his grace I shall look on his

That will be glory for me! As they finished the audience broke ence broke into applause, while Mr. cards. Alexander grasped the child in his arms and kissed her, to the immense delight of the 5,000 boys and girls. What Children Can Do.

For fully thirty minutes Dr. Torrey talked to the children on what a child can do. He declared that every child can do five things-a child can become a true Christian, a child can lead a beautiful Christian life, a child can pray, a child can witness for Jesus, and a child can plead for Jesus. At the close of his sermon, without any appeal to the emotions of the little people, but in the same businesslike manner in which he addresses his audiences of men and women, Dr. Torrey asked all the boys and girls who wished then and there to take Jesus as their Saviour to come forward, and, as already stated, 450 of the young people went to the front, where they were dealt with individually by Christian workers.

The revival spirit is extending to all classes of the city, from the criminal to the minister of the gospel. One night a policeman was among the converts, and the next night he brought three unconverted women friends to the meeting. I heard of a street car conductor who is trying to win souls as he collects his fares. The business men of the city are catching the fire and are becoming soul winners. One of the most active personal workers at the meetings night after night is a member of one of the most famous business firms in America. The other day he called seven of his traveling salesmen into his private office, and one after another they all surrendered their lives to God. One of them had been an infidel for twenty-three years. At an afternoon testimony meeting a man sitting on the platform arose and told how the business men of Philadelphia are talking of the revival all over the city. As he spoke it was interesting to note that there sat near him on the platform the second vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad and the assistant to the president of the same

As an example of how the business men are catching the revival fervor one of them after attending several of the meetings wrote to Dr. Torrey, say- the first meeting of the Princeton un-

I ought to do it. In a measure I wanted to do it. I was not lazy, but pride up before their fellow students and do held me back. The next day I noticed how much more earnest I was in mak- and confessed that they had not been ing money than in helping to win precious souls to our blessed Christ and forth they would devote themselves to how in business I threw reserve and the work of soul winning. At the conpride to the winds. Revival Conversations.

A few days ago Dr. Torrey asked his tudience to hold revival meetings right in the street cars and railway trains of the city by speaking to the strangers who sat next them about their soul's salvation. He declared that he never gets into a railway train without asking God to give him a message to some one. His advice is being literally carried out, and revival conversations are now of frequent occurrence in the street cars and trains in and around Philadelphia. Sometimes bands of Christians will board a car and make it resound for miles with revival melody. At an afternoon revival service a man arose and said:

"I was delighted when I left here the other night to get into a street car with some of the choir. They had the has closed amid scenes such as have spirit of song in their hearts, and they not been witnessed in the city for a couldn't keep quiet, and as that old generation past. Sequel of a College Meeting.

Since the evangelists have been in in and around the city. They were invited to colleges where the holding of a revival service was an unheard of thing. Dr. Torrey related a striking incident which came as the sequel of one of these college meetings. He said: "I had a very interesting experience round to the colleges of the city holding meetings at the noon hour. The son of a professor at one of these colleges who was very kind to us called on me this morning. He said: 'I couldn't rest. I have come ten miles to talk with you. I have been wandering over the face of the earth for ten years. I am now thirty-five, and I must find rest.' He came back to Christ and went away from my house rejoicing." Dr. Torrey had scarcely concluded when Mr. Alexander came to the front of the platform and said:

"I want to tell you something good too. A railroad man told me last night that yesterday a man went up and handed $3 through one of the windows where they take in money for the railroad and said, 'This is money that this railroad was cheated of twelve years ago.' The man had been to the mission, and the railroad benefited to the extent of $3."

"Now, if any of you like that story." added Dr. Torrey, "and you have any railroad money or street car money or anybody else's money, go and pay it back.'

Dr. Torrey one day addressed the students of the University of Pennsylvania, while Mr. Alexander spent the time holding revival meetings at Princeton university. He was assisted in the meetings by a visiting rescue mission worker-Melvin E. Trotter of Grand Rapids, Mich.-and by Robert Harkness and Charles Butler, pianist and soloist of the Torrey-Alexander campaign. The singing evangelist held several meetings for the students of the university and one for the students in the theological department.

Count Welsersheimb, the first Austrian delegate, in the course of an interview last night, stated that Austria was not following Germany blindly, but that she had made efforts for conciliation at Berlin and had brought forward her police proposal with the desire of finding a means of accord between the absolutely opposed views of France and Germany. instrument. The authorities of the busy for a time. thought could serve them best and stopped at 2.30 A. M. told them to construct the finest instrument they could turn out.

In building this organ Mr. Hope-Jones will use for the first time in the United States the method for producing tones which he first employed in the Worcester cathedral and since in the organs in Edinburgh town hall and Llandaff cathedral. This method has cause much discussion in America.

Mr. Hope-Jones discards reed pipes. and helpful, which depend for their tones upon the vibration under air pressure of a metal tongue against an opening in the pipe. He was formerly an electrical engineer and employed his knowledge of mechanics in producing sounds. He uses springs, valves and cylinders and operates the organ by electricity.

He procures the puffing, or beating of the air current into his resonators, by means of a device that reminds one of the piston of an engine. With an electric blower as a propelling power for the traveling rod and mechanical devices to insure its quick return this piston works up and down, alternately admitting and excluding the air and thus causing vibrations that sound the required notes in the air chambers. The builder declares that he can get more uniform tones than are possible with reeds, because he can govern with certainty his air current.

His device had a trial last spring in St. Patrick's cathedral when Mr. Hope-Jones put up a dozen resonators and gave an opportunity for a comparison of his organ with reeds. The result of this trial has been the order by the authorities of the Cathedral of St.

will be remarkable in themselves. Some of those used in the Worcester cathedral extend far underneath the floor, and the tene produced by some of them fairly shakes the building. Mr. Hope-Jones uses cubes, oblongs spheres and other shapes for his resonators, and for the basic tone a great air space is necessary.

HATLESS WOMEN IN CHURCH Brooklyn Pastor's Experiment So Men

May See the Preacher. At the request of the men of his con gregation who not only want to hear but see the preacher as well the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, pastor of the Arlington Avenue Presbyterian church, Arlington avenue and Elton street, Brooklyn, has requested that the women in the congregation remove their hats before the services begin, says the New York Herald.

"I know that in his epistle to the Corinthians St. Paul declares against women going to prayer uncovered,' Mr. Wilson said the other night, "but it is not always possible to run a modern church along the lines laid down by St. Paul. Many of the men in my congregation have asked me to do this thing, as they could not see me if they were more than five or six rows back, so I decided to try the experiment. "I am interested in the experiment, as I believe that in time it will be the custom in all churches for women to remove their hats. Persons going to religious services desire more than to hear, and in many cases their view of the pulpit is shut off by the large hats."

Wheel Chair Races at Palm Beach. Snapshot artists at Palm Beach, Fla., are busy these days trying to take pictures of the wheel chair races which are the very latest fad at that fashionable resort, says a correspondent of the New York Press. This sport, which the millionaires find so bracing, isn't so amusing to the men who do the pushing. However, the latter individuals are compensated by generous tips. In the first contest the other day August Belmont's negro chairman won his wager and received such a large remuneration that he remarked, to the delight of the company, that he would be willing to race Mr. Belmont through the streets of New York any time he Wanted to try it.

Men Who Will Go To Athens

American Team For Olympic Games Includes Schick of Harvard, Hillman, Bonhag, Hahn, Prinstein, Ewry, Sheldon, Daniels and Schwartz.

Twenty-three of the most prominent men in various lines of athletic sport were selected to represent America in the Olympic games at Athens, Greece, at a meeting of the American games committee held in New York recently. Financial limitations precluded the selection of others, but it is known that further subscriptions will be forthcoming which will enable others to go. The committee hopes to be able to send a team of thirty-five, which will give a satisfactory representation in all the events and may enable this country to carry off the honors in the great international contests.

The selections were made from a list of nearly eighty men, winners of the national A. A. U. championships at the Portland (Ore.) conference and intercollegiate champions and athletes belonging to various clubs. Many college champions were invited, but were refused permission to be absent from college. Efforts will be made to secure these men, and if successful they will be included in a supplementary list.

All the athletes selected thus far will participate, as every man has declared that he will be ready to go to Athens for the games. The name of Martin Sheridan was proposed, but he was rejected on the ground that he is under suspension by the Metropolitan association of the A. A. U. A Journalistic Lesson

[Original.]

When I went into journalism it was in the wild west. I was young and had a great deal to learn. I thought that the most desirable accomplishment for me as local editor of a newspaper was a facility in writing facetious news articles about people to whom something unusual had happened-in other words, to give an item in spicy language. I had been in the business three months when I learned that there are many happenings that it is safer to pass unnoticed.

In the town where I worked was a couple notorious for their many and violent quarrels. Mike and Rachel Gailagher would make more noise in their disputes than is to be heard in the engine yard of a great railroad. What surprised every one was that, while their altercations were so bitter, when not disputing they appeared to be a devoted couple. One night about the hour that the inhabitants of the little village were turning in Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher had an unusually severe wrangle that kept the town awake till the gray of the morning. I reached the office the next afternoon to find scarcely a thing on the spindle on which to make up the usual quantum of local news. To help myself out I gave a humorous description of the racket be tween the Gallaghers the night before mentioning no names, but it was per fectly plain to whom I referred.

The next day I looked over the paper on my way to the office, and now that the article on the Gallaghers was in print it had a decided flavor about it that made me feel uncomfortable Mike Gallagher might not like it: Mrs. Gallagher might not like it. On the whole, I wished I had left it out. When I reached the office the first person I saw sitting in the only chair except the one at my table was Mrs.

"Are you the editor?" she asked, with a scowl. "I am the local editor."

"Me husband went out o' town early | June 1. the mornin', so Oi kem over to see ye about the foine artickle ye wrote written an article about you?" I asked, more to gain time than to set up a defense. "Is it the likes o' ye to invade the homes of people as doesn't concern ye? D'ye think ye kin set here scratchin' the reputation o' yer neighbors wid yer dirty pen widout payin' the cost?"

"Madam, you mistake"-"Young felley, I just kem over to wh pervent trouble. Oi'm a peaceable woman meself an' a lovin' wife. Oi don't want me husband to git ragin', as he will when he comes home this evenin' an' reads the invashern of our domestic peace. Mike comes in at 6:15. There's a train leavin" at 5:25. I recommend ye to go out on't an' save yer life." "Mrs. Gallagher," I replied, "my life is not very valuable. In fact, I doubt if it's worth the price of a ticket out "Very well," said the lady, rising,

"Oi'll just sthop at the undertaker's an' tell 'em to git ready for a corpse o' yer len'th." And she walked off muttering at a newspaper that gave I was far from feeling the confidence denoted by my words. If I were killed my fellow townsmen would agree that I had but paid a just penalty for concerning myself in other people's affairs. What could I do to avert the calamity It occurred to me to make an amend honorable to the woman and thus avert the ire of the man. During the afternoon I penned an article, writing as a headline in large letters the word "Gallagher," placed it on my table and make it the more conspicuous. HYDROPHOBIA SCARE

Probable Crusade Against Dogs In Suburbs of Boston

Boston, March 10 .- Mad dogs have created considerable alarm in some of the suburbs of Boston and caused trouble for their race. A muzzling order has been issued already in Arlington; the selectmen of Watertown will be asked at the earliest opportunity to take similar measures. Dr. Peters of the state cattle bureau says that muzzling ought to be done also in Cambridge, Waltham and Belmont, and perhaps in Somerville, and that in order to be effective should remain in force about two months. The license law ought to be enforced strictly, he said, and all unlicensed dogs killed.

It is probable that the dog which passed through Watertown, Arlington Cambridge and Belmont last week, and on Sunday of this week, and bit sev eral children, is dead. He has not been seen or heard from since last Sunday As a rule rabid dogs become paralyzed and die a few days after having having contracted the disease

Moran Clears Fitzgerald

Boston, March 10 .- District Attorney Moran announces that he has dropped the investigation of the charges made against Mayor Fitzgerald during the last municipal campaign. Moran declares that there is no evidence which would warrant him in asking for an indictment in the case. The charges against the mayor were based on statements alleged to have been made by Congressman McNary, one of Fitzgerald's political foes, and included several instances of alleged blackmail and Negroes at Jamestown Show Boston, March 10 .- Negro citizens of Massachusetts appeared at the state house and made a spirited protest against the state appropriating money for the Jamestown Exposition unless some pledge was given that negroes would be treated as well as the whites Secretary Shepard of the exposition committee said that he could not change the laws of the state of Virginia relating to colored people, but he could guarantee that colored people would receive the same treatment as whites within the exposition grounds.

Looking For Alleged Embezzler Boston, March 10.-Convinced that some hospital or sanitarium in this city is sheltering Calvin D. Brownley, town treasurer of Lisbon, Conn., who is alleged to have embezzled $6000 of the town's funds and then disappeared, Chief Inspector Watts detailed several police detectives to search all the hos-

County Attorney Batchelder asked for 10 days' continuance. The court gave him four and ordered bonds in two sureties of $600 each for a hearing on Wednesday.

To Jail For Misapplying Funds

Dewhirst, formerly clerk of the Arling ton Co-Operative association of this city, was taken to Salem jail last night to serve a sentence of one year for misapplying funds of the concern. Dewhirst was sentenced on June 30 last year, but the sentence was suspended pending the argument of exception before the supreme court, which has decided adversely to Dewhirst.

Armory Proposition Rejected

Milford, Mass., March 10 .- Last November the town voted to ask the state for $20,000 for the erection of a state armory here, but later it was found that $10,000 additional would be required for the construction of a suitable building and the purchase of the land. Last night a town meeting, after much discussion, rescinded the former vote and rejected the entire armory proposal.

Life Sentence For Murder

Waterbury, Conn., March 10 .- Joseph Cenesky, an accomplice of Charles Bassett, who was given a life sentence for committing a fatal assault upon an aged farmer named Thomas Lockwood, was found guilty of murder and immediately sentenced for life. Edward Leonard, who is similarly charged, is expected to plead guilty when he is placed on trial next week.

Mother and Daughter Dead Somerville, Mass., March 10 .- Mrs. Hannah E. Howe, 80 years old, and her daughter, Nellie E. Howe, 40, were burned to death in a mysterious fire at 188 Concord avenue yesterday afternoon. The fire is supposed to have been, caused by Mrs. Howe through pouring kerosene oil on a fire which she had

Free Trial Electric Lighting,

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition.

To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge.

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring.

For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary. Per order of Directors,

Quincy Exhibit At Power Boat Show

One of the interesting exhibits at the Automobile and Power Boat show, which opens in Boston tonight is the forty horse power hunting cabin launch Sarapa, built by the Baker Yacht Basin Co. of this city for Boston parties. The boat is of the new type which is coming into prominence and for which there is quite a demand this season. Miss Lucy M. Crane has returned to

The dimensions of the Sarapa are as follows: Length over-all, 38 feet; beam, feet 6 inches; draft, 2 feet, 6 inches. She has a twenty horse Buffalo gasoline engine, and is fitted complete. She was designed by Swasey, Raymond and Page of Boston.

Another new industry is to be located in Quincy. The company which has recently been formed is known as Tidewater Broken Stone Co.

The company has just purchased through the agency of Thomas J. Lamb, the large ledge with adjoining meadow land at Rock Island near the Pawsey farm. Here the company will immediately erect a large stone crushing plant. The property borders Town river and it is planned to dredge the he river from t he channel to the company's whalf, so that vessels can be readily loaded.

The company already has orders for thousands of tons of crushed stone, all of whish will be shipped by water.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Harry Hardini, the most mysterious vaude illian who has ever appeared in Boston, will entinue for another six days, commencing Monday, March 12, and rightfully so, for although this season of the year is, under ordinary onditions, a quiet season for amusements Keith's has been crowded at every performance with enthusiastic patrons who simply stand up and cheer Houdini to the echo. His box escapade is sensational in the extreme. There will be many other attractions on the program beside Houdini, including James J. Morton, "the Boy Comic; and one of the most amusing Irish character comedy sketches, with Thomas J. Ryan and Mary Richfield.

Some years ago, a play was made from this story by Otis Skinner, and it was acted by him very suc essfully for a season or two. He never hap pened to reach Boston with it, however, and it first performance in that city will therefore take place next week at the Castle Square Theatre The title role will be played by John Craig and the heroine, Lillian Kemble, and to the other leading members of the stock company will be intrusted the principal characters. Shipbuilding on Lakes.

Labor Commissioner McLeod's report of the boat and shipbuilding industry of Michigan includes the builders of canoes as well as of the great steel 653 Washington St., corner South St. freighters. Forty-five firms were canvassed, and a total investment in plants was $4,418,250; sixteen steel vessels of an estimated value of $5,065,000, were built in 1905, while the total number of all classes was 12,691, valued at $6,425, 270. At present thirteen steel boats, and a total of 8269 boats of all classes, are under construction, and their estimated value is $4,808,245.

The shipyards of Michigan employ 5989 men, and 85 per cent. of the number are classed as skilled labor. The weekly pay-roll amounts to $73,649, and the average per man is $2.05 per day.

Operators Turn Down Mine Workers' Propositions

STAND FOR "OPEN SHOP"

Warrant Changes at Present--Various Demands Rejected by Baer For Coal Barons

New York, March 12 .- The proposiion of the United Mine Workers of America for a readjustment of wages and conditions in the anthracite coal fields, as a whole, have been denied by the committee representing the anthracite operators. As a counter proposition, the operators suggest that the awards made by the anthracite coal strike commission, the principles upon which they were established by the commission, and the methods established | Catering for Clubs and Parties, for carrying out their findings and awards, shall be continued for a further term of three years from April 1, 1906. The present agreement terminates March 31 of this year.

Announcement of the anthracite operators' decision and their counter proposition was made last night in a long, formal statement which was given out for publication. This statement, which includes the correspondence on the subjects at issue between President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, acting for the miners, and President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, for the opera Quarter 3 a.m. Quarter 17 a.m in detail. In every instance the content of the special state o that conditions in the coal fields do not warrant the changes proposed by the miners or that the questions at issue already have been passed upon by the strike commission

The demand of the miners that the operators enter into an agreement with the union is declined on the ground that the anthracite operators "stand unalterably for the open shop, and again | Sawed and Split to Order at Short Notice decline to make an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, an organization controlled by a rival indus-

HEROISM OF SURVIVORS

Some of Them Descended Into Deadly Shaft More Than a tims Reduced to Ashes

Paris, March 12.—The worst fears as to the enormity of the mine disaster in the Courrieres district of the Pas-de-Calais Saturday morning have been realized. The death list stands at 1100 and the whole of the region stands apwives and children.

It is reported that a rescua party numbering 40 has been cut off by the caving in of one of the galleries.

Minister of Public Works Gauthier, Minister of the Interior Dubief and the secretary of President Fallieres remained on the ground endeavoring to comfort the distressed families of the miners. President Fallieres has given $2000 to aid in relief measures. The ministry will add a further sum to this and the chamber of deputies will be asked to vote $100,000 for the purpose of alleviating distress. Ministers Guthier and Dubief listened to the graphic picture of the scene in the mines by Leon Cerf, one of the men rescued, and who still is suffering from the terrible effects of his experience.

"I was working with a gang when the xplosion occurred," said Cerf. "The reman immediately shouted for us to follow him, and, dashing into a recess in the gallery, we were followed by a tle damage. blast of poisonous gases, which rushed Yard off Mills. Street. Sometimes the burden consists of a mere heap of burnt flesh, and in nearly every case the body is terribly lacerated. Only one-half of the bodies recovered have been identified.

Despite the danger incurred, the volunteers, who include a number of those who were successful in escaping at the time of the explosion, do not hesitate to descend into the shaft. Some of them have been down more than a dozen times. One of them, after having brought up 14 bodies, was suffocated on his 15th attempt, and it is feared that other fatalities among the volunteers will follow, as the air in the mines is still impregnated with noxious gases. A number of the men engaged in rescue work have already been brought to the surface unconscious, and as they were driven to their homes in closed carriages 303 Water Street, South Quincy the women followed and broke the windows, suspecting that bodies were being hurried away.

Several miners have come up from pit 11, which is connected with pit No They effected their escape by means of a ladder, and as they came from the mouth of the pit they appeared to be dead."

The engineers are endeavoring to devise means for locating the dangerous tone in the mine and aerating the galleries. The shaft of pit No. 3 is com pletely blocked and the authorities are considering the advisability of dropping a heavy mass of metal down the shaft in order to clear it and thus enable them to descend and learn the worst.

The accident was caused by an explo sion of firedamp. The explosion oc curred at 7 o'clock Saturday morning soon after 1795 miners had gone down in the cages of the several shafts to be gin work. Fire followed the explosion making rescues difficult and almost im possible, and after nearly 700 men had reached the surface or been brought out by rescue parties the galleries fell in Dozen Times -- Many of the V.c- and all hope of rescuing the others entombed was abandoned.

Greatly Beloved In Her Home City, Where She Was Hooted In Days Gone By -- Rio's During Her First Lecture Tour

Rochester, March 13 .- The long and eventful life of Susan B. Anthony closed at 12:40 o'clock this morning. The end came peacefully. Miss Anthony had been unconscious practically all of the time for more than 24 hours, and her death had been almost mo mentarily expected since Sunday night. Only her wonderful constitution kept

Dr. M. S. Ricker, her attending physician, said Miss Anthony died of heart failure, induced by pneumonia of both lungs. She had had serious valvular heart trouble for the last six or sever years. Her lungs were practically clear, and the pneumonia had yielded to treatment, but the weakness of her heart prevented her recovery.

Miss Anthony's last public appear- have the est that money can buy. ance, which was at the national woman suffrage convention in Baltimore a few weeks ago, was really the beginning of the end of the great suffragist's career. Under the weight of her 86 years and worn by the almost constant ains of neuralgia, she was ill when she left her home in Rochester for the convention city. At Baltimore a cold which she contracted brought on the complications which ultimately resulted

It was with the greatest difficulty, however, despite her illness, that her friends kept her away from the daily sessions of the Baltimore convention. She chafed under the enforced retirement of her room and was only half content with the minute reports which tion was taken.

When the work of raising money for the work of the coming year was reported Miss Anthony insisted on going to the meeting. She sat on the platform and was the first to respond to the treas-

WITHOUT RIGHTS

Chicago Street Car Lines Under Control of City

SUPREME COURT'S VIEW

Ninety-Nine-Year Contract Is Valid, but Does Not Extend Ordinances Under Which Street Car Companies Are Operating

Chicago, March 13 .- By the decision of the United States supreme court handed down yesterday, the city of Chicago obtains almost complete control of the local traction situation. The decision sustains the acts of the state leg-Islature extending the life of the charters of the street railway companies to 99 years, but does not sustain the contention of the companies that contract rights which are limited to fewer years than remain to the charter life of the companies are also extended.

Contracts or ordinances of the city limiting the use of the streets by the companies are upheld, and the rights of the companuies in the streets are held to expire according to the expressed terms of the ordinances. In its effect the decision leaves the Union Traction company without any right whatever. other than by suffrance, in the streets of the north division of the city. It leaves the Union Traction company in the west division without rights excepting where the ordinance contains a purchase clause.

The decision leaves the Chicago City Railway company, which operates all the street car lines on the South Side of the city, without rights, excepting where their ordinances contain a purchase clause

The original ordinances granted to the street car companies were for 99 years inside the city limits as they existed in 1865. The companies have extended their tracks as the boundaries of the city have been enlarged and have claimed that the extended lines which were built under franchises from the city were also operative under the 99year act. The court has held, however, that the 99-year act extended only to the charter life of the street car companies vithout extending their ordinances. The court also denies the claim of the street car companies that they have been vested with the exclusive rights for 99 years to enter into contracts with the city for the occupancy of Chicago's streets for street rallway purposes. The decision also holds that the street car companies could receive only such grants as the city might give and on such terms and such conditions, including the time of the grant, as the city might prescribe. The city has all along admitted that he 99-year act is valid, but asserted that it did not extend the ordinances under which the street car companies are operating at present.

SOME UNUSUAL MARK DOWNS and "It is a sweeping victory for the city," said Mayor Dunne. "There are SPECIALLY GOOD VALUES for VERY LITTLE no 90-year franchises in the city of Chicago, according to this decision, and no indefinite or perpetual grants in the outlying territory. We have the traction companies now in a position where we can negotiate for the purchase of the lines. If they do not want to sell at a fair price, we can declare our rights under the decision."

He raised his reeling head. There was a drift of starlight through the dust cloud, but no train in sight; No. 30 was gone. With that conscious ness came a recollection—he had forgotten to put out his red light. His red light wasn't out. He kept epeating that to himself to put the lcture of what it meant before him. He had started to deliver an order without putting out his light, and No. 30 was gone-against No. 1, a head end collision staring the freight and the belated passenger in the face. No. 30, running hard on her order to make Sackley for the meeting, and No. 1 running furiously, as she always rantonight worse than ever.

He lifted his head, enraged with himself, enraged. He thought about the rules, and he grew enraged. Only himself he blamed, nobody else-studying the rules for a lifetime, and just whereas a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Elizabeth Hector of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

It had let a great light in on that Reyes is suffering from a malady the situation. Whereas before every one else on the line had been to blame | will be succeeded by Climaco Calderon, for his failures, Bullhead now saw that who is minister of foreign affairs. he himself had been to blame and was man enough to stand up and say so. When the big fellows, Callahan and Kenyon and Pat Franc's, saw his trail next morning, saw the blood smeared over the table and saw Bullhead's letter of resignation signed in his own blood manual, and heard his straightout story days afterward, they said never a word.

But that morning, the morning after, Callahan picked up the letter and put the order book and locked both in his grip. It was some form grip. It was some weeks before he had a talk with Bullhead, and he spoke then only a few words, because the CUFF and COLLAR SETS, 15, 25 and 50c nightman fainted before he got through. Callahan made him understand, though, that as soon as he was able he could have any key on that division he wanted as long as he was running it, and Callahan is running that division yet.

It all came easy after he got well. Instead of getting the worst of it from everybody Bullhead began to get the best of it, even from pretty Nellie Caskey, stammering the 19 over the wire was being nursed at the Junction. HAVE TO TESTIFY

Supreme Court's Decision as to Trust Witnesses

A GOVERNMENT VICTORY

Immunity Law Not Designed to Protect a Corporation From Prosecution -- Tobacco and Paper Cases Disposed Of Washington, March 13.-The decisions of the supreme court yesterday in the tobacco trust cases and the paper trust cases laid down principles regarding the immunity of witnesses under the anti-trust laws that are of the greatest importance in the various antitrust proceedings which the administration has urged.

These principles were best defined in the decision of the cases of Hale vs. Henkel and McAllister vs. Henkel. The tobacco trust cases were appealed from the federal circuit court of the southern district of New York. There can be no doubt that the supreme court's findfings constitute a highly important victory for the government.

Justice Brown, in the decision of the Hale case, went deep into the immunity question. In this case Edwin F. Hale, director, and the secretary and treasurer of the MacAndrews & Forbes company, a New Jersey corporation, refused to give evidence before a grand jury r 11 16 abcdefghi 11 44 in anti-trust proceedings against the American Tobacco company and allied r 3 00 abc companies. He was held in contempt, r 4 16 abcdefghi 4 44 and the circuit court refused a writ of | r 5 13 abc habeas-corpus. The appellant contended there must be a written charge before the grand jury, and that the grand jury investigation was not a proceeding under the Sherman act.

The supreme court held otherwise. Hale sought refuge under the fifth stand for different stations and indicate amendment, whereby a person is not compelled to incriminate himself, but by a Wollaston, by Norfolk Downs, amendment, whereby a person is not the court held that this operated only c Atiantic, where the witness was exposed to criminal prosecution, and as the immunity provision of the Sherman act prevented criminal prosecution of the witness he had to testify. It also held that the fifth amendment and the immunity law was not designed to protect a corporation but the state of t from criminal prosecution and to preclude its officers from testifying.

the fifth amendment to be set up against the production of the books and papers of a corporation in court. It found the order for the production of papers in the Hale case too broad, and directed that it be modified, but otherwise affirmed the circuit court decree in this case, and in the McAllister case, which was substantially like it.

In an opinion by Justice McKenna the court decided the cases against the witnesses in the "paper trust" cases against them, holding that they should answer the questions propounded to them in the proceeding against the alleged trust brought by the government ed in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The Wisconsin cases were dismissed for want of jurisdiction, while

The "paper trust" issue resulted from the filing of a suit by the government in December, 1904, against the General Paper company, which is the western branch of the paper trust, and against other companies subsidiary to the General company. In the course of an examination before a special master, the officials of the General Paper company objected to many of the questions asked them on the ground that they were not relevant, applying their refusal to all the points which were necessary for the government to explore. The circuit court then ordered the answering of questions, and the production of the books and papers required by the government. On this issue the matter was taken on appeal to the supreme court.

Quincy Concert At Sailors' Haven

A party of over fifty gentlemen and ladies of Quincy visited the Sailors' Haven in Charlestown on Monday even- first time since 1893 and have retained invitation given by Mr. Stanton King, which was gained last year for the first HEAPS OF GIFTS CONTRIBUTED superintendent of the Haven, to the time in 50 years. Warmington Brothers in vocal duets. Pickering and Beaulien in a banjo song and dance act.

Every number clapped and cheered but the specialty act by Pickering and Beaulieu was the popular feature. The sailor boys can dance and sing, but they were ready to acknowledge that Beaulieu in the variety of his steps and ightness of execution could lead them.

The entire party was seated on the stage which is set with a mast, yard arm and square sail furled. During the program the sailors went aloft and unfurled and hoisted the sail to the singing of their "sailor shanties."

The Quincy company was popular with the sailors for many of them were from the battleship Rbode Island built at the Fore River and they believe that anything from Quincy is "well-rigged." Coffee and buns were passed by the oung ladies and the evening's program closed at eleven o'clock.

These concerts are held every Monlay night, that being the first night Mr. B. T. Warner of Brockton, the ashore of the sailors from the regular of the barrooms, so that Jack can be aided over that hard time: the first

Arts and Crafts.

Many neighboring towns have become interested in arts and crafts and are acomplishing much, especially Hingham and Bridgewater, which have fine exhibits each year. The movement has never been very strong in Quincy, but now that the Quincy Women's club has an arts and crafts committee, with Mrs. loseph C. Morse as chairman, probably an interest will be awakened. To further the movement an exhibit is to be held at the club house, Presidents hill, on Saturday, March 17th, day and even ing, free to all and every one is cordialclub members who think they know the having any hand-made articles such as work, leather work, pottery, wood carving, beadwork, metal and enamel work, The funeral of Arthur W. DEMOCRATS GAIN

Carry Two More Cities In Maine Municipal Elections

Portland, Me., March 13 .- Democrats have overthrown the Republican municipal control at Augusta for the ng. The event was the result of an the Democratic control of Bangor, publican, in Brewer and Biddeford. The result in Belfast is not known, for the reason that all means of communication by wire has been interrupted by the storm and not restored.

Frederick W. Plaisted was elected mayor of Augusta by 440 votes over Charles E. Purinton, (Rep.) candidate, and his party carried seven of the eight wards for aldermen, councilmen and minor officers.

Bangor Republicans, in their fight to regain the mayoralty, won by William of times, but he was defeated by Peirce, Tribune. who was given a plurality of 955. In addition the Democrats have a majority in the aldermanic board and a tie in joint convention with the mayor to break it in their favor, Mayor Clapp (Rep.) was re-elected at Brewer without opposition and Gilman P. Littlefield (Rep.) was chosen to the Democrats made no nominations there.

The success of Democratic tickets yesterday, following those of a week ago, when Democratic mayors were elected in six out of 11 cities, are said to be due to revolt against the Sturgis-Cobb liquor enforcement law passed by the last legislature.

THE NAME "JOHN BULL." Was the Invention of the Satirical

John Bull, the mythical personage supposed to represent the English people, was the invention of Dr. Arbuthnot in one of his satirical sketches ridiculing the great Duke of Marlborough. In the opinion of Dr. Johnson, Arbuthnot was "the first man among eminent writers in Queen Anne's time." He drew John Bull as the typical Englishmana stout, red faced old farmer, far too corpulent for comfort, choleric, but withal an honest and well meaning fellow. He clothed him in leather breeches and top boots, put a stout oaken cudgel in his hand and a bulldog at his heels and set him up for all time to serve as the representative Englishman.

He may have been not so bad a carlcature in the days of Queen Anne, but to the people of Zion City, made the today certainly there is much force in an English critic's remark that "he completely hides the Englishman of real life." The average Englishman of today is physically no stouter certainly than-probably not so stout as-the average American, and the stout cudgel and the bulldog are no longer apt symbols of the modern Britisher's disposipreached, taking as his text Paul's let- tion. He has lost the excessive pugnaciter to the Philippians and urging the ty of his forefathers and is, above all, stern duty of a complete renunciation anxious to keep the peace with his Uncle Samuel.-London Standard.

The monthly business meeting and froic of the Makaria Fraternity was held on Tuesday evening in Bethany chapel with the Bethany Brotherhood as gnests. Over 100 were present.

After the business of the evening had been transacted Mr. King introduced his neighbor and friend, Mr. Charles Price, who is president of the Mercantile Trust Company of Boston.

Mr. Price addressed the young men on the essentials for success in business. He placed first a good sound christian character. Ability, he said, was desirable, but he had seen many a man sharp debate in the House of Represenwith ability whose life was not a success. He cited a few examples. Replying to the question,-What kind of boys are the business men looking for? and another for a law to make it possiwith good home training; boys who the expense of the bridge over Weykeep good company, and have good habits. Pull is not essential. The poor boy who has little money to spend, but is ambitious, is usually the most clean speaking boys, wide awake boys, boys who believe in going to church and Sunday school.

The applause which was given appreciated the talk, and would endeavor to profit therefrom.

Mr. George Bonney of Boston entertained with whistling and solos, accompanying bimself on the zither. His whistling was marvelous.

Mr. B. T. Warner of Brockton, who was to have been the speaker at the as originally announced. Brotherhood meeting, was next introwith equal success, "How Reubie same line. played," "The courtship of dark eyed Mr. Barnes of Weymouth, as represaved St. Michaels.'

SYSTEM OF EXPULSION

Investiga ors Think That It Is Vicious -- Practically All Upper Censure For Two Officials

Washington, March 14.-The subcommittee named by the house committee on naval affairs to investigate hazing at Annapolis made its report to the whole committee through Representative Vreeland of New York, chairman of the investigating committee. Rear Admiral Brownson is censured in the report for exacting a pledge from mid shipmen not to engage in hazing and for allowing the boys to think that the pledge was personal to him and did not hold after Rear Admiral Sands became superintendent at Annapolis. Lieutenant Snyder is also censured mildly for having countenanced hazing.

Graduated punishment for hazing is recommended by the sub-committee which is firmly of the opinion that the present system of expelling all unidshipmen found guilty of hazing is vicious. Sands and other officers now at the academy are praised for the discipline they are maintaining and the re port shows that cadet officers have been chiefly responsible for hazing. The sub-committee found that 281 members of the three upper classes at the acad emy, including the class recently graduated, have been guilty of hazing and academy. The result would be a great loss to the government, in the opinio of the members of the committee, who found that many of the offenses were trivial.

Investigation showed that there are three forms of hazing at Annapolisphysical hazing, running and fagging. They are defined in the report. The physical hazing consists of fighting, ompelling midshipmen to stand on their heads and other much-discussed means of punishment. Fagging is the service for upper classmen. Running i ridiculous feats. Under the forms of physical hazing, sitting on infinity was one of the most commonly practiced It was generally practiced at meal time and was the forcing of a midshipma to maintain a sitting posture after his cording to the report of the sub-committee

The report deplores the tendency or the academy and says the opinion of the midshipmen as a body on the subject of hazing is not satisfactory. The present senior class is especially con mended, however, for its action against hazing.

Present hazing laws are frankly denounced as a hindrance to discipline and congressional interference is declared to be injurious to the academy Changes in the laws are suggested which will make it possible to punish each case as it deserves.

PANIC ON HIGH SEA

Officers Had to Threa en Passengers During Terrible, Storm New York, March 14.-A terrifying experience at sea is reported by the officers of the French line steamer Hudson. During the storm which swept the Atlantic last Friday afternoon and evening the 336 steerage passengers on the steamer became panic-stricken. The barometer fell rapidly until the fluid in the tube disappeared from view. the mercury in the thermometer went down with a rush and a terrific gale rolled up great seas. When the storm was at its worst the steerage passengers became panic-stricken and fought to go on deck, insisting that if they must lie they wanted to meet death in the

The stewards and minor officers lost control of the passengers and appealed to the captain for assistance. Captain Juham and First Officer Mehausas hurried to the steerage quarters and attempted to pacify the terrorized passengers. First they assured them that there was no danger, then threatened them and finally drew revolvers and knives and threatened to use them unless the passengers became quiet. Or der finally was restored and the storm soon abated.

Captain Juham said that the storm, while it lasted, was the most severe he ever saw in his 30 years' experience at sea.

Voicano Destroys Three Villages Honolulu, March 14 .- The officers of the steamer Sierra, which has arrived here from Sydney, N. S. W., via Samoa, reports that the eruption of the volcano on the island of Savaii of the Samoan group continues on a large scale. Three villages have been completely destroyed including Maleola, where was located the finest cocoa plantation on the island. The lava from the volcand is flowing into the ocean in a stream three-quarters of a mile wide and 20 feet deep, at the rate of 20 feet an hour. At night a solid wall of molten lava five miles long can be seen reaching far ou into the sea. For some distance ahead the sea water boils and the surf breaks over the flery stream. The government recently chartered the steamer Macri to remove women and children from the zone of danger.

A Chorus Singer's Suicide

Washington, March 14.-William Thomas, aged 22, a member of th chorus of the "Wonderland" company committed suicide last night by drink ing carbolic acld in the property roon of the Columbia theatre while the play was in progress. Thomas was an ad mirer of Idra Gordon, 16 years old, als a member of the company. The suicide was caused by disappointment because she would not reciprocate his affection Thomas held a goblet in one hand and a bottle in the other. Pouring out the poison he said, "Good-bye, old girl," and drank the poison. The play con tinued uninterruptedly, the audience not being aware of what had transpired gas well six miles from here which wa capped with a huge iron hood after it had burned without restraint for 17 days, consuming millions of feet of gas, has burst forth again. After having confined the fire for 12 hours the hood was perforated by the tremendous force of sand and flame beneath it, and soon became a heap of scrap iron.

Great Oil Well Blaze Caney, Kan., March 14 .- The great

Process Server Keeping Tabs

New York, March 14 .- The New York American says that Louis Fitzgerald, former chairman of the Equit able Life Assurance society, who was desired as a witness by the Armstrong investigating committee, has returned to New York. He was in his home here last night and a process server held vigil in the street nearby.

Protection of Children

Des Moines, March 14.-The senate has passed the child labor bill, which prohibits the employment of children under 18 years in any gainful occupa tion which would injure their health The law is also aimed at department stores, prohibiting employment which compels children to remain standing for any length of time.

Armed Men Installed In Church Privas, France, March 14.-The population of the town of Coucouron is determined to resist the taking of the inventory of the church under the church and state separation law. The doors are heavily barricaded. A hundred men armed with rifles and provisioned for a long siege are installed inside the building.

In Memory of Lincoln

Frankfort, Ky., March 14.—The state senate concurred in a house bill appropriating $200 for a tablet at Hodgen ville to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. Hodgenville is the county seat of the county in which Lincoln was born and was the scene of his boyhood days. The governor will approve the bill.

Proves to Be Deposed Prics of the Episcopal Denomination

North Conway, N. H., March 14.-It has just been learned that a man who committed suicide at a hotel in Oldtown, Me., on March 6 was Rev. St. Ethelbert Yates, a graduate of Oxford university and formerly rector of Christ Episcopal church here, but who was deposed from the priesthood by Bishop Niles of the liocese after an elopement.

Yates had been living at Brookton. Me. He registered at the hotel in Oldtown, where he died, as "S. E. Yates, Brookton." He ended his life by taking Yates was born in England 40 years ago. He came to this country five years ago and after a brief stay in New Jersey, where he married, he was assigned to Christ church here.

Two years ago the diocese was shocked by the disappearance of Yates and the daughter of a citizen of North Conway, at whose home he was a boarder. The two were traced to Halifax, where it was found that a marriage ceremony had been read over them. The couple went to England, where Yates applied to a Roman Catholic bishop in London for a mission to that

The bishop wrote to Bishop Niles at Concord, to learn if the man had left the Episcopal church in good standing. The reply of Niles ended the attempt of Yates to enter the Roman Catholic church in London.

Yates' own wife was granted a divorce in New Jersey. Yates and the young woman who left North Conway with him returned to the United States and separated. A few months ago Yates was married to a young woman of Brookton, Me. Yates then taught school for a few weeks. He disagreed with his last wife and this, with other troubles, it is thought, induced him to end his life.

WARRANTS SWORN OUT

Criminal and Civil Suits to Be Institu ed Against Forty Men Who Caused Destruction of Much Property

Perryopolis, Pa., March 14.—Because he was besieged in his home all night, and because of damage to his property by strenuous serenaders on the occasion of the wedding of his son, H. J. Mossbury of this place has shown out warrants for the arrest of 40 of the town's prominent young men. Mossbury says that the serenaders made him a target for sticks and stones, riddled his house with shot and caused other damage with dynamite. In addition to the criminal prosecution Mossbury announces he will bring civil suits against the offenders.

The serenaders, 50 in number, appeared at the Mossbury home last Thursday night and when Mossbury, with his son and daughter-in-law, appeared on the porch, the crowd threw a volley of stones, one of these hitting the elder man in the leg, causing a painful wound. Incensed with rage, he drew a revolver and, firing into the air. ordered the crowd to leave.

His act only served to enrage them and, after sending a part of their number after shotguns, members of the mob began a fusillade which did not diminish until nearly four hours later. Over 350 shots were fired during this time, and when the crowd ceased firing at 2 o'clock Friday morning the shade trees in the front yard were shot to pieces, the roof of the porch and parts of the hous were riddled with shot and the fences in the immediate vicinity were laid flat on the ground.

Later the besieging force secured five them simultaneously. Nearly every window in the house was shattered and its occupants badly frightened. When the crowd dispersed nearly two bushels of empty shotgun shells were picked up in the front yard.

May Kill Statehood Bill

Washington, March 14.-There ar indications that the statehood bill m: be referred by Speaker Cannon to to committee on territories. This action the friends of statehood for Indian Ter ritory and Oklahoma fear, will entirely defeat the measure. The committ can retain the bill indefinitely an should it appear that there are "in surgent" votes enough to concur in the senate the bill would not, they say, be brought into the house.

TWO WEAK SENATORS

Depew and Platt Reported In Bad Physical Condition

Washington, March 14.—Senator Depow's unexplained absence from the Capitol, following some sadly significant developments while he was here, has given rise to the belief that his resignation from the senate will be no longer delayed if his real friends can influence him. It has been currently reported for some days that he had gone to a sanitarium, but this has been denied by his family, who assert that he is only resting.

For some weeks the senator was accompanied in all his steps by an attendant, even in ard out of the senate chamber. He had previously made an effort to alight from an electric car moving at full speed in a way that carried consternation to other passengers. The situation is pathetic in the ex-

Senator Plafte, his colleague, while his mind seems perfectly clear, finds extreme difficulty in walking and goes about the senate upon the arm of an attendant. New York's representation in the congress is singularly weak and the demand expressed by some newspapers of the state for two new senators should in reason be met.

Britain Sticks to Free Trade London, March 14.-The fiscal debate in the house of commons ended last evening by Premier Bannerman moving the closure. The discussion was devoid of interest, the opposition occupying the time with irrelevant speeches and demands for divisions on many amendments. Eventually the motion declaring it to be the determination of parliament to resist any attempt to institute protective duties was carried by 474 to 98 votes.

HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratsfully received.

The Secretary, Timothy Reed, Adams St., Julicy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad c confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS. The Directors of the Young MEN's CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor. The Treasurer, William F. Cummings, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, Ernsst G. Gay, will be happy to answer inquiries.

GREAT ATHLETIC FIELD. Solumbia University Plans $1,000,000

Stadium at New York. Columbia university in New York plans to have a great athletic field on its North river water front, says the New York World. Around it will be covered stands with a seating capacity of 35,000 persons.

In many respects this university structure is to be unique and also com plete in the matter of athletic equipment. The committee having in charge good references. MRS. H. L. RICE. A the big project is composed of Daniel street. Le Roy Dresser, '89; William Barclay measure to Mr. Dresser.

The structure is to cost more than $1,000,000. Before any of the structural work can begin it will be necessary to fill in part of the river front at a cost of $400,000. It is the intention of the university to pull down the present Columbia boathouse, and all this filled in space will be part of the ground for the new field.

The project depends in part on the New York. consent of the municipal authorities to making changes in the water front. It is necessary also for the committee to obtain the sanction of the New York Central railroad, which owns a strip of land between its tracks and the water front. With these two obstacles out of the way the university will begin filling in the space between One Hundred and Sixteenth street and One Hundred and Twentieth street out to the pierhead line.

The city will in several ways be gainer by the project. The university plans to erect a handsome "water gate," at which distinguished visitors to the city may be landed and met by the proper authorities. Just inside of this gate will be the great stadium, in which a whole brigade of troops may to pay military honors to foreign visitors. Besides the water gate the city materially tending to insure good at the south side of the stadium and

The water gate will be only a few PAINTER, minutes' walk from Grant's tomb, and this will afford a means for the warships of other countries to land their officers so that they can visit the tomb Around the athletic field will be solid banks of stands built of steel and con crete and handsomely decorated. Just in front of the stands will be a quarter mile track. Underneath the stands will be a one-third mile covered track for use of the university athletes in winter. Ample room will be provided in that part of the stand facing on the river for all of the oarsmen. The field is to be large enough for all intercollegiate contests.

CANNON'S RUINED APPLE. How the Speaker of the House Lost

His Favorite Fruit. A catastrophe of which Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was both the cause and the victim marked the adjournment of the house the other day, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Times. All day there lay on The Street Railway Employes Associ- the marble top of Uncle Joe's desk a water to the mouth of every man who > Occasionally Uncle Joe stroked it caressingly with one hand, while with the other he toyed with the heavy headed ivory gavel. At times, when the exigencies of his duty required him to maul his desk with the gavel, he thoughtfully thumped a spot at the other end, far removed from the precious apple. Not once all the afternoon was the luscious fruit in danger.

Then came the finish of business, and Sereno Payne, floor leader of the Republicans, was on his feet to make a motion to adjourn. Some one else started toward the speaker's desk to get recognition. Just as he got within range Uncle Joe, growing a little weary of wielding the heavy gavel with his right hand, shifted it to his left and for one fateful instant forgot the apple.

Down came the ivory head with a smash fair on that devoted apple. There was a doleful crunch, a gasp from the house, and little jets of apple juice were flying from the desk in all directions

"Shucks!" said Uncle Joe, as he surveyed sadly the ruins of his apple. And then the house adjourned.

Bullet Proof Motor Cars,

Successful experiments were made in the streets of Paris recently with one of the seven new bullet proof and shell proof motor cars which are being built for the Russian government, says a Paris correspondent of the London Express. M. Etienne, the war minister, rode in the car, which attained a speed of twenty-eight miles an hour on level ground and ascended gradients as steep as one in four. The car weighs three tons and is of thirty horsepower. It is provided with a small quick firing swivel gun, which can fire 800 shots a minute in any direction. France also is providing herself with a complete corps of these armored motor cars. The car carries a folding steel bridge, which can be quickly placed across ditches. With the help of this the car

The government is doing a great work for the education of the masses. Schools are divided into primary, advanced primary, and preparatory. There is a great difficulty in building up a national school system in Mexico, as people in middle and upper classes are loath to have their children associate with the children of the poor.

The federal government supports an Academy of Fine Arts, Schools of Civil Engineering, Medicine and Law Schools, Academy of Commerce and Trade, Conservatory of Music and schools for deaf, dumb and blind manual training in elementary schools, and night schools, a fine showing for a young republic, her constitution not being adopted till 1857.

Crowded House At the Old Folks

Ye olde folkes singing meeting at First church chapel was a great success Wednesday evening and enjoyed alike by audience and singers. Every seat in the chapel was taken when the singers marched upon the stage. Their oldtime costumes were quaint and becom-

The songs by all ye singers were given with good expression and time, the men's voices being especially strong and blending harmoniously with those of the women.

Among the songs rendered by the full chorus were: Auld Lang Syne, Northfield, Complaint Majesty, Easter Anthem, New Jerusalem, Sherburne. David's Lamentation, Confidence and Invitation. These were interspersed with more wordlie songs, and a recitation by Susannah Smith, who was recognized as Mrs. Isabelle Davis who always gives much pleasure with her readings. She was so heartily applauded that she responded. Among the soloists were: Priscilla Sweetbriar (Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell), who sang "Olde Folkes at Home; Simon and Ruth (Harold Curtis and Ruth Packard) who sang "Dost thou love me. Sister Ruth;" Prudence Primrose (Mrs. Laura Tirrell), who saug "Strike the Cymbal;" Deborah Deliverance Daniels (Mrs. John D. Buckingham), who sang a Scotch ballad, and Phyllis Hope (Mrs. Rose K. Whiton), who sang "My Grandma's Advice." The soloists were all fine and were the recipients of hearty encores.

Every number on the program was enjoyed. Those participating were: First sopranos, Mrs. Ross K. Whiton, Mrs. J. D. Buckingham, Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell and Mrs. Isabelle Davis; second sopranos, Mrs. H. Armed Like Men, While Chil- MONEY. dren Were Used as Shields --Action Praised by Roosevelt

Washington, March 15 .- A cablecriticisms of the recent battle of Mount Dajo, on the Island of Jolo, together with correspondence between the president and Secretary Taft on the subject, direction of Taft, who called attention to the criticisms of "wanton slaughter of Moros" and asked him to send all the particulars. Taft's letter to the president, dated March 13, follows:

"The account of the engagement on Mount Dajo between our forces and a large band of Moro robbers showed such a large loss among the Moros as to give rise in a part of the public press to the criticism that there had been a wanton destruction by our troops of Moro lives, including those of women and children. Inquiries were made of me by members of the senate and house of representatives in respect to the matter. Accordingly I yesterday directed that the following telegram be sent to General Wood:

"'It is charged that there was a wanton slaughter of Moros, men, women and children, in the fight in Jolo, at Mount Dajo. I wish you would send me at once all the particulars in respect to this matter, stating exact fact.'

"General Wood's answer came today. It seems to me to show most clearly men, women and children among the Moros was wholly unavoidable, in view of their deliberate use of their women and children in actual battle, and their fanatical and savage desire that their women and children should perish with them if defeat were to come. They seem to have exhibited in this fight the well known treachery of the uncivilized Mohammedan when wounded, of attempting to kill those approaching for the purpose of giving aid and relief. General Wood's dispatch is as fol-

" 'In answer to the secretary of war's request for information March 12, I was present throughout practically the entire action and inspected the top of the crater after the action was finished. Am convinced that no man, woman or child was wantonly killed. A considerable number of women and children were killed in the fight, but the number is unknown, for the reason that they were actually in the works when assaulted, and were unavoidably killed in the fierce hand-to-hand fighting which took place in the narrow inclosed spaces. The Moro women wore trousers and were dressed and armed much like the men and charged with them. The children were in many cases used

"These incidents are much to be regretted, but it must be understood that the Moros were fighting not only as enemies but religious fanatics, believing paradise to be their immediate reward if killed in action with Christians. They apparently desired that none be saved. Some of our men, one a hospital steward, were cut up while giving assistance to wounded Moros by Designers of Artistic Glasses. the wounded and those feigning death REFRACTING OPTICIANS. for the purpose of getting this vengeance. I personally ordered assistance given wounded Moros and that food and water should be sent them and medical attendance. In addition, friendly Moros were at once directed to proceed to the mountain for this purpose. I do not believe that in this or in any other fight any American soldier wantonly killed a Moro woman or child, or that he ever did it except unavoidably in close action. The action was most desperate literally for their lives in close quarters to distinguish who would be injured by the fire.

" 'In all actions against Moros we have begged Moros again and again to fight as men and keep women and children out of it. I assume the entire responsibility for the action of the troops in every particular and if any evidence develops in any way bearing out the charges I will act at once."

President Roosevelt's reply to Taft follows:

"I have received your letter of March 13, with accompanying cable of General Wood answering your inquiry as to the alleged wanton slaughter of Moros. This answer is, of course, entirely satisfactory. The officers and enlisted men under General Wood's command credit on the American army. They are entitled to the heartiest admiration and praise of all those of their fellowcitizens who are glad to see the honor of the flag upheld by the courage of the men wearing the American uniform."

"GRAFT" AT CHELSEA

Speculation as to What District Attorney Moran Will Do

Chelsea, Mass., March 15 .- Discussion of the "graft" report continues to stir the citizens of Chelsea and there is much speculation as to the outcome. Politicians most competent to judge claim that none of the five aldermer whose resignations were called for will comply with the suggestion of the investigating committee and there is room for doubt if the necessary eight votes can be obtained in the board to oust them. There seems little chance that any of the five aldermen hit by the report will favor its acceptance, which leaves the eight votes to come from the 10 remaining members.

What most interests the average Chelsea citizen, however, is not the report itself or the matter of the resignations, but what the district attorney will do in the matter. That Mr. Moran ntends to take it up there can be no doubt, for he said as much yesterday at the state house while making a speech in opposition to the Thayer bill. Moran probably will wait a few days for the report of the committee and the evidence taken down by the stenogra pher to be brought to his office by some official; then if it is not forthcoming he undoubtedly will proceed on his own initiative to investigate the matter thor oughly and sift it to the bottom.

CLASSED AS A DRAW

But Nelson Was "All to the Good" In Bout With McGovern

Philadelphia, March 15.—Battling Nelson had the advantage of Terry Mc-Govern in their six-round bout which took place here last night. For the first three rounds the fight was a disappointment to the 5000 persons who had paid fancy prices to witness it. There were scarcely half a dozen solid blows struck, the men wrestling from one end of the ring to the other with the referee powerless to separate them. It had been agreed that the referee was not to lay his hands on the men, but simply to warn them to step back when they rushed to a clinch. The repeated warnings had no effect on the fighters and the crowd hissed, groaned and cried "fake" and "take them out of the ring."

At the beginning of the fourth round the men began to fight as though they meant business. Nelson kept right after McGovern and used a straight left to advantage. McGovern frequently countered with hard lefts and rights, but his blows, while they appeared to have great force behind them, failed to make an impression on the sturdy Dane.

At the close of the fifth round McGovern went to his corner in distress. When the men came up for the final round Nelson sent a left to the jaw and McGovern rushed to a clinch. Every time that Nelson would land a stiff blow McGovern would grab him around the body and hang on until Nelson threw him off by sheer strength. It is doubtful if McGovern could have stood the gruelling for another round.

Nelson deserved the decision, but as no decisions are rendered when both men are on their feet, the fight is classed as a draw. Neither man was knocked down during the fight, but McGovern slipped to the floor in the fifth round while trying to escape from the Dane.

Red Flag Sentiment

New York, March 15.—The Industrial Workers of the World, the new labor organization, in conjunction with the Socialist Labor party, held parades and a mass meeting last night to protest against the arrest of officers and members of the Western Federation of Miners in connection with the killing of former Governor Steunenberg. Red flags were carried by the paraders and one of the transparencies read: "Our brothers, Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and St. John, must not be murdered. Show the master class your spirit." Resolutions denouncing the arrests were adopted.

A Most Unusual Fatality

Philadelphia, March 15 .- George P. Burnap, aged 38, arrived here from his home in Santa Cruz, Cal., to attend the funeral of his father, Captain G. J. Burnap, U. S. N. About midnight he went with his brother Arthur to the latter's room. As he lay upon the bed smoking a pipe his brother picked up a newspaper from a trunk which stood in a corner of the room. A revolver which had been placed on the trunk was dislodged, fell to the floor and was discharged. The bullet penetrated the 10, 15, 25 and 50c | mattress and entered George Burnap's

London, March 15 .- A new organization, entitled the Citizens' National league, has been launched here. The primary object is combatting all forms of state or municipal socialism and municipal extravagance. Many influential men are among the organizers, who expect the league to exercise considerable influence in shaping legislation. Every adult British subject is eligible to membership.

Rare Acts of Heroism by Sailors of Two Steamships Who Continued Work of Rescue After Boats Were Battered to Pieces

Boston, March 15 .- Suffering, mental and physical, and self-sacrifice for the sake of saving others rarely exampled r 1 13 abc in the history of tragedies of the sea, r 1 43 abc attended the loss of the Phoenix line | r 2 13 abc steamer British King which, on Sunday last, in a raging west Atlantic storm, foundered about 150 miles south of Sable island and carried to death 27 r 5 13 abc members of the crew.

The Bostonian arrived here yesterday r 8 43 abc afternoon and the details of the disaster became known.

Captain O'Hagen, one of those rescued from the British King, died afterward from the effects of injuries sustained in trying to save his ship.

The rescued who were brought here nclude James Flanigan, the second of-Try us and be convinced. ficer; J. D. Crawford, the chief engineer; Adolphus Beck, the fourth engineer, and William J. Curry, the steward. The others were coal passers and sail- r 10 25 abc ors, mostly Belgians, and one stowaway, Henry Parkotch of New York.

Two lifeboats from the Bostonian were crushed to fragments and the volunteer crews which manned them were thrown into the high-running seas while engaged in the work of rescue, c Pope's Hill. but all were safely landed on board the steamer. When the first life craft was lowered from the Bostonian the small boat was swept to the stern of the big ship and there destroyed, and several of the seamen were bruised and torn. Yet, despite the condition of the sea, which is described by witnesses as being literally mountainous, the voluneers were rescued by lines thrown out rom the steamer. Later a second attempt to reach the sinking ship was successful and 13 men, including O'Hagan, were taken from the British King and landed on the Bostonian. Then again a powerful billow carried the lifeboat against the lifesavers were thrown into the sea to by their comrades.

Volunteers from the Mannheim, after a heroic battle with the waves, had taken off 11 men from the British King, but after this neither of the steamers, in consequence of the increasing gale, 7.29 A.M., then 29 and 59 minutes past each hour could make a try to reach the founder- until and including 10.59 P.M., then 11.14 and ing freighter. Returning through the flesh. Although he was unable to stand, he continued to direct the efforts of his crew. At the end of three days, when all hands had labored ceaselessly and without rest and with little food, the Bostonian and Mannheim were sighted and to these O'Hagan displayed the signal for assistance.

The British King went down about 450 miles east of Boston light and 140 miles to the south of Sable island. Both the Bostonian and the Mannheim stood by the scene of the wreck until Monday morning, but no bodies were recovered.

The British King sailed from New York last Tuesday, bound for Antwerp with a miscellaneous cargo and 150 head of cattle. The passage was fair until Friday morning, when the ship was struck by a strong northwesterly wind, which gradually grew into a gale. Soon the ship became absolutely helpless. The rudder held. This enabled O'Hagan to steady his ship in the storm but this soon, too, was swept off. All this time the wreckage and oil barrels had been gathering about the *4.10, 4.20, *4.40, 4.50, *5.10, 5.29, *5.35, *5.40. steamer and now the billows crushed 5.50, *6.10, 6.20, *6.40, 6.50, *7.10, *7.20, *7.40, them down with tremendous energy to the sides of the ship. Growing Water Lilies From Seed. Many of the choicest water lilies, even the magnificent Victoria regia, may be grown from seed. For many years the seed of this lily, when brought to this country, failed to ger-

It was finally found that by bottling the seeds in the water of the river in which they grew they could be transported safely from the waters of the Amazon to the far west. Here the lily is usually grown with bottom heat, as it is very tender. Seeds started in pots in a temperature of 90 degrees will germinate in about two weeks and may be planted out in the open air when the nights have become warm-usually about the 1st of June-and will bloom the same summer, but cannot be carried through the winter, but must be started afresh each season, either by the purchase of plants or the sowing of seed, the latter being, of course, much more economical, as seeds may be purchased for a few nickels apiece, the plants costing as many dollars .- American Homes and Gardens.

Use For Old Shoes. Janitors collect the shoes cast away by tenants and send them to auction cooms, where they are sorted into piles marked "Men," "Women," "Children." Several poor people made fair bids, but the auctioneer did not seem anxious to sell. Finally a man pushed his way through the crowd and offered 10 cents apiece for the whole lot. His bid was successful.

"I was killing time with talk waiting for that fellow," said the auctioneer afterward. "He always pays high for these shoes, and he does not want them for wearing, either. He wants to beat them out for the leather in them. He gets what material there is, puts it through a process and makes stamped imitation leather novelties, such as picture frames, bags, pocketbooks, penknife holders and even chair backs and seats. He finds a ready sale for these novelties and gets a good price for them."-Shoe Retailer.

Blessing the River.

In the little Balkan state of Rounania it has been the custom from time immemorial for towns by the river Danube to keep the Christmas feast by a peculiar ceremony called "blessing the river." This used to be exhibition at the store of C. C. Hearn. physician himself and introduced the carried out on a scaffolding erected on the frozen river, but owing to an accident, when the ice broke, and hundreds of people were drowned, it is now held upon the bank. The people wear turbans of colored paper and carry long, white wands. Some are dressed to represent Biblical characters. The service, conducted by priests, lasts about half an hour, and then the ice is broken and a small wooden cross thrown into the water. Then people rush into the icy river after this emblem, and the person who secures it is supposed to be assured of great good luck for the coming year.

The Minister's Plowing

[Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co.] Things came about one spring day that Farmer Johnson, living two miles from the village of Lansing, traded a number of hogs and calves and a cow for a yoke of oxen. Farmer Johnson had been a farmer for a good many years, but had never owned a yoke of oxen. He was a good man and a member of a church congregation in the village, and his wife was known far and wide for her gentleness and benev-

The robins were tuning up their lyres and making ready to build their nests and go in for the simple life when the farmer yoked up his oxen and hitched them to the plow and started in to break the soil of a five acre lot which was to be planted to potatoes. The oxen turned a furrow twenty rods long and then decided to rest. They were coaxed and argued with, but they were obdurate. Not an hour's work was got out of them that whole day, The May sun was shining just as brightly and the May robins were singing just as gayly when the farmer and his oxen started in on the second day. Peace on earth and good will to men seemed to prevail all along the line, but a close observer would have noticed that the farmer's jaw was set and that the oxen had a defiant toss of the head. Things developed early. When two furrows had been plowed across the land the oxen suddenly started and ran away, and plow and minutes before there was a halt. When the oxen were brought out after dinner the farmer was armed with a stout club, and the light of Bunker Hill shone in his eyes. Perhaps the bovines had premonition of the coming cyclone, for they jogged along in a sober and industrious way for half an hour before breaking out; then it was another runaway and a halt in a fence corner. They had only stopped to breathe when the farmer was on top of them with his club. He also broke forth into language. He clubbed and he exclaimed; he pounded and he ejaculated; he walloped and he cussed.

farmer were dragged along for ten

One of the travelers along the highway that afternoon was the widow Barnes. She belonged to the same church as the Johnsons. She drove up as the circus was in full swing, and, jumping out of her buggy, she mounted the roadside fence and shrieked out: "Stop that! Stop that! Samuel John-and Peter and Paul!" "And don't you hit them oxen another blow! Whack! Whack! Whack!

"I command you to stop! In the name of the law I command you not to strike another blow!" Farmer Johnson struck a dozen.

"Very well. I know what I shall do. The people around here shall know what sort of a man you are before the

The widow drove to the village and made the good man's hair stand up. He couldn't help but feel that it was his duty to go out and investigate, and the widow lent him her horse and buggy for the drive. He arrived at the Johnson farm to find the oxen resting under a tree and the farmer sitting on the fence with a straw in his mouth. The oxen were wondering what further deviltry they could be guilty of.

"I am sorry, Brother Johnson, very sorry"- began the minister as he heaved a long sigh. "Sister Barnes told you all about it, did she?" "Everything." "She said I pounded the oxen with a

"She did, and I can see proofs of it." "She said I swore?"

"Like a pirate of old, and I can almost smell the fumes of sulphur around here. Brother Johnson, until a man can control his temper he cannot be looked upon as a Christian." "Parson, did you ever drive oxen?" asked the farmer after a bit.

"I-I cannot say that I ever did, but nothing can convince me that it is necessary to resort to profanity and brutality to move a yoke of gentle eyed oxen along." "Come along and give it a trial."

The good man hesitated, but the oxen were attached to the plow and headed around, and he advanced and seized the plow handles and gave them the word to go. They went. Their movements for the first five minutes were as gentle as grease running across the kitchen floor; then they stopped, wheeled, turned the yoke and ran over the plowman and dragged him along for ten rods before they could be headed off.

"That's the way they have been acting for a day and a half," observed the farmer. The minister limped toward the

"And I don't think I'm so much to blame for shouting at them." The other climbed over into the road and into the widow's buggy.

"I may have used a club rather freey, but under the circumstances"-The good man said "get up" to the horse and moved off. Two hours later the widow Barnes appeared at the parsonage to see if Farmer Johnson was to be churched for profanity and cruelty, and the minister advanced and whispered in her "Drop it! I'd have knocked their horns off the first half day!"

"STOP ON BOARD"

How the Mannheim's Signals Looked to British King

IT MEANT LOSS OF LIFE

Had Ill-Fated Steamer Stopped When Asked to, Every Member of Her Crew Might Have Been Saved--Schau's Story

New York, March 16 .- An account of how the steamer British King was followed the day before she sank by the steamer Mannheim, vainly fluttering signals which, if they had not been mistaken by the British King, would have saved the 27 lives which were lost last Sunday 150 miles south of Sable island, was given by Captain Andrew Schau

This steamer arrived here with 11 survivors of the lost ship. Saturday afternoon, Captain Schau said, 24 hours before the disaster, he sighted the foundering steamer and signalled its captain to stop his engines in order that boats from the Mannheim might be able to overtake the steamer and rescue the crew. But the tempest which later sent the ship to the bottom seemed to have conspired against the British King. Through the masses of spray and the great waves the signal which was sent "Stop" was read "Stop on board." The latter signal means don't leave the ship. Had the British King's engines been stopped then, Schau said, his boats could have saved the ill-fated crew, because the storm was not as bad as it became later. He said that before the steamer took its last plunge he saw seamen leaping overboard to avoid being drawn down in the suction. His story was as follows:

"A short time after noon on March 10 we sighted a vessel flying distress sig-She proved to be the British nals. King. We stood by, exchanging signals all the afternoon. Toward night that they would have to abandon the

"Had the British King not mistaken our signal to stop, I am confident that we should have been able to save every one on the ship. We began to make these signals about 5 p. m.

"During the night the gale increased and the seas became more dangerous. At 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon we have to send boats. Our first boat was smashed to splinters against the hull. We lowered another boat and the crew managed to get away in it.

"They took off 11 men and brought them back to the Mannheim. As the last man stepped from the lifeboat it was smashed like the first. Another boat was smashed before we made up our minds that it would be useless for us to try to get a small boat to the Brit-

"Meantime the Bostonian, which had been lying near since early in the day. The snow shovelers were busy every- had also sent a boat, but we were ut able to see it. Darkness settled down and later the moon came up. It was almost as light as day. We could see the British King, low in the water, wallowing in the seas, and knew there were men on board because we could see moving lights. The cries of the cattle sounded above the raging of the

"It was a frightful thing to have to be there, utterly helpless, and wait for that ship to go down with those brave men aboard of her. Greater Portion of New England Is Swept by a Storm

Boston, March 16 .- Traveling at a rate of nearly 60 miles an hour and bringing with it wintry conditions, the storm which has been skirting the southern states reached New England yesterday forenoon and at midnight the centre of its gyration was somewhere near Nantucket.

At that time snow was being blown over a greater portion of New England at a speed of 40 miles an hour and the drifts had already begun to impede traffic on both steam railroads and electrie railways.

Only a small portion of the coastwise fleet was caught outside safe harbors, and most of them were able to reach an anchorage before dark. One of the largest fleet of tugs and barges that ever dropped anchor at one time in the vicinity of Martha's Vineyard safely rode out the gale last night at Vineyard Haven, Woods Hole and in Nantucket sound between East Chop and Bass

The snowfall in southern New England during the first two weeks of March has been greater than during either January or February.

Suicide Theory Not Accepted New Haven, March 16 .- It is announced here that all the life insurance companies which wrote policies on the life of Charles A. Edwards of New York, who died in the Hiller homestead here two months ago by suicidal act, according to the finding of Coroner Mix in the case, have settled the claims against them. The action of the companies is taken to mean that the companies did not accede to the suicide theory, for all of the policies are said to have contained a suicide clause, making them void if the insured took his own life.

Watchman Slugged With Gaspipe Manchester, N. H., March 16.-James E. Maynard and Allen Archer, two inmates of the state industrial school, are under arrest, charged with assault with attempt to kill Night Watchman Reed with a piece of gaspipe. Orderly inmates of the institution interfered, after the watchman had been beaten over the head. He was not seriously hurt. There had been an organized attempt to escape on the part of a number of inmates, but all weakened at the last moment, save Maynard and Archer.

Central Vermont Faces Strike

St. Albans, Vt., March 16.-Because they claim they have been unable to arrange for a conference on a new schedule for wages, the joint general committee of the Conductors and Trainmen's unions of the Central Vermont railway have called upon the members to cast ballots as to whether they will support a strike. The trainmen and conductors allege that they applied for a conference last September, but that they have been repeatedly put off and have not been

Howard Gullty of Burglaries Boston, March 16 .- Charles Howard, who, with a confederate named Carr, escaped from the Charles street fail last December, yesterday pleaded guilty in the superior court on two counts of breaking and entering. He will be sentenced later. The burglaries he admitted were those on which he had been awaiting trial when he and Carr escaped.

Defeat of Picketing Bill Boston, March 16 .- The so-called picketing bill was defeated in the state senate. The bill provided that peaceful communication be permitted between men on strike and those who take their places. Had the bill become a law strikers' pickets and their agents could pass among strike-breakers so long as they acted in a law-abiding manner. May Take Action Against Zelaya Boston, March 16 .- William S. Albers, an American citizen, who was released from a prison in Nicaragua on Jan. 7, after serving a sentence of several months on a charge of insulting President Zelaya, has arrived in this city. Albers and his lawyer will hold a conference to consider what steps will be taken as a result of Albers' arrest.

Tucker Decision Delayed Boston, March 16 .- No decision was handed down in the Tucker murder case at the sitting of the supreme court at Washington yesterday. Attorney Vahey said after a conference with Justice Harlan, who is giving the matter careful study, that the decision would probably be mailed to Boston, where he expects to receive it Saturday.

Receiver For Dry Goods Firm New Haven, March 16 .- The Howe & Stetson company, dry goods dealers, have gone into the hands of a temporary receiver. which he made, or the intensely dramatic character of the whole proceeding. His face flushed and his voice trembling with passion, his arms upraised and his fists clenched, Hamilton poured forth a flood of denunciation and invective upon the members of the board of trustees of the New York Life "curs and traitors," and paying especial attention to one unnamed, whom he described as "the Pecksniff of three administrations, the confidant of Beers scandal and author of the Beers pension-who rotates through one adminof yet another.'

Judge Hamilton's attack upon the trustees of the New York Life was made only the more dramatic by the fact that he immediately followed J. H. McIntosh, general solicitor of that company, who had been eulogizing the members of that board, and challenging any man to give reasons why they should be removed from office, as contem-

The only name he mentioned was that of the late President McCall, in the references to whom and to whose death he displayed marked emotion. He spoke of McCall as a victim, as having been shouldered with the blame-"the only one, the dead man, killed, that they drove to his grave and deserted," and declared that the memory of this man had appealed to him "to come down here and say something for him and just a word for myself."

He declared unequivocably that every payment to himself by the New York Life was made with the knowledge and approval of the trustees, especially of the finance and auditing committees. He declared again and again that the payments were proper and legitimate, and that he had no apology to make for himself or for President

One interesting statement was that, in spite of reports to the contrary, the socalled "Paris account" was actually reported and approved by the auditing committee. The crowd which filled the great assembly chamber as soon as the fact of Hamilton's presence became known about the building roared with laughter after his references to the enthusiasm with which he said his victories for the New York Life were received by the officials of the company.

"They would come and pat me on the back," he said, with a bitter sneer, "these men who would not now know me; they would come in and pat me on the back and say 'you did it.' ' A storm of applause followed his scathing reference to the "Yellow Dog" as a dog of courage and loyalty. > This was the ostensible purpose of mittee-to advocate the pending bill of the committee which would legislate the present boards of directors out of office and provide for a complete reorganization in November next.

> Judge Hamilton's appearance was totally unexpected by the committee and he declared both in his speech and to friends that it was almost as much so to himself-that it was only at luncheon yesterday that the impulse seized him to come before the committee and have his say in favor of the bill referred to, with a word for President McCall and himself. He arrived unannounced, shortly after 4 o'clock, sat back in the room, and for a time was recognized only by one or two newspaper men.

> The interest was intense as he prepared to speak amid silence, as no one had the slightest notion what he would began his bitter arraignment of the New York Life trustees were the following members of the board: Rufus S. Very Interesting Talk on Ladies Night of Wollaston Club

The weather was not auspicious Thursday evening for the annual ladies' night of the Wollaston Unitarian club, but nearly one-half of the 75 guests were ladies, and all felt well repaid for their effort by the instructive and interesting talk on Japan by Rev. William I. Lawrence of Winchester, for three years located in that country as secretary of a theological school.

A banquet was served at 7 o'clock by H. J. Seiler, the Boston caterer, including cold meats, escalloped oysters, mashed potatoes, croquettes and peas, rolls, ices, cake and coffee.

ROGERS' QUEER STORY Told It as a Joke and Stuck to It to Keep His Job

New York, March 16.-The alleged plot to assassinate Rev. Dr. Charles Parkhurst, the noted divine and reformer, was all a hoax, according to a confession made by Lawrence Rogers, the man who told the story upon which the investigation was based. Rogers confession was made before Magistrate Wahle in police court while he was be ing examined in John Doe proceedings in connection with the affair. He was promptly arrested on the motion of District Attorney Jerome and held for the grand jury on a charge of perjury.

According to the story upon which proceedings were begun, Rogers, a former prison guard, alleged that he had been approached with an offer of $500 if he would put Dr. Parkhurst's "lights out." He was led to unfold his story to Robert Kelly of the Citizens' Union through gratitude, it was said, because Kelly had once done him a good turn. In this story Rogers involved the police in the alleged plot to take Parkhurst's

Kelly finally laid his information be fore the Parkhurst society, and the district attorney was notified.

When Rogers was taken into cour yesterday to testify against two police men who had been named in his story he made the confession. "It was all: joke," he said. "I started it as a joke and when they got pressing me hard I kept stringing them so I could hold my job. I made the affidavit all right, but I won't send any innocent man to jail

Bluntly, a wind bag; 270 pounds of atmosphere, up on benevolent fraternities, up on politics, up on the money question, up on everything. The seven financial conspiracies engaged Maje Sampson's attention pretty continually and had for him a practical application. There were never less than seven conspiracies afoot in Medicine Bend to make Maje Sampson pay up.

Pay? Indeed, he did pay. He was always paying. It was not a question of paying; not at all. It was a question of paying up, which is different.

The children-they were brickbats, tow headed, putty faced, wash eyed youngsters of all sizes and conditions. About Maje Sampson's children there was but one distinguishing characteristic-they were all boys, nothing but boys, and they spread all over town. Was there a baby run over? It was Maje Sampson's. Was there a child lost? Maje Sampson's. Was there a violently large headed, coarse featured, hangdog, clattering sort of a chap anywhere around-in the street, station, roundhouse, yards, stock pens? It was a brickbat, sure-one of Maje Sampsen's brickbat boys.

The Sampsons were at the end of the street, and the end of the street was "raired," as Neighbor put it-stood on its hind legs. His house had a startling tumble over aspect as you approached it. The back end of his lot ran up into this day knows how, that car was the sheer, but he marked the line sharp- switched on to Maje Sampson's train ly by a kind of horizontal fence, because the cliff just above belonged to west. Maybe it was done as a trick else on earth around Medicine Bend.

Once the whole lean-to of the house blew off, but Joe McBracken stood ready for any emergency. He met the maverick addition at the foot of the grade, loaded it on his house moving truck, hitched on four bronchos, crawled inside the structure and, getting the lines Delaroo! through the front window, drove up When Maje Sampson got back into son for his bill.

Maje was so big and his cab so little that when he got his head through the window you couldn't see very much of the cab for shoulders and whiskers and things. From the car window he looked like a fourteen-year old boy springing out of a ten-year-old jacket. Three things only made Maje tolerable. First, the number of benevo lent orders he belonged to; second, De-laroo; third, Martie. Maje Sampson was a joiner and a sitter up. He would join anything on the West End that had a ritual, a grip and a password, and he would sit up night after night with anybody that had a broken leg or a fever, and, if nothing better offered, Maje, rather than go to bed, would tackle a man

That single word was, in "Delaroo's story wasn't any lie, fact, the key to Delaroo. Delaroo was though," muttered Neighbor. "But a a listener; for that reason nobody knew

He wasn't a railroad man by birth, but by adoption. Delaroo came from the mountains; he was just a plain mountain man. Some said his father was a trapper; if so, it explained everything-the quiet, the head bent inquiringly forward, the modest unobstrusiveness of a man deaf. Of a size and shape nothing remarkable, Delaroo-but a great listener, for though he looked like a deaf man he heard like a dispatcher and saw marvelously from out the ends of his silent eyes. Delaroo for all the world was a trapper.

He came into the service as a roundhouse sweeper; then Neighbor, after a long time, put him at wiping. Delaroo said nothing, but wiped for years and years and was in a fair way to become liked when instead he became one morning pitted with umbilical vesicles, and the doctors, with Delaroo's brevity, said smallpox. The boarding house keeper threw him out bodily and at once. Having no better place to go, Delaroo wandered into Steve Boyer's saloon, where he was generally welcome. Steve, however, pointed a hospitable gun at him and suggested his getting away immediately from the front end of it. Delaroo went from there to the roundhouse with his umbilicals and asked Neighbor what a man with the smallpox ought to do with it. Neighbor wouldn't run, not even from the smallpox, but he told Delaroo what it meant to get the smallpox started in the roundhouse, and Delaroo wandered quietly away from the depot grounds, a pretty sick up the mountain. Maje Sampson's lot man then, staggered up the yards and crawled stupid into a box car to die without embarrassing anybody.

Free Trial Electric Lighting,

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition.

To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge.

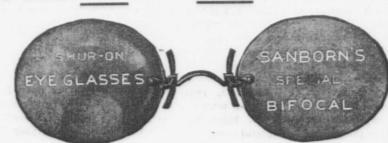

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary.

A GALL TO ARMS

Army Men's Friends Forced to Filibuster In the House

HOT SHOT FOR CANNON

Uncle Joe Called an "Enthroned Despot" Who Has Defied the Constitution and to Whose Dictaies Great People Must Bow

Washington, March 17 .- For an instant in the house yesterday there was a lapse in the vigilance of those who have been on guard to prevent legislation which would take away the rank of lieutenant general in the army and the chances of Generals Corbin and Mac Arthur for promotion.

Mr. Prince (Ills.), whose bill abolishing the office in question is the regular order of business under call of committees, slipped into the executive breach. There was an immediate call to arms on both sides and for three hours the friends of the generals filibustered against the bill. The net result was that the previous question is ordered on the bill and an amendment is pending, having been offered by Mr Grosvenor (O.), which extends the time of the operation of the bill so as to allow the promotion of the two officers named. On this amendment the house was voting, but without a quorum when adjournment was had until Mon day, when the vote will be completed At present it stands 78 ayes and 83 nays on the amendment.

Previous to this, the first real filibuster of the session, and before proceeding with the legislative bill, the house considered a bill permitting the leasing of 5000 acres of arid lands in La Plata county, Col., to the P. F. U. Rubber company for the purpose of the cultivation of the rubber plant. Mr. Brooks (Col.) explained that there was evidence of a rubber famine in this country. The land in question, he said, was unfit for agricultural purposes and had no mineral value. Mr. Gaines (Tenn.) proposed an amendment to prevent the "rubber trust" from getting control of the enterprise.

Mr. Shackleford (Mo.) was given permission to discuss the bill, and began to criticise Speaker Cannon regarding the statehood question. He was stopped before he had proceeded far, and the objection was fatal to further consideration of the bill. Before referring to the statehood matter Shackleford had this to say about the manner in which Brooks got his bill up: "The gentleman was not recognized until he had first surrendered his constitutional rights as a representative of the people and crept into your private room, Mr. Speaker, there to supplicate you to extend to him your grace.

"No member can submit any matter to a vote of the house until he shall have first sought and found favor in your sight. The constitution contemplates that the speaker shall be the servant of the house. In defiance of the constitution you have made yourself its master. You have packed every committee so that no bill can be reported without your consent. Unless you are villing no member can move to dis ing the rights and destinies of this great | Deeds at the end of Book 664.

First Day of New Torrey-Alexander Campaign In Philadelphia Ends With Thrilling Scene.

One Hundred and Fifty Outcasts Simultaneously Manifest a Wish to Get Right With God - Fervid Singing of Revival Melodies by Men a Striking Feature. Interest of Visitors In the Great

By GEORGE T. B. DAVIS.

Work.

The second of Philadelphia's three months' revival campaign conducted by Dr. Torrey and Mr. Alexander began Sunday, March 4, in a large military armory on South Broad street. The building has been remodeled and fitted with chairs to accommodate 5,400 persons. On either side of the auditorium a large gallery has been erected, while at one end of the choir seats accommo dating 700 singers rise sharply from the floor almost to the roof of the building. While addressing the audiwhich was built for them at the Second regiment armory, where the first month's revival meetings recently ended. In this building also light is supplied chiefly by hundreds of incandescent bulbs hung artistically in long festoons from the roof of the auditorium. Megaphone transmitters have also been placed near the speakers' platform, by which the preaching and singing is carried over the wires to all parts of Philadelphia.

The meetings on the opening day were again for women only in the afternoon and for men only in the evening. About fifty converts were recorded at the two meetings. Although this number is comparatively small, the evangelists seemed pleased with it, and they expect to reap an even greater harvest of converts during the coming month's meetings than were recorded in the first series.

Fervid Singing of Revival Melodies.

The most striking feature of the first day's services was the fervid singing of the new revival melodies by the audience of men at night. Under the camp meeting melody entitled "The Old Time Religion," which produced an almost magical effect upon the audience. Mr. Alexander taught them how to sing it in true southern style, and in a few minutes from thousands of throats resounded lustily the verse and refrain:

Makes me love ev'rybody, Makes me love ev'rybody Makes me love ev'rybody And it's good enough for me.

'Tis the old time religion, 'Tis the old time religion And it's good enough for me.

After this the men sang verse after verse of the old melody, the tide of enthusiasm reaching higher with each line. Two of the verses began thus:

It was good for our fathers. It will lead me to Jesus. Then Mr. Alexander improvised a line and had the audience sing It is good for Philadelphia.

Finally the climax was reached as he nad them all singing very softly:

It will take us all to heaven,

And it's good enough for me. Both afternoon and evening Dr. Torrey preached on the excuses men give for not becoming Christians. He took as his text, "And they all with one consent began to make excuses." "And," said the preacher, "they have been at it ever since. The gospel invitation is in invitation to a feast. Men treat it as if it were an invitation to a funeral. think that nothing more shows the folly and wickedness of men and women than the way in which they treat God's invitation of mercy and of love. If a great earthly king were to invite you to feast with him everybody would move heaven and earth to be there. But when the great king of heaven and earth, the great king of glory, provides ais feast such as no monarch on earth ever provided and sends out his invilation the great majority of us instead of accepting it with glad alacrity try to find some excuse for not sheet of note paper, 'One year from tonight I promise to attend to the affairs of my soul,' and then went back to bed, but she could not sleep, so she got up and wrote a better resolution. In six months she would attend to the affairs of her soul. Again she could not sleep. and she arose and wrote a yet better resolution, fixing the time of her reformation at one month. Still sleep did not come. Then she arose and wrote a promise to become a Christian within two weeks from that night. She could not sleep even after that until she wrote a final resolution to become a Christian within a week. Then she slept. The next night she went to an entertainment, caught cold and became ill with lung fever. She woke out of delirium a few moments before the week expired and cried out, 'Just one week too late!' and died without God and without hope."

"She went to her desk and wrote on a entire cost of the campaign.

Dr. Torrey said that some men give as their excuse the fact that they are too great sinners. He then cited the cases of three of the worst sinners he had ever known and declared that he them he would never despair of another person as long as he lived. He

"I have met three people in my life who seemed to me to be the most hopeless cases I have ever met. One was a man who had been a Christian and then had backslidden. In utter despair he had attempted suicide at least five times, and he had to be constantly watched lest be should do away with himself. He thought he had committed the unpardonable sin, that he had sinned away his day of grace, that he was possessed by the devil and that there was no salvation for him. "The second was a man who was a hopeless drunkard. In one of his drunken furies he had tried to kill his wife, and she had been forced to leave him and hide from him. He went down deeper and deeper. He used to come round to my office every few days and want me to lend him money to go

I suppose he got hunof railing around it, similar to that dreds of dollars a year out of different persons in my office which he simply squandered upon drink.

Professional Murderess.

"The other was a woman who was a professional murderess. She came to hear me preach one time and became under deep conviction of sin. But she was bound she would not give up her sin, and that woman deliberately got down and prayed to the devil, asking the devil to take away her conviction. The next time I saw her she came up to me and said: 'You can preach all you want to now. You can't trouble me any more. You did make me uneasy, but I knelt down and asked the devil to harden my heart, and he has done And she laughed in my face. 'Ha, ha!' she said. 'You can talk all you please. It won't move me.'

"Those three appeared to me the most hopeless cases I ever met. I told the Lord that if he would give me to see those three persons clearly saved I would never despair of mortal man or woman as long as I lived. And God gave me the whole three.

The first day of the new campaign closed with a midnight revival meeting in a low class theater in Philadelphia. At the end of the night meeting in the leadership of the magnetic Alexander armory Mr. Alexander went to the a high pitch of spiritual enthusiasm theater, accompanied by Melvin E. was reached in a few minutes after | Trotter, the converted drunkard of the meeting began. It was an old Grand Rapids, Mich. They found the building packed with a motley audience of drunkards, vagabonds and outcasts from one of the toughest districts of the city. Mr. Alexander led them in singing one or two revival hymns and then called upon his friend, Mr. Trot. Leg Mutton, ter, to tell how he was saved from the Borden's Cream-large size, ter, to tell now he was saved from the leave Dudley Street: 6.07 6.37, 7.07, 7.37 A. M., life of a drunkard and criminal. In Fine Granulated Sugar in cloth bags, 10 lbs. 49c presented, undiscovered by the ingen-lation as to whether it will be success-then 7 and 57 minutes past each hour until and the picturesque language of the street Mr. Trotter told the story of his salvation. His talk was frequently interrupted with outbursts of laughter and approval from his audience. When he asked all those who wished to get right with God and to be prayed for to raise their hands a thrilling scene was enacted. There were nearly 300 of the roughest looking men in the upper balcony, and when Mr. Trotter made his appeal almost simultaneously 150 hands were raised aloft.

An Editor's Answer.

Last night I heard an interesting story about the managing editor of one of the Philadelphia dailies. A correspondent recently sent the paper a communication abusing the evangelists and roundly criticising the revival movement and saying that he did not believe in a God. The editor laid the letter aside and did not answer it. The man did not understand why his communication did not appear and wrote several post cards inquiring the reason. Finally the writer called in person and asked why his letter had not been printed. The managing editor said to him: "Well, I just wanted to have a good look at the man who could write such a letter criticising the revival effort and saying that he did not believe in a God. I just wanted to see what sort of a man he looked like." And the interview ended.

Visitors continue to come to Philadelphia to witness the great work. Two of the interesting visitors of the last few days are Canon H. G. Dixon and his wife of Toronto. They were so impressed with the work of Dr. Torrey and Mr. Alexander in their city recently that they went to Philadelphia to spend a few days studying the movement. Canon Dixon declares that the revival fires started in Toronto are still burning brightly and that over "Some will say: 'I want to wait. I 4,000 converts were recorded during want to be a Christian some time, but the month's campaign of the revivalaot tonight." Dr. Torrey then told of ists. He declares that since they left I woman who was convinced that she Toronto he has had word of the conought to become a Christian, but did version of a brilliant criminal lawyer act want to do so right away. GOOD AFTERNOON.

In Hyde Park the misuse of unexpended balances of appropriations has been bitterly resented, and the auditors in their annual report say that such balances should be transferred to a general or contingent fund, to be drawn upon as the town deems proper. In Quincy and other cities the department officials seem to think they must expend every cent that is appropriated under each

Most of the legislators at the State House have doubtless heard of the right hand side and into a dining room death of Henry H. Faxon, and some of on the left hand side. There seems to be the need this year of extra efforts on the part of law and order to protect the temperance measures which in the past have proved beneficial, - the eleven hour law for closing all bars, the screen law, the abutters law and others.

Each member of the Legislature has heard from the Faxon Temperance Bureau several times of late, having received appeals to prevent the repeal of these laws, and arguments why they should be supported, and we believe they will have a good effect.

Susan B. Anthony a noted woman was buried on Thursday. She was a great worker in the temperance cause, in the anti-slavery movement, and an earnest advocate of woman's rights. VICTORY FROM DEFEAT.

Two Notable Instances In the War Record of Great Britain.

Only on one occasion has a British force offered terms amounting to surrender before the commencement of an action, but this is what the Black Prince felt himself obliged to do by the overwheiming forces of the French before the battle of Poitiers. So certain did he consider defeat to be that he actually offered to give up all the plunder he had taken, disband the greater part of his force and give an undertaking not to fight against the French for seven years, and so confident were afternoon. the French that they refused these terms. The result was one of the most brilliant victories that adorn the Brit-

A SWIMMING SCHOOL.

Lifeguard's Plan to Teach Atlantic

City Cottagers to Swim. Captain Charles Clark, a veteran life guard at Atlantic City, intends having a unique swimming academy, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. He said recently that he has entered into a contract with fifty or more members of the boating colony along Gardner's basin, where many Philadelphians have summer homes, to instruct them to swim as soon as the weather permits. Captain Clark's idea is to stretch a The many friends of Rev. L. B. minds of the young.

I found myself quite in accord with his views and read along with a good deal of approval until I had finished two pages. I was wondering who could have made such a speech, but was too much interested to look back to find out. But as I turned the page I came upon an interruption, and there was my own name given as the senator making the reply. It was my own speech I had been reading."

I saw Rockefeller last November, just before he began to be so badly wanted. After that the shrewdest detectives and smartest reporters in the country could not find the richest and most conspicuous man in the world."

The Government Sees Peril In Spread of Gypsy Moth

WILL RESIST "ECONOMY"

Chief Entomologist of Department of Agriculture Seeks European Aid In Stamping Out the Pest

Washington, March 17.—The national government is thoroughly aroused to the gypsy-moth peril. The secretary of agriculture has informed Senator Proctor, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, that it is utterly useless to appropriate less than the $250,000 carried by the Gallinger-Roberts bills carried by the Gallinger-Roberts bills to cover Uncle Sam's part in stamping out this pest. This is his answer to the out this pest. This is his answer to the plan of house economists to cut the appropriation down to $65,000, and the senate will probably insist upon the demands of New England senators that at least a quarter of a million be allowed for this work in the next year.

Dr. Howard, the chief entomologist of the department of agriculture, starts for Europe in a few days, after visiting Boston, in order to see what European scientists, who in large numbers have been set to work on the gypsy and brown-tail moth problems, have accomplished in the year, and also to perfect plans early in the season for another vigorous campaign. Dr. Howard will take to Boston with him E. S. G. Titus of the office here, an expert on parasites, | 121. Presidents Hill. who will be assigned to the gypsy-moth problem. On arrival in Boston, Dr. Howard and Titus will go out with Dr. Kirkland to the parasite laboratory in 124. Saugus, a suburb of Boston, where for 18 months gypsy-moth parasites, collected in Europe, have been developing. They also have 100,000 brown-tail moth nests there, which have been coming from Europe during the year.

These Washington scientists wish to see in what condition these nests now appear. They will also make a study of plans for starting the parasites out in the spring. Mr. Titus will return to Boston when the season opens to co-op- 136 erate with Dr. Kirkland's assistants in 37. Franklin st. cor. Water, caring for the parasites as they issue. His knowledge is such that he will be able to distinguish better than they the secondary parasites from the primary. This is a highly important distinction, because to the extent that if the secondary parasites get loose they may vitiate 143. Station st. the work for primary parasites who 45. Steamship on Shoals

Atlantic City, N. J., March 17 .- The British steamer Cearense, Para for New York, struck on the shoals near Tom's River lifesaving station and lies fast in the sand. The steamer had 13 passen gers in the cabin list and 25 in the steerage. They were all brought to land without injury. Captain Mason and the crew remained on board the vessel. A tug has been engaged to float the steamer, but it is not believed that this can be done.

THIRTY-FIVE DEAD

Many Persons Burned to Cinders In Colorado Train Wreck Pueblo, Col., March 17.-Thirty-five persons were crushed or burned to death in a head-end collision of two passenger trains near Adobe, on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and nearly a score of the victims were incinerated beyond identification by a fire that destroyed the wrecked coaches. More than a score were injured, but all of these will probably recover.

The wreck was due to undelivered orders, heavy mountain grades, a blinding snowstorm, a sharp curve and the slippery condition of the rails.

Acts of heroism almost unparalleled occurred in attempts at rescues, while scenes of agony thrilled the witnesses with horror. One man, pinioned by a window, with flames lapping his life, screamed for someone to shoot him, but he could not be reached even for this, which would have been an act of mercy. A timber finally fell and ended his life, Only the locomotives, baggage and day coaches were wrecked, the sleeping cars escaping almost unscathed. Many of the dead were homeseekers bound for the northwest. The crushed locomotives set fire to the splintered coaches, and it was hours before all the bodies were recovered, the flames being so hot that rescuers could not approach the debris until the fuel burned

S. F. Lively, night operator at Swallows, whose alleged failure to deliver orders to the east-bound train is said to have caused the wreck, was relieved from duty last night until the cause of the wreck is thoroughly investigated.

Ineffectual Struggle Against Death New York, March 17 .- Walter Cathie, a roofer, 60 years old, was at work on the roof of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church when he lost his footing and fell, rolling swiftly down the incline. At the edge he managed to grasp a gutter and his fall was arrested. For fully three minutes Cathie squirmed and clutched the gutter, vainly trying to pull himself back to safety, while a crowd on the sidewalk far below stood transfixed with horror, unable to give any assistance. Finally Cathle's hold on the gutter weakened and he crashed to the sidewalk and was instantly killed.

Insurance Hearings Closed Albany, March 17 .- The joint special . committee of the New York state legislature investigating the methods and the conditions of life insurance institutions doing business in this state has formally closed its public hearings on the insurance reform bills before the assembly. A sub-committee will meet next week with Charles E. Hughes, counsel of the committee, and all of the bills will be gone over and such modifications as the sub-comittee may deem necessary will be made. The net result will be presented to the full committee at a meeting. Honors to Young Japanese

Northern Oratorical league contest.

Wickliffe Brothers Still Free Vinita, I. T., March 17 .- Deput Marshals Long and Wheat arrived last night with Jim Wickliffe and Louis Wickliffe, uncles of the Wickliffe brothers, and two other Cherokee prisoners. No trace of the Wickliffe brothers has been discovered. Both uncles denied any knowledge of the fugitives.

Another Strike Anticipated Theodosia, March 17 .- A military train of 23 cars, armed with two guns and three rapid-fire pieces, is held in readiness at the station here to be sent out in the event of a strike. Moscow, March 17 .- There is continued fear here of a renewal of strikes.

Great Flood Incamened Fresno, Cal., March 17 .- A storm of unprecedented severity has been raging for 60 hours and the region between the San Jaoquin and King's rivers is threatened with the greatest flood in years. The fall of snow in the mountains exceeds all records.

Worcester, Mass., Wants Next National Rowing Regatta --- Louis Scholes of Toronto Will Row All Comers --- New Rules For Western Racing.

Worcester, Mass., the great rowing center, will send a strong delegation to the annual meeting of the coming National Association of Oarsmen, which will be held in New York to make a fight to secure the annual championship regatta of that body. The preliminary steps were taken at a meeting of the Lake Quinsigamond association, composed of all the boat and canoe clubs at that lake, recently. There were forty clubs represented, although the notice of the meeting was sent out late. President John H. Meagher, whose business interests are such that he cannot give the matter his attention, resigned in favor of Thomas J. Harrahy, president of the Wachusett (Mass.) Boat club. A. V. Coylson, secretary of the old committee, will

President Harrahy said he was ready to pledge the necessary $1,200 demanded by the executive committee of the National Association of Oarsmen as a ants of their liberty. guarantee and felt certain that the other incidental expenses, amounting to as much more, could be easily raised by popular subscription. He said various business men and corporations had promised their support, and he felt from conversations with the New England members of the executive committee that Worcester could secure the regatta, although Philadelphia would also be a strong bidder for the event. A formal bid was sent to Secretary

Fred Fortmeyer. It can be stated positively that Lou Scholes, the champion Toronto sculler, is to meet all comers next season. He has suffered a change of heart and realizes that his idea of dodging the issue in past regattas is not a popular one. Scholes' friends announce that he will meet all comers at the national regatta and that he is "extra anxious" to meet Greer.

New rules for the government of racing on the tracks of the American Turf association were adopted recently at a meeting in Louisville. The most important change was in regard to the apprentice allowance in selling races. According to the new law, jockeys crews. with apprentice allowances will receive their allowance only when they are riding for their contract employers. This rule also reads that jockeys legislature a bill has been introduced,

Another important change was that which prohibits races at unusual distances. Hereafter there will be no races at a mile and forty yards, as heretofore, and there will be no race at more than a mile which is less than a mile and a sixteenth. The scale of weights was also raised from eighty-five to eighty-seven pounds for three-yearolds and upward.

A DESPERATE NEGRO Played Havoc With Three Revolvers Before Being Subdued

New York, March 17.-Eli Lucas, a negro who served a 20 years' sentence in Kentucky for murder, last night shot John Walsh and James Scott, policemen, and John Jones, manager of the Crescent cafe. Scott will be paralyzed for life. Lucas had been drinking and was ordered out of the saloon, whereupon he pulled successively three revolvers and emptied them at his victims. There were 50 people in the safe at the time and a general panic took place. Lucas, still shooting, backed out of the place and escaped.

Lucas was arrested late last night at Fifty-Sixth street and Broadway, after a fight which was almost as desperate as the original one in the cafe. Before he was subdued he had exchanged shot for shot with two detectives, having reloaded his revolvers. There was a running fight for nearly a block and only the timely appearance of a patrolman, into whose arms Lucas ran, put an end to it. Lucas was brought to the West Thirtieth street station, battered and bloody, with his clothes nearly all torn off him. He had received a severe beating, because, the police said, of his desperate efforts to escape even after being disarmed.

TUCKER LOSES AGAIN

No Further Court Appeal For the Condemned Murderer

Boston, March 17 .- The last hope of Charles L. Tucker, the condemned murderer of Miss Mabel Page of Weston, in the courts, has gone. Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court has denied the writ of error applied for in behalf of Tucker by the latter's counsel, James H. Vahey.

By this refusal to grant a writ of error the case cannot be taken before the full bench of the United States supreme court and therefore as far as the courts are concerned there will be no delay in the carrying out of the sentence.

Tucker's only hope now lies in the executive elemency of Governor Guild and his council. In the course of time counsel for the condemned will appeal to the governor to commute the sentence of Tucker to life imprisonment. It is not necessary for the governor, if he desires to assume the sole responsibility, to present the case to the executive council, especially if he is opposed to interfering in the matter.

The sentence of Tucker provides that he must be electrocuted during the week beginning June 10.

Costly Farm Fire

New Haven, March 17 .- Five large farm buildings and a blacksmith shop, nine horses and a number of cattle, together with thousands of dollars' worth valuable farming implements and a ing to A. N. Man In Madrid Prison Seeks Guardian For Daughter

Money 'Is Sent to Swindlers by Americans, Two Crossing the Ocean to Reap Promised Harvest--Consul Collier's Letter

Concord, N. H., March 17 .- Although numerous attempts have been made in the past few years to break up the Spanish syndicate of swindlers, whose operations have extended to many countries, the machinery of these men is still in working order. According to the American legation officials at Madrid, attempts have been made to swindle hundreds of people in the United States. Among the recent victims was a New Hampshire man, whose name is withheld. He lost nearly $600. Some of the letters which have been received in New England were signed by one Adolf Rolden Shannon, who of produce and a large quantity of hay, claimed to be incarcerated in a Madrid prison. The writer in each case set number of carriages and wagons belong- forth that he was a relative of the person to whom he wrote. The usual story was related. The letter stated that the writer had been imprisoned on account of his connection with French investments in the old Panama canal scheme. The person addressed was asked to care for the prisoner's daughter and to send money for her transportation to America. With the daughter a trunk was to be sent which. in a secret drawer, contained $493,000. One-fourth of the property was to go to the person addressed and the remainder to his supposed daughter. Notwithstanding the manifest improbability of the story, it is said many persons have sent hundreds of dollars each to Spain.

The following communication has been recenved recently from William Collier, the American minister at Madrid, to whom a letter of inquiry had been sent by one of those who received a letter from the Spanish syidicate: "In reply to your letter of recent date, in regard to an estate in Spain which you have been told has been left by a relative. I beg to inform you that the whole matter is a swindle and an attempt to obtain money from you by false pretence. There are on file at this legation hundreds of communications received from people in the United States to whom letters similar to the one you received have been sent. There has been in existence in this country for upwards of 30 years an apparently well organized band of swindlers who work upon the same lines that have been used in the attempt to deceive you. You may be sure that there is no truth whatever in the statements made to you by the people of this side in this connection. If you were to continue the correspondence with the swindlers they would send you copies of court decanoeing on Mystic lake last evening crees, testaments, wills, etc., all tending John J. "As you have been saved financial loss by the information here sent you, I ask you, in return, to help save others from being swindled and to lighten my labor in the matter (my correspondence in connection with it being burdensome) by immediately giving to the newspapers of your locality an account of this swindle, so that publicity may kill it. Efforts are being made to bring that the New Haven firm owes more the parties to justice here, but the only effective remedy is a public and complete disclosure of the absolutely false and fraudulent character of the entire scheme."

Condition of Trade

New York, March 17.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that wholesome conditions are maintained in industrial channels, the tenor of most reports being favorable, and comparatively little anxiety is felt regarding the labor situation. Although there is no evidence of decreased activity at the textile mills and factories. the primary markets for cotton goods begin to exhibit signs of weakness.

Mine Workers' Attitude Outlined by Mitchell

SAYS DEMANDS ARE JUST

Disappoin ment at Rejection In Toto by Coal Operators -- Not Willing to Share Responsibility of Dead ock Over Wages

Indianapolis, March 19.-President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America has mailed to George F. Baer, chairman of the anthracite coal operators' committee, his reply to the committee's communication rejecting the demands of the miners' organization. The letter follows:

"Referring again to your communication dated March 10, with accompanying documents, and to our reply thereto, I write to say that I have submitted to our committees the answers made by your committee to the propositions presented by us. It is unnecessary to state that we were keenly disappointed to learn that our demands were rejected in toto, and that our arguments in favor of them had received so little consideration at your hands that they were practically ignored in your reply

Free Trial Electric Lighting.

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their omes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition.

To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric paul's Baptist church, the second at the current free of charge.

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary. Per order of Directors,

Actors' Presence of Mind

Woburn, Mass., March 19.-During a minstrel show in the Woburn auditorium a fire was discovered in the rear of the stage, but through the efforts of six young men who continued an act a panic was averted and the audience of nearly 1000 people gained the street in an orderly manner a few minutes before the building was wrapped in flames. The entire structure, which included seven small stores on the ground floor, was destroyed, the loss being estimated at $30,000.

Muzzle or Death For Dogs

Cambridge, Mass., March 19 .- The presence of several dogs in the Central square police station gave the place the appearance of a well-regulated dog show last night. The dogs were brought to the station by patrolmen in accordance with the edict of the board of aldermen that dogs must be muzzled or killed. The chief trouble is in lassoing the dogs. The dogs have 24 hours' leeway, and if not claimed are ignominiously put to death. Two have been shot already.

THE JOLO BATTLE

a Ghastly Look

MATCHED BY ROOSEVELT

Congratulation to Wood Not the Expression of the Man, but the Presiden', "Who Represents Heartlessness and Greed"

New York, March 19.-In his sermon on the relations of so-called Christian nations that are Pagan, Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst referred yesterday to the recent killing of Moros and President Roosevelt's congratulatory dispatch to General Wood.

"Consider," he said, "the easy and self-satisfied way in which we regard the mowing down of the savages and semi-savages in the Philippine islands when they stand in the way of the national purpose, of which, after eight years of 'benevolent assimilation,' we have just had a most startling and heartrending example in the bombarding to death of 600 men, women and children collected in a crater in the Moro

"There are two things to be said about the jubilant congratulation sent by the chief executive to General Wood. The first is in reference to the designation of the performance as a 'brilliant feat of arms.' Basing our estimate on the reports rendered by General Wood, it was no more a 'brilliant feat of arms than smoking bees out of a hive or rats out of a nest.

"But a far sadder feature of the executive communication to General Wood is that it contained not one word of sympathy, one note of tender distress, in view of the indiscriminate slaughter perpetrated 'in honor of the American flag."

"We have been taught to believe, and we like to believe, that the president has a great heart. And so I prefer to think of that cablegram, composed as it was in the presence, practically, of mangled men, torn women, armless and headless children-I prefer to think of it not as being the expression of the man Roosevelt, but of the President Roosevelt, in whom officially the heartlessness and the greed of unregenerated nationality is functionally represented. I want to find a way out for Roosevelt, for the performance on Jolo island has a ghastly look, and the cablegram matched it.

"With the exception of the maintenance in the south of negro slavery, there has been, I should say, nothing sadder in our history than the national attitude in which we today stand as toward the little brown people of the Philippine islands." A $4,000,000 Real Estate Deal Boston, March 19 .- The negotiations which have been pending for a long time between the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company Company. A VIGOROUS PROTEST

Propriety of Action of the New York Life Officers Questioned

New York, March 19.-Samuel Unter-Pastor Parkhurst Says It Has myer, counsel for the international policyholders' committee of the New York Life Insurance company, has sent g letier to Alexander E. Orr, president of the New York Life, in which he says that, as the representative of upwards of 50,000 policyholders in the company, he has been instructed to protest in their behalf "against the extraordinary use that is being made by you and your officers of the agency force of the company who are being pressed into the service of soliciting proxies for the re-election of yourself and associates as directors, at enormous expense to the policyholders.

"I am informed," the letter continues, "that within the past few days you sent out from your head office to your entire agency force throughout the country telegrams urging them to collect proxies. I have before me one of a number of printed letters and circulars issued from your head office signed by the cashier of your company, with an accompanying form of proxy, addressed to policyholders, enclosing a biography of each of the directors and officers whom you seek to re-elect, including yourself. This proxy is to Messrs. John Claffin, Oscar S. Straus and Clarence M. Mackey, of whom biographies are also enclosed, printed at the expense of the policyholders.

"If these documents have been sent to every policyholder, the cost to the company of postage alone would be about $30,000, and the cost of printing the stationery as much more. How you justify such expenditures (to say nothing of the manifest impropriety of such action at this juncture) I fail to understand.

"These documents are coming to us in great numbers from infuriated policyholders, with the request that our committee take some action to prevent your thus wasting the money of the policyholders in the attempt to return yourself to office."

Grandpa Pettus' Amb tion Birmingham, Ala., March 19 .-- A situation unique in history exists here. The people unanimously want Mr. Pettus to continue to serve them in the United States senate as long as he lives. Yet they are preparing to hold an election to decide upon his successor. The reason is that when Pettus' present term expires in 1909, he will be 88, and the "graveyard election" is to be held because Alabamans think he will not live longer than that, if so long. Pettus says he is as spry as he was at 66 and that he expects to live out the whole six years of another term. He has de clared himself a candidate for re-election on the platform; "A man is as young as he feels."

Romance Ends In Divorce Worcester, Mass., March 19 .- Mrs. Rebecca Sieve, who married Harry Sieve in July, 1904, has been granted a divorce in Alabama, and her husband is on the way from South Africa that they may go before a rabbi in Providence and secure a divorce by the Hebrew church. The romance began in Worcester. The man went away to South Africa and made much money. He came back, claimed his youthful sweetheart as bride, and they went to separated, she to return home and to later go south, he to go direct to his former place of business in South Africa.

Yielding to German Claims --Delegates Are Still Optimistic Paris, March 19 .- There was a special meeting of the cabinet ministers

Sunday in connection with the Algeciras conference, at which the situation was fully gone over, Foreign Minister Bourgeois explaining the exact standpoints of France and Germany. Alout relative to France's future line of action, an announcement of Bourgeois that the ministry will not participate in the debate on the foreign affairs budget tomorrow is regarded as a somewhat unhopeful sign.

This decision, coming after a conference Saturday evening between the foreign minister and Prince Von Radolin, the German ambassador to France, is considered to show that the Moroccan knot has not yet been untied and that the end of the conference is not in sight. but hopes are still undiminished that the delegates will find a solution of the difficulties. The position of Bourgeois is rendered more difficult owing to the uncompro mising attitude of the principal journals which oppose concessions. The Temps takes the lead in this respect, saying that France has reached her utmost limit relative to both the police and bank questions, and this view has the support of a very influential body of opinion. Therefore Bourgeois hesitates to show signs of willingness to compromise the matter by a give-andtake method, as he knows any further yielding to the German claims will render the ministry unpopular to the last Furthar Instructions Needed

Algeciras, March 19 .- The general disposition of the delegates to the conference on Moroccan reforms continue inclined toward optimism, but no further apparent move has been made in the direction of a solution of the points at issue between France and Germany. The delegates of the neutral powers confer separately with the French and German delegates several times daily, striving to modify the outwardly un compromising stand taken by both sides. It is the general belief, however, that the present situation of indecision will not change until further instructions arrive from Paris and Berlin. Meanwhile the French and German delegates do not discuss the situation together. Each side is vainly awaiting the sign of a concession from the other and maintaining its respective stand point. The neutral delegates do not be lieve the deadlock will last much longer and express the conviction that neither France nor Germany will allow the conference to fail after such prodigious ef forts have been made by all the powers represented to have them reach an equitable understanding.

The next morning, feeling indisposed heard the words, "I'll bet a pound of candy I catch him within two months." The voice was Miss Acton's. I would have known it among a hundred. I waited to hear more. Something more was spoken, but in Miss Dutton's softer voice, and she doubtless stood with her back to the tube. At any rate I couldn't hear it. I kept them waiting as long

Miss Acton told me that she had decided to take the house provided I would reduce the rent, keeping for my own use any room I might select. This proposition, taken with what I had heard through the tube, interested me. I told the lady I would think the mat-

SUPERFICIAL SENTIMENT.

Secret of Power Lies In Intensity of Emotion

Superficial sentiment is without vital influence. The secret of power lies in of temperament as well as for temper when we reach blood heat, mad at boys work. when it reaches freezing point we are heartless. An emotion that does not attain the seventy-sixth degree is hardly worth recording. At summer heat of the conference. the rarest flowers begin to bloom and reason and scientific observation, it is street. rarely, if ever, proper for the highest achievement in any art. In the world of art imagination and feeling are not content with a serenity that touches the borders of indifference. The creative instinct is never effective unless a cold thing, yet a stroke of lightning will consume more at one flash than an ordinary fire would consume in an hour .- Francis Grierson in Critic.

Houdini Breaks Jail While Exits Are Closely Guarded

WAS LOCKED UP NAKED

Handcuffed and Shackled by Experts, Yet He Announces His Escape to Astounded Officials by Telephone

Boston, March 20.-Houdini broke out of the city prison in Somerset street yesterday and gave the police an exhibition which was more extensive than Night Phone: 75-2 at residence of George T. they had planned for and which was not just as they would have had it. With every entrance and exit guarded as usual and with a gathering of 40 men awaiting his appearance in the Tombs office he escaped, naked, from a cell in which he was handcuffed and shackled. unlocked the cell in which his clothes were, dressed, and then escaped from the building itself. It was baffling to those who watched for their own amusement and it was thoroughly disconcerting to the police who were watching for their edification and who pride themselves that the prison is impregnable. Ever since Houdini arrived in Boston

he has been striving for an opportunity to break out of jail here, but the officials have steadfastly refused because of the recent escapes of prisoners from Charles street jail and they did not wish to have the jails become the laughing stock of the community by allowing the idea to gain currency that anyone could Quarter 3 a.m. C Third Quarter 17 a.m. break away from them. WITTE TO RETIRE

Has Had Enough Experience as Russia's First Premier

HIS CABINET IS DIVIDED

An Alarming Attack of Heart Trouble Brought on In Keeping Up Fight With Reactionaries Against Heavy Odds

St. Petersburg, March 20.-In high circles the rumor is current that Count Witte has definitely decided to retire from the premiership. From an absolutely authentic source it can be stated that Witte, at a session in the council of the empire yesterday afternoon made an inimical statement which is interpreted by many members of the council as a virtual declaration that his career as premier is ended and that he will be succeeded by Privy Counsellor Kokovseff, former minister of finance.

A project for the solution of the agrarian problem by the purchase of lands from the nobles and other large proprietors through the peasant banks, and their resale to peasants on long term instalment payments, was under discussion. As the treasury is in no condition to advance the money to the banks for this purpose, Witte advocated a scheme under which the banks should purchase the land with 15-year credit bonds instead of cash.

A very marked division of the cabinet developed. Finance Minister Shipoff opposed the premier. Suddenly Ko kovsoff arose and in a warm speech earnestly supported Witte's views When he had concluded Witte closed the debate in a few words, rather apologizing for his seeming indiffer ence, and thanking Kokovsoff for his support, adding: "I might also have made a better defense, had I been as much interested in the future as Alexander Nicholaievitch," meaning Koko vsoff, Russians even on formal occa sions referring to persons by their Christian names.

On what is apparently reliable authority, it is stated that the condition of Witte's health is quite unsatisfac tory. He is said to have experienced a rather alarming attack of heart trouble a few days ago. His physician advised him some time since to give up

It is known that Witte, believing that he had weathered the political storm formed a determination to relinquish the premiership upon the meeting of the national assembly. Recently, however, the strength of the reactionaries increased and the premier was obliged to keep up the fight against heavy odds. It may be that his endurance was thus exhausted and that, feeling that his health was declining, he has reached the decision to retire immediately.

Broke No Bones In Hundred Foot Fall New York, March 20 .- Salvatore Bianco dropped 100 feet down the face of the Hudson palisades at Cliffside, N. J., and escaped with his life. He was walking along the path close to the brow of the palisades when his umbrella became unmanageable and in his effort to control it Bianco went over the edge of the cliff. He clung to the handle of the umbrella, which acted as a parachute until he was within about 20 feet of the ground, when it turned inside out and he dropped, landing in a clump of bushes. He is bruised and cut, but without a bone broken.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Had Quincy and other suburban cities swered your propositions. We made a been awake when the bill relative to counter proposition to you to continue Metropolitan water apportionment was the existing conditions, which have before the legislature, they might have been highly beneficial to the miners prevented the establishment of the un- and to the community. You have not fair basis agreed upon, and thereby kept down the Quincy assessment.

It is not so much for maintenance of situation as it exists and has for the the Metropolitan water system that the past three years existed in the coal recities and towns of the district are gions. The miners are contented. They taxed, but for construction. Probably have been fully employed. They have maintenance of the system is a small item now compared with the annual expense for watering debt and interest on Taxation generally should be upon these circumstances we have hoped valuation, and it should be in this case, that you would accept our proposition for the payment of the cost of the Met- and until we hear from you we still conropolitan water system. But the rich tinue to indulge that hope. towns like Brookline, Newton, Malden and Milton engineered through the versation over the telephone you had Legislature a measure which provides that the Metropolitan water asssess-ment shall be levied one-third only on for a meeting. But permanent peace in the coal industry the figures for Malden and Quincy for journed yesterday afternoon after re-1906 are only an estimate, and amount ferring the demands of the miners to too little for comparison.

Malden has a population of 38,000 to begin its deliberations today. 28,000 for Quincy, and a valuation of $34,000,00, to $24,000,000 for Quincy. On the basis of value and population, the assessment of Malden increased that John Mitchell has decided upon from 1904 to 1905, $3,220, where the an assessment of 20 cents a week for increase in Quincy was only $1,749. If the local miners, to be used in case a the assessment of Quincy is increased strike is called April 1. SHARED WATERY GRAVE

Touching Devotion of a Dog

Toward Its Little Mistres New York, March 21.-The story of a dog's affection for its little mistress from whom it would not be separated even by death was brought here by the steamer Columbia, from Glasgow. The Columbia had a hard experience with the gales which swept the Atlantic during her entire voyage, and the tossing subjected contributed largely to the pathetic tragedy. Among the passengers on the steamer bringing his 4-year-old daughter Mary ing. to America for the benefit the sea voyage might be to her health. The little girl's two collie dogs, Daisy and Ben, accompanied them, and until she was taken ill Mary spent all her waking hours with her pets.

When the storm became more severe the child became violently seasick and last Wednesday night she died. The dogs missed their little mistress and whined constantly until they were were being made to bury the child's on deck the dogs were permitted to follow and during the reading of the funeral service the collies tugged at the leashes which held them. As the child's body was lifted to the rail and slid just as the body of her little mistress disappeared beneath the waves. The dog was drowned

Thousands Killed by Errhquake London, March 21 .- According to The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Tokio, it is now estimated that sevthree prosperous towns were completely destroyed. At Kagi alone 2000 persons were killed. At Datiyo 600 bodies fled only to succumb to their injuries. amounts to $45,000,000.

Trouble Brewing For Lynchers Washington, March 21.-Some of the members of the supreme court of the United States are considering the advisability of an attempt to secure the punishment of the members of the mob which on Monday night took from the jail in Chattanooga Ed Johnson, the negro rapist, whose legal execution yesterday was stayed by an order issued by the supreme court Monday. The department of justice is also considering action in the matter.

Pleasure Trip to West Indies Washington, March 21 .- Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by her sons Archie and Quentin, and her daughter, Ethel, and possibly by her son Kermit, who is at school at Groton, Mass., will leave Washington the latter part of next week for Florida. At some convenient port they will go aboard the Mayflower and make a cruise to the West Indies. They will visit Cuba and Porto Rico, stopping at both Havana and San Juan.

Object to "Rallroading" Plan Washington, March 21.-Thirty "insurgent" Republicans met in Representative Babcock's committee room and agreed to stand together in opposition to Speaker Cannon's plan to send the statehood bill to conference. The "insurgents" say they will not support any rule designed to shut off debate and prevent the house from instructing its members of the conference as to how to

As to Witte's Resignation

St. Petersburg, March 21.-No confirmation of the reported intention of Count Witte to immediately retire from office is obtainable, but on the contrary the possibility of his relinquishing his task pending the meeting of the national assembly is not admitted. It is also denied that the condition of Witte's health is desperate, no alarming symptoms having developed.

MOTIVE NOT KNOWN

Boston Man Takes Life of a Woman and Kil's Himself Boston, March 21 .- Bernard Miles shot and killed a woman supposed to be his wife and then ended his own life with the same revolver at a lodging house. The motive for the deed is un-

Miles and the woman engaged lodgings of Mrs. Catherine Mansfield at 38 been living there since that day. Miles was a stationery engineer, about 40 years old.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night occupants of the lodging house heard what they believed to be shots, but there being no men in the house at the time, no investigation was made. Later Mrs. Mansfield's son came home and, upon being told of the noise, went to Miles' room locked. He then went outside on an adjoining roof and looked in the window, where he could see the couple lying dead on the bed. The police were notified and several officers

Four bullet wounds had been inflicted in the woman's right temple, while Miles had inflicted one fatal wound in his own forehead. A 38-calibre revolver was in Miles' hands, with five of its chambers discharged.

The bodies were removed to under taking rooms, where the medical ex aminer will view them.

A Much-Needed Measure

Boston, March 21 .- By a rising vote of 154 to 1, the Massachusetts house substituted for an adverse report of a ners to learn to operate power sewing committee a bill to regulate the use of dance halls throughout the state. The measure is designed to keep boys and girls from objectionable places for dancing. The bill provides that no permitted to public dance halls where an admission is charged unless accomtain dances given under proper auspices are exempted.

Seven Caives at One Birth Lawrence, Mass., March 21.-Seven perfectly formed calves born to one

Durham cow within two hours is the unusual incident recorded at the farm of M. S. Hill in Methuen. All the calves died at birth or immediately after. They included four bulls, weighing 30 pounds each, and three heifers of 25 pounds each. The cow weighs 1100 pounds. Cattlemen and veterinaries in this vicinity say the occurrence is unprecedented in their experience.

Cose Watch on Schidlofski

Cambridge, Mass., March 21.-Fear that John Schidlofski, convicted last Saturday of the murder of his wife, will harm himself, has caused the officials at the East Cambridge jail, where he is confined, to adopt stringent measures in watching the cell he occupies. It was necessary to bind his hands in a muff for a few days because he had torn his bedclothing in shreds. The muff has been removed, but a sharp watch over him has been established.

WRECK OF LADY ANTRIM

Cap'ain and Crew Met Death Off Marblehead Neck--Wife of a Barge Captain Drowned Off New London-Other Disas'ers

Marblehead, Mass., March 21.-Small er Lady Antrim were found strewn along the outside of Marblehead neck, off which she was wrecked in Monday night's storm, with the loss of all hands. Among the broken pieces of the vessel were recovered the bodies of two of her The vessel was so completely smashed up that it was some hours af ter the wreckage had been discovered that her identity was learned from a portion of one of her sideboards. The first body was found high up on the beach at noon yesterday, while the other was hauled out of the surf about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. From the distribution of wreckage along the neck, it is thought that the Lady Autrim struck either on Tom Moore's rocks or Tinker's island late Monday night, but that she did not go to pieces until early yesterday.

The first body was discovered by two boys, William Prescott and Edwin Snow, well up on the beach on the south side of the neck. The boys were walking along the beach and came upon a portion of the vessel's hull. Going along further, they found the body lying at the height of the morning's tide on the beach. The boys immediately ran back to the town and notified a po liceman of their discovery.

A search was at once begun for other bodies. It was an easy matter to follow the wreckage around the neck, as there was scarcely a yard that did not have some piece of the unfortunate coaster. The party searched for several hours, but it was 5 o'clock before the second body was recovered.

About the same time a portion of the vessel's stern, on which was the word "Boothbay." was recovered a few hundred yards further along the beach. This was the first indication of the hailing port of the vessel. Just before dark one of the searchers picked up a sideboard on which were the words "Lady Antrim," which at last established the identity of the coaster.

A portion of her mainmast, which had been repaired, as well as an empty dory and a portion of the after-house, were among the principal objects rule the vessel had been broken up so ing. completely by the waves and rocks that the pieces were of small dimensions. Last evening what appeared to be a bed quilt was found fastened to a spar in a manner which seemed to indicate that those on board had tried to use it as a signal.

The searchers along the beach had a Coal hard time, as the snow was deep and heavy. As far as can be learned no signals of distress or lights were heard or seen off Marblehead neck during the night. The beach is not patrolled by any lifesaving crew and the only persons on the neck are three caretakers of summer estates.

The Lady Antrim sailed from Provincetown Monday morning with a cargo of sand for Rockland, Me., and was manned by five men.

The Lady Antrim was one of the oldbuilt in 1857. She was owned and commanded by J. H. McClintock of Boothbay Harbor, Me., and it is believed here that he was one of the victims of the wreck.

Twelve Hours in the Rigging) West Dennis, Mass., March 21 .- For 12 hours, in the height of the storm, Captain Whestley and his crew of four men clung to the rigging of the schooner Winnie Lawry, which was driven upon a sand bar two miles out to sea, until they were rescued by a sloop yacht from South Yarmouth, which succeeded in standing by the stranded schooner. The five seamen were almost helpless from exhaustion from the effects of their long night in the mastheads and rigging, and Whestley described their experience as terrifying. The captain attributes their safety to the fact that the storm subsided in the latter part of the night and the weather became warm. When the Winnie Lawry was abandoned she was filled with water and fast on the bar, although the hull seemed intact.

MASSACRE OF OFFICERS

Censorship May Account For Absence of Confirmation of Reports--Mutiny Leader Did Not Fall Until Fourth Volley

St. Petersburg, March 21.-Most sensational reports are current that the execution of former Lieutenant Schmidt, leader of the navy revolt at Sebastopol in November last, which has made a deep impression throughout sive mutiny of sailors at Sebastopol, the massacre of their officers and the fortress firing upon the city. No press dispatches confirming the story have been received, but if the report should prove to be true the absence of these might be accounted for by the imposition of a censorship.

A Promise Redeemed

During the civil war I had been confined as a prisoner in Libby prison, and ten years after being discharged from the United States service I was suddenly seized with a desire to go south and have a look at it. As I was starting an uncle of mine insisted on giving me a letter to an old friend of his, Samuel Porcher, a Richmond merchant. As soon as I arrived in the former

Confederate capital I went down to the river bank and, standing before the old tobacco warehouse that had been my prison, looked up at it with very singular feelings. There on the imminent risk of my life and began a journey of intelerable suffering down the James river. As I stood in 1874 looking on the scene of my adventure of 1864 I scarcely realized that I was Russia, has been followed by an exten- a free man, permitted to come and go as I liked. Not a uniform was to be seen, business had taken the place of

This is how I came to make an attempt at escape: One of the prisoners had secured a loaded revolver, how I never knew except that it was puroined from one of the guards when he was asleep or drunk or who had left it carelessly where it could be pounced upon. It was a dangerous article for party, such as the revolutionists have a prisoner to have, and it was passed from one to another till it came to me. through accomplices in the telegraph of- I was desperate, and, hiding it under my shirt, buttoned my ragged coat around it, hoping that I might find a chance to use it in some desperate move for freedom.

I was confined on the ground floor. At times the door would be left open, a guard pacing back and forth on the pavement before it. At times I would make bold to go to the door and look out, usually to be ordered back. There was one of the sentries whom I especially noticed. He was what I then most entirely in flames. It is also called an old man of about forty-five stated that a student at the Technolog- and was doubtless a citizen relieving regular troops at guarding prisoners. It was a crazy false reports affecting the army or thing to do, but my life as a prisoner was a burden to me. I watched the sentinel till he turned to walk with his back to me, then like a flash slipped out the door and ran like a deer to the corner where a street sloped down to the river. As I turned a ball came whizzing past me, and I knew I had been discovered. The sentinel chased me, and, although I was much younger than he, I was weakened by confinement. He caught up with me just as I was getting behind a pile of lumber.

I turned and shot him with my revolver. Darting on, I saw a cellar window open and crawled in. Searchers passed my hiding place a dozen times without thinking to enter, and when it was dark I crawled out, dodged along down the river bank, found a boat and floated on the bosom of the historic James. How I reached Old Point Comfort and our ships would make a story

After inspecting Libby I presented my letter of introduction to Mr. Porcher. Now, there would be nothing in this story except the hairbreadth escape, of which there were thousands in that war, had not my host had a pretty daughter ten years sight. I stayed in Richmond a long while, pretending to have business there, all the while attempting to smooth away Mr. Porcher's prejudice against me as having been a Union soldier. When at last I thought I had him in a more mollified condition I ventured to ask him for his daughter's hand. He heard me through with lowering brow, then said: "I will give my consent on one condition. There is a man probably living whom I wish to kill-a miserable dirty little Yankee who was a prisoner in Libby in 1864. Next in order on the program was the maze run by the juniors; afterwhich all lined up and were divided off into eight squads for apparatus work. The leaders of the different squads were Russell Tupper, Harold Curtis, Brewster Walker Albert Prescott, Albion Bonney, Carl Cranshaw, F. F. Bugbee and R. W. Noon.

Immediately following this apparatus work the Juniors left the floor, and the Intermediates and the Employed Boys came on and formed a circle. Circle floor calisthenics was very interesting. This was followed by fancy apparatus work by the older boys' classes.

Next in order was a wrestling match between Gardner Coffin of the Employed Boys' class and Brewster Walker of the Intermediates, the former being victor, although the match was close.

The next event, a blind-folded sparring match between Ralph Marden and R. W. Noon, the Boys' Work director, was one of the most interesting of the evening. After two rounds the match was called a draw, on account of lack of time. Another match between these two will take place shortly.

Perhaps a similar report in this city would be the proper course. The Daily against the New York Life and Mutual Ledger is of the opinion that it is not necessary or desirable to meter all the services. And for several reasons. Water meters are unreliable. The cost to the city to maintain would be largely increased. The house with a single faucet is paying enough. A meter system would reduce the water receipts more than the city would save in Metropolitan assessments; thereby increasbe quoted.

Plan to Block Election of New York Life Trustees In April--Bill Affecting Many Corporations to Be Reported Favorably

Albany, March 22 .- The assembly committee on insurance in executive session late last night voted to report favorably to the assembly today, with amendments, assembly bill No. 964, introduced by the joint special investigating committee, which would legislate out of office on Nov. 15 next all the directors and trustees of the mutual insurance companies and would nullify all proxies hitherto secured by the companies themselves, by Thomas W. Lawson or any other person or committee.

The most important amendment provides that no proxy executed prior to Sept. 15 next will be valid or can be voted at the reorganizing election, which the bill sets for Nov. 15. It is stated that the amending and reporting of the bill are at the instance of the

Acting of Death Scene

Augusta, Me., March 22 .- Mrs. Alice F. Cooper, who is being tried in the supreme court, charged with the murder of Charles Northy, broke down completely yesterday afternoon when, for the third time since her trial began, the scene of Northy's death was reproduced graphically for the benefit of judge and jurors. George Peaslee, a court messenger, impersonated the victim, lying upon the floor of the courtroom with his head supported by blood-soaked cushion. Around him the furniture of the room in the Cooper house, where the tragedy occurred, was morning were for a stormy day. An state's theory, the slayer of Northy was seated.

When Edwin Bullock, a witness for the prosecution, told with much detail of the finding of the dying man in the room, and of the subsequent removal of the blood which had streamed over the floor, Mrs. Cooper was extremely agi tated, and later fainted from the nerv ous strain and the effects of the grue some recital. After she had been re vived and had returned to the court room Bullock continued his testimony He said that on several occasions last summer he saw Mrs. Cooper walking out with Northy.

James Wingate, an aged farmer, told of the watch he kept over the injured man in the dining room of the Cooper home while a neighbor was seeking for the coroner to notify him of the shoot ing. Wingate testified that he heard Northy gasp and saw his hands clutch nervously several times. The witness also said that three weeks before the death of Northy, he had seen Mrs. Cooper and Northy seated together in a train. My eyes went out with this man here. I wish to God it was me, and him standing over. A man that's color blind and don't know a thing on God's earth but runnin' an engine is worse Neighbor went home thinking.

They buried Delaroo. But even then they were not through with him. Delaroo had insurance in every order in the Bend, which meant almost every one on earth. There was no end to his benefit certificates and no known beneficiaries. But when they overhauled his trunk they found every last certificate filed away up to the last paid assessment and the last quarter's dues. Then came a shock. People found out there was a beneficiary. While the fraters get your records? were busy making their passes Delaroo had quietly been directing the right honorable recording secretaries to make the benefits run to Neighbor and so want have built eight separate rooms in which the benefits run to Neighbor, and so every dollar of his insurance ran. Nobody was more thunderstruck at the discovery than the master mechanic himself.

Yet Delaroo meant something by it. After Neighbor had studied over it nights the best of a month; after Maje Sampson had tried to take the color test and failed, as he persistently said he would; after he had gone to tinkering in the roundhouse, and from tinkering respectably, and by degrees down the hill to wiping at $1.40 a day, with time and a half for overtime, Neighbor bethought himself all of a sudden one day of a paper Delaroo had once given him and asked him to keep.

He had put it away in the storekeeper's safe with his own papers and the drawings of his extension front end patent-and safely forgotten all about it. It was the day they had to go into the county court about the will that was not, when he recollected Delaroo's paper and pulled it out of its envelope. There was only a half sheet of paper nside, with this writing from Delaro to Neighbor:

R. B. A.-What is coming to me on in surance give to Marty Sampson, wife of Maje. Give my trunk to P. McGraw. Rispk., P. DELAROUX.

When the master mechanic read that before the probate judge, Maje Sampson took a-trembling; Martie hid her face in her shawl, crying again. Maybe a glimmer of what it meant came for the first time in her life over her. Maybe she remembered Delaroo as he used to sit with them under the kerosene lamp while Maje untiringly pounded the money question into him, smoking as he listened, and Martie mended on never ending trousers; looking from Maje Sampson, heated with monologue, to his wife, patiently stitching-no comments, just looking as Pierre Delaroux could look.

Strange, Neighbor thought it, and yet, maybe, not so strange. It was all there in the paper-the torn, worn little book of Delaroo's life. She was the only woman on earth that had ever done him a kindness.

Nobody at Medicine Bend quite understood it, but nobody at Medicine Bend quite suspected that under all the barrenness up at Maje Sampson's an ambition could have survived; yet one had. Martie had an ambition. Way down under her faded eyes and her faded dress there was an ambition, and that for the least promising subjects in the Rocky mountains - the brickbats. Russian Parliament Will Exist In Name Only

never went back on his exact word, GOVERNMENT IS WILY

It Is Intrenched at Every Point Against Assaults by Legislators--Latter Can Be Got Rid of If They Become Too Inquisitive

St. Petersburg, March 22 .- The imperial manifesto and the ukases which incorporate in the fundamental law of the empire the provisions for a national assembly in Russia, promised in the manifesto last fall, constitute neither a constitution nor a "bill of rights" for the tinued the old man. "I'll give you the Russian people. They do create a popuprice you mentioned for your land and lar assembly, but the powers granted this fiail. And you mustn't forget the to it are so hedged about with restricfiail. Nevertheless, by the terms of the manifesto the czar seems powerless to land situated thus and so and bounded gevoke what he has now given. This constitutes the great victory which the people have won. They at last have an Mrs. Compton looked at her patient authoritative medium through which but bewildered husband with an ex- they can make their voice heard and it is in this assembly probably that the great historical struggle against prerogative and privilege will be fought out.

An examination of the documents shows clearly that their purpose has been to intrench the government at kitchen table, and I came home with a every point against the assaults of the hall mirror. But it was an absolutely people. But the composition of such commitbuy a kitchen table, too, so-now isn't tees is restricted to the members appointed by the czar.

Other questions which go to similar committees are those relating to the At the Dedham session of the Norfolk reports of the minister of finance on the robate court on Wednesday the will of cash in the treasury and savings banks, Horace Cunningham late of Milton was reports on the state pawnshops and matters relating to the law of primogeniture and to titles conferred by the crown. These are all subjects which the representatives of the people will probably want to inquire into. The main weapon retained by the ezar is his power to dissolve parliament at will. This, coupled with the government's ability to promulgate "temporary laws," leaves the government aster of the situation cares to employ this means of ridding itself of parliament when the latter has grown too inquisitive or trouble-

Instead of leaving to the chambers the creation of the rules and questions of procedure which are to govern them they are carefully prescribed in the ukase and the cumbersome and complicated machinery devised is largely for the purpose of crippling parliament in its struggle against the government.

The work of all committees is done in secret. Bills instead of being introduced on the initiative of a single mem ber and referred automatically to committees, as in the American congress, must be supported by the signature of at least 30 members and accompanied by an explanatory statement to compel the president to start them on their way through the legislative grist mill. All idea that the cabinet would be responsible to parliament is abandoned. with needle to sew on hoeks and eyes. Even the privilege of interpellating the ministers turns out to be vague and perhaps ineffective. This right is specifically confined to inquiries relating to alleged violations of law by ministers or their subordinates. But such an inquiry is practically invalidated by laws governing it. The immunity enjoyed by members of the two houses is rather vague. They are not responsible for opinions expressed in parliament and incur no responsibility toward their electors. They can be deprived of their liberty only by a decision of a court and cannot be arrested for debt. At the same time members can be deprived of their liberty with the authorization of the body to which they belong or for criminal acts committed in the discharge of their duties if they have been arrested "the same day or the next day after the criminal act was committed."

Large Battleships Of Dreadnaught Type Year

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says: A mammoth battleship, as large as any afloat, to bear the name Constitution, is the latest proposition of Secretary Bonaparte advanced by him at a hearing Thursday before the House committee on naval affairs. Secretary Bonaparte advocates the construction of two new battleships of 16,000 tons displacement.

He said that if the committee does not favor the building of two war vessels after the famous "Old Ironsides."

STARVING JAPANESE

Conservative Estimates Place Number at More Than 800,000 New York, March 23 .- The New York state branch of the American National Red Cross has issued a statement as to famine conditions in Japan. It is explained that, owing to the national characteristics of the Japanese in not calling for help, these facts have just become known.

"The famine in Japan," the statement says, "is now known to be one of the most terrible starvation emergencies of modern times. The failure of the rice crops, which at one time was believed to be limited to certain classes only in the northern provinces, has been found to be general in those parts of Japan, and conservative estimates place the number of starving Japanese at from 800,000 to 1,000,000 people. For these, owing to extended rains last summer which have ruined the rice and other food crops, there is absolutely no relief in sight until next October, when a new harvest will be available.

"As if this were not bad enough, the present winter has been one of the most next Sunday's Boston Globe-Hiawatha, severe in Japan for many years. The total sum which will be required to save the Japanese country people is $16,000,-000. This is estimated by allowing for a cost of 10 cents per person per day.'

Free Trial Electric Lighting,

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their omes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their ase, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition. To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge.

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary. Per order of Directors.

STORER'S RECALL

Usual Diplomatic Precedents

Not Followed 1: H Case Vienna, March 23 .- Secretary G. B. Rives of the American embassy informed the foreign office here that Bellamy Storer, the retiring American ambassador, ceased his connection with the embassy March 19 and requested the Austro-Hungarian government to agree to the appointment of Charles F. Francis immediately. This the foreign office declares is a most unusual proceeding. According to European diplomatic traditions Storer remains ambassador until the presentation of his letters of recall either by himself or his successor, and until this is done this government must regard Storer as ambassa

Some surprise is expressed here at the fact that the Austro-Hungarian government was not previously informed of the facts in the case, but it is thought that the government of the United States must have good reasons for so doing. The officials regret that the United States did not follow the usual diplomatic precedents, especially as Storer's recall does not interest Austria-Hungary and because Francis will be as welcome to official Austria as the previous American representatives.

Rate Bill Discussed by Senators Washington, March 23 .- The railroad rate bill occupied practically all of the day in the senate. Mr. Lodge spoke in advocacy of his amendment looking to the enlargement of the interstate commerce commission, and outlined New England's attitude toward the rate bill, saying that with the mileage system established all the manufacturers in the New England state would be destroyed. Mr. Spooner devoted his attention to the constitutional powers of the inferior courts, contending that those courts could not be destroyed nor their jurisdiction taken from them.

Engaged in Despicable Business New York, March 23.-Robert Spriggs, a negro proprietor of a resort where it is alleged white women were detained against their will, was found guilty by a jury of the second offence of abduction. Spriggs was remanded until Tuesday for sentence. There are two other indictments against Spriggs. Sallie Bennett, a negress, accused of keeping one of Spriggs' houses, pleaded guilty of abducting Alice Harris, a negress, aged 15 years. She was also remanded for sentence.

A Modern Nosh's Ark

New York, March-23 .- Steamer Lugano, from Hamburg, brought a cargo including eight camels, five cages of birds, a case of snakes, three giraffes, a lion, two hyenas, a black panther, six ostriches, deer, kangaroo, gnus and a baby hippopotamus, about one year old. It is intended to release 3500 of the birds in Central park. Only two monkeys died on the passage.

Canteen Officer Missing

New London, Conn., March 23 .- A sion for the last three days making an investigation into the affairs of Dr. J. M. Feeney, contract surgeon at Fort Trumbull. Feeney was canteen officer at Fort Trumbull and when he disappeared 10 days ago his accounts, it is alleged, showed discrepancies amounting to about $700.

Washington, March 23.-Representative Greene (Mass.) introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 to be used by the bureau of fisheries to experiment with dogfish for the purpose of lessening the damage it does to other fish and to develop a plan to capture these fish in large quantities and discover a market

To Confer on Statehood Bill

Washington, March 23 .- The statehood bill was taken from the speaker's table in the house, placed in the hands of three selected conferees and a request made of the senate for a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses. This action was not accomplished without many words and votes.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Consolidated Arizona Smelting company was incorporated at Trenton with an authorized capital of $15,000,-000. The company is to do a general mining and smelting business. Football will be played by high school teams in New York and vicinity next season. This was decided at a meeting attended by the principals of the leading high schools and some of the private schools. A meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching has been called for April 9 in New York. Definite rules under which Carnegie's gift will be administered will be adopted. The senate committee on military affairs has authorized a favorable report on the bill to increase the efficiency of the militia and promote rifle practice. A Christopher Columbus monument is to be placed in the Vatican at Rome. A board of trustees has been organized to take charge and raise the funds. The National Relief Hardware association has chosen Boston as the next convention city. The convention will be held in March, 1907.

Enlarged Propellors Do Not In-

Rockland, Me., March 23.-Unless careful figuring of horse power statistics give unlooked for results, the restandardization trial of the cruiser Charleston, held over the Owl's Head course with the ship equipped with enlarged propellors, was not regarded as a success by members of the naval trial

Rear Admiral Stockton, chairman of the board, expressed the opinion at the conclusion of the trial that the propellors used by the Charleston on her acceptance trial a year ago were superior to those tried yesterday. The present propellors have a greater diameter and a larger blade area and with them the Charleston made a maximum speed of 21.7 knots an hour in 16 runs over the course, compared with a fraction over 22 knots attained on the trial last year. At the conclusion of last year's trial the Charleston was accepted from her builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, but the data obtained showed that more than the indicated horse power was necessary to make the speed. It was because of this fact that the navy department decided to substitute the new propellors. The weather interfered yesterday with the trial, but probably did not affect the re-

Receiver Wanted For Mills

Waterville, Me., March 23 .- The shareholders of the Riverview Worsted mills have asked for the appointment of a receiver. Treasurer Terry discovered vesterday that goods valued at about $25,000 belonging to the corporation were being shipped out of the city without proper authority. He succeeded in stopping about $17,000 worth of property at the railroad depot, but one car containing a lot valued at about $8000 had gone. Counsel for the company will attempt to trace the car and secure possession of the contents.

Fight Against Union Label

Boston, March 23 .- Seeking to prevent the use of the union label on all matter printed at the municipal printing plant, several master printers of Boston have filed in the supreme court a petition for a writ of mandamus. The petitioners contend that the expenditure of money to maintain the plant, as it is now conducted, is an abuse of corporate power and unlawful, and that the imprint of the union label on city printing is also repugnant and obnoxious to citi zens not affiliated with unions or in sympathy with them.

Customary Wrangle Over Milk

Boston, March 23 .- Twice a year the officers of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' company and the milk contractors of Boston convene to decide prices for the season, and one of these gatherings is now on. The contractors propose to pay last summer's price, 371/2 cents a can, in Boston, minus 1/2 cent a can if they wash cans before returning. The producers object to the washing charge. Both sides have until April 1 to agree on prices.

National Politics in Legislature

Boston, March 23 .- The lower branch of the state legislature touched upon national politics in debate, the matter under discussion being an adverse report of the committee on election laws on the bill to allow voters to express their preference for United States senators in years preceding that in which the state legislature elects a United States senator. On a rollcall the substitution of the bill was refused by a vote of 100 to 74.

Plea For a Larger Army

Boston, March 23 .- Lieutenant General Bates, U. S. A., at the Middlesex's club's Veteran's night banquet last night, declared that the United States is in need of a larger standing army of trained soldiers. The present army of 60,000 men is not at all sufficient to meet a crisis, he claimed, and he urged the representative men present at the banquet to help along the movement to increase the army.

Rairoad Settles Heavy Claims

Boston, March 23 .- Claims aggregating $300,000 have already been paid to injured passengers and relatives of passengers killed in the wreck of a Boston and Maine train in Lincoln last November, in which 17 persons were killed. To the claimants in the wreck at Everett, which followed shortly after the Lincoln wreck, $15,000 has been awarded.

Found Dead In His Boat

New Bedford, Mass., March 23 .-Medical Examiner Hough, who performed an autopsy on the body of Thomas Foster, found dead in the catboat Anna Louise yesterday, determined that Foster died of pneumonia. Bruises on his body and head were the result, probably, of being knocked about in the cockpit of his boat.

Coal Manager a Suicide

Salem, Mass., March 23 .- During the absence of his clerks in the noon hour John S. Jeffry, for 20 years manager of the branch office here of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal company, shot himself in the head with a revolver, death probably resulting almost instantaneously. taneously. No reason is known for the act. Jeffrey was 50 years old.

Affects Woman and Child Labor Boston, March 23 .- In the state senate, the bill prohibiting the employment of women and children in mills and factories before 6 a. m. and after 6 p. m. was bitterly opposed, but was finally passed to engrossment by a vote of 20

IN A SMALL BOAT

Crew of Barge Rode Out a Severe Blizzard

BARELY ESCAPED ALIVE

Drenched by Spray and Sleet For Twenty-Four Hours After Taking to Frail Craft a Few Minutes Before Barge Sunk

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 23 .-The loss of the barges Virginia Hudson and Martha E. McCabe in Monday night's blizzard off Barnegat and the rescue after 24 hours of exposure in a small boat during the height of the storm became known when the schooner Helen J. Seitz brought into port the three men of the barge McCabe. The crew of the Hudson was rescued by the tug Margaret.

The tug Margaret, with barges Julia R. Dempsey, Virginia Hudson and Martha E. McCabe, laden with lumber and piling, Norfolk for New York, was overaken by a heavy snowstorm Monday afternoon. The wind rapidly freshened and before night blizzard conditions prevailed. In the rough sea which sprang up the McCabe, the last of the tow, broke adrift, and soon afterwards the Hudson, the second of the | r 8 43 abo string, also parted her towline, and the | r 9 13 abc crew of the McCabe could make out the Margaret taking off the crew shortly be- r 11 16 abcdefghi 11 44 fore the Hudson went down. Letting go their anchor, the three men rode out the blizzard in their small boat, bailing to keep their craft from sinking and drenched by the spray and cold sleet. Not a sail could be sighted in the wild waste of waters all day Tuesday and it was not until Wednesday that the almost disheartened crew made out the schooner Heleu J. Seitz tacking in their direction.

The men shouted and waved their coats frantically to attract the attention of the big vessel, but it was over an hour before the watch on the Seitz made out the rowboat on the crest of a huge wave, with a wildly excited group Letting go their anchor, the three men

Diseases Which Are Most Deadly to the Medical Profession.

The diseases which claim the most victims among physicians relatively to all males are gout and diabetes, and day. No waiting. Williams, 1473 there is a high relative mortality from Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. diseases of the nervous system, circulatory system and kidneys, says the Scientific American.

From the nature of his habits the physician is not subject to accidents, and, though he is brought into contact with infection to a greater extent than other men, his preventive means are successful and his mortality from infection is very low. Freedom from prolonged muscular strains and high blood Miss Bertha C. Clark's dancing class tension apparently saves him from arteriosclerosis, but suicide claims many and so do the drug habits acquired by the nervously exhausted. It has been said that three-fourths of French morphine users are physicians.

The cause of the physician's early death is evidently the excessive nervous expenditure, insufficient rest and defective nutrition, inseparable from his calling, with its broken and restricted sleep, irregular hours of work, rest and meals and worry when lives depend upon his judgment and the lack of a day of complete relaxation in each week. The physician who sees his patients every day in the week, month after month, and cannot learn to forget there shall be short periods of moderate exertion interrupted by longer periods of rest when repairs are made. A BERING TUNNEL

American Political Ties

ALLIES IN THE FAR EAST

Furtherance of Project Under American Direction Would Tend to Increase Confidence In Russia's Foreign Policy

St. Petersburg, March 23 .- The sympathy of Emperor Nicholas, Premier Witte and other members of the ministry, as well as of powerful influences at court, have been enlisted by Baron de Lobel in the project of the American-Trans-Alaskan Siberian company clonious assault at Quincy was called and he for the construction of a tunnel under Bering strait from East cape to Kansk and the building of 3000 miles of railway to connect it with the Siberian railway, and the opposition of a portion of the bureaucracy, which fought the scheme bitterly because the negotiations were conducted over their heads, is breaking down.

The outlook for a favorable decision is now bright. In addition to the benefits which will accrue to the nation by the development of the resources of the present waste of northeastern Siberia the imperial family owns an immens extent of land which will be benfited. The national defense committee also considers the project as essential from a strategic point of view, and, more important still, there is in the higher government spheres a distinct disposition to cultivate the United States as Russia's natural ally in the Far East.

It is believed that by interesting Americans materially in Siberia the political ties between the two countries will be strengthened. A statement to this effect has been submitted by Foreign Minister Lamsdorff to the commis sion which has been considering the project, which statement really amounts to an important declaration of foreign policy, as is evident from the follow

"From the standpoint of genera policy the project is considered more than desirable. The investment of foreign capital, and especially American in an enterprise so important for Russia, will certainly tend to an econom financial and political Russo-American rapproachement. It will also contribute to the creation of greater confidence in our foreign policy, which sensibly suffered by recent events. By interesting Americans we will be the better able to combat the injurious agitation against us which produced so much harm before the Russo-Japanese war. believe the projected railroad would serve to paralyze any aggressive move ment against us in the Far East. Every thing which can help to place Russia in a more independent position with re gard to Japan and China cannot fail to strengthen Russia both in the Far East and in Europe."

Six of the 12 representatives of the various ministries on the commission already have pronounced in favor of the poses, situated on Brook Road, South | project. General Bolddureff, repre senting the ministry of the imperial household, told the commission how much the czar was interested and per sonally challenged the arguments of M Toulchinski, who has combatted the project. M. Grebnetsky, on behalf of the ministry of the interior, went to the extent of declaring that if the railroad was not constructed Russia's position on the Pacific would be lost. He expressed the opinion that the railroad was feasible and that Americans were capable of carrying out the project.

Baron De Lobel is making the changes in the proposed line of the railroad which were suggested by the committee of national defense on strategic considerations.

Miners and Operators Divided Indianapolis, March 23 .- The joint scale committees of coal operators and miners of the central competitive and of the southwestern districts adjourned last evening until today, divided on every proposal that had been made by either side. The committees apparently are no nearer an agreement than they were on Feb 2, when the former joint conference disagreed and adjourned.

Controller's Life Threatened Pittsburg, March 23.-Controller Larkin has received a postal card mailed in Allegheny and evidently written by a foreigner, stating that the writer will call upon him in a day or two and kill him. Falling to see him at his office he will watch for him on the street and warns Larkin to be prepared to die. The matter has been placed in the hands of postoffice inspectors.

Beergesseers are are a series and a series a ROMANCE OF A PRIVATEERSMAN

During the Revolutionary war, when privateering was largely practiced by the colonies, there lived in Philadelphia an old Quaker named Anthony Nutter. He was a widower and lived alone except for Edna Pattee, his ward. Edna was a relative of his dead wife and no blood relative of his. A fortune of some £3,000 was awaiting her when she came of age, and her guardian was keeping her out of the world, proposing to marry her and secure the money. When he was sixty and she seventeen he announced his plan to her, and, she demurring, he practically shut her up within the house and the garden. The latter was as safe as the former, for gardens in those days were surrounded by a high wall. Old Nutter's garden was filled with flowers, of which he was very fond, and there were several fruit trees. One-an apple treestood very near the wall. Now it happened one September day that Clinton Rackle, a young privateersman, barely nineteen years old, seeing an apple hanging high on this tree, coveted it, and, being a sailor, found it easy to throw a rope over a projecting branch and climb to the top of the wall. Looking down into the garden he saw a vision of loveliness reclining in a hammock. The sailor lad appeared equally attractive to the girl. He was a handsome boy, and the brass button on his short jacket cut to the waist and his cocked hat were beautiful in her eyes. He apologized for his intrusion in a frank, engaging way, ad mitting he was after the apple and plucking it, threw it down to her.

Romancers do not usually depict th birth of love with the lady munching an apple, but it was so in this case The youth sat on the wall, his legs dangling, his hands under them in liet of a cushion. Nutter was in the front of the house reading a newspaper.

Clinton Rackle did not remain very long on the wall, but quite long enough to 'get the girl's autobiography, the only interesting feature of which has been given. His ship was in port re fitting, and he was living with his mother directly opposite Mr. Nutter's. He climbed the garden wall once more then his ship sailed away, to return the following December with fat prizes. Meanwhile Edna was protesting against her confinement and begging her guardian to give her amuse ment. He finally consented to take her to a ball in the town hall, it being expected that those attending would go in character. He gave her a monk's costume and made her promise to keep her cowl over her face. All this he thought would keep her from the attentions of men. It happened that the ball came off the night of Rackle's return, and, standing on his mother's doorstep, he saw a bishop in full canonicals and a monk leave old Nutter's house. He followed them, saw them go into the town hall, where it was evident a ball was to take place, and, dressed in his simple privateer's uniform, purchased an admission and entered himself.

One glimpse of Edna's face she gave him assured him of her identity, and, sidling up to the bishop, he entered insional remark to the monk.

"Young sir," said the bishop, "why do you keep company with two men when there are so many pretty girls to be courted?" "Indeed, sir," replied Rackle, "I'm no hand for the girls, preferring men's society. Your companion is a monk indeed. Why do you not send him of FRANK F. CRANE, to the dancers?" "He knows none of the girls to serve for a partner," replied the bishop.

"I will introduce him." Nutter was ready to do anything to get rid of the boy, and since he was to introduce his ward to girls, surely no harm could come of it. So the sailor and the monk went skipping off to the thickest of the crowd, where they soon DR. CLAYTON R. MARSTIN managed to get lost to the bishop's Panama, March 23 .- A decree issued view. Nutter followed to regain sight by President Amador prohibits the of his ward and was just in time to landing in the republic of Panama of see a sailor and a monk go downstairs foreigners not owning at least $15 un- to the street. When a colonial house was closed to outsiders it could not be entered without a battering ram, for door and doorcase were of oak, and there were always bars within. Nutter banged for awhile, then went off to report the matter to the watch. Going to the watchhouse, he called upon them to come with him, declaring that a young monk of his acquaintance had been kidnaped. There was no love between the Quakers and the Catholics of those days, and the chief of the watch took his time before sending a man to help the bishop. When an hour later the bishop and a watchman knocked at Mrs. Rackle's door and the watchman demanded the person of the monk, Clinton threw open the door and declared that there was no monk in the house. Edna stepped forth dressed in her own apparel-for she had only to throw off the frock-and Nutter claimed her. But she drew back.

"You brought me here," said the watch testily, "to recover a monk, and now you claim a woman. I shall go to my chief and report the matter." "She is my ward," cried Nutter, "and

Kindly In Disposition, Especially to Children, John D. Rockefeller, Emperor of the Realm of Petroleum, Has Ever Been a Man of Mystery---Keen to Find Out Business Secrets of Others, but Cautious About Giving His Own---Modest Liver and Regular Attendant at Church, Whose Only Recreations Are Golf and Prayer Meeting

Oil company is not being investigated. At present writing there are four public inquiries proposed or in progress to find out where Rockefeller got it. One of these is by Attorney General Hadley of Missouri, another is by the state of Kansas, a third is by Commissioner Garfield, and the fourth is a proposed probing of both the oil company and the coal carrying railroads. All these keep John D. busy dodging process servers. There is trouble under the old man's new wig. It is no snap being the richest man on earth. With Miss Tarbell and Tom Lawson saying things about him, with states trying to do things to him, with press, pulpit and public criticising him, it is no wonder that he has lost all his hair and looks like the oldest man in the world. Mr. Rockefeller was born without money. Now he has all of it that other people could not keep him from taking away from them. Wherever there are any loose dollars he is found in the midst of them, and they away vast sums for education and cover. The stranger followed at a are not loose long. T is an off day when the Standard else out of the field. Some of his competitors went into his company, some into bankruptcy, and others committed suicide. It mattered not to him so long lives when not being chased by court as they got out of his way. The word "skidoo" had not then been invented, like any old fellow, sees that his embut that is the thing they all did without knowing what to call it. He made the railroads not only refund part of the rates that he paid, but also give by his neighbors "the old gentleman," him part of the rates that other oil shippers paid. He likewise made the "the young fellow." It is worthy of roads tell him just what the other ship- note that "the old gentleman" is the pers were doing. Then he would go more popular of the two. But in in concealing himself. A guard caught John D. Rockefeller took his rise in business he has been as unscrupulous the stranger, who proved to have nei-

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER AND HIS POCANTICO HILLS ESTATE. NEAR TARRYTOWN, N. Y.

Many peculiar tales have been told of his father, but the son has enough iniquities of his own to bear without dragging in those of his ancestors. John D. got his start by saving his pennies. Since then he has been saving other people's. At present he has quite a collection. His folks moved to Ohio while he was quite young. He went to school in Cleveland for a year. While there he wrote three essays that did not attract any attention as long as they could help it. They then had greatness thrust upon them. After leaving school John tramped the streets of Cleveland looking for a job. This is not particularly surprising, as thousands of other young men have done the same thing, but for a millionaire to have done it makes the world exclaim: "Indeed! How remarkable!" It was not much of a job that young Rockefeller got, but by wearing two dollar suits of clothes and eating mush and milk he managed to retain part of his salary. Every dollar he got he placed in an incubator and made it hatch out another one. He also placed his head in the incubator and hatched out schemes. That is what caused him to moult all his feathers except two or three on the back of his neck. These schemes all had to do with the annexation of money, and every time one pipped the shell it was up to other folks to lock the safe.

The manner in which Mr. Rockefeller got into oil has been told by himself. One day he was crossing a foot log in the oil regions, and he fell into a deep puddle of the liquid. He remarked to his companion that he was in the oil business "head over ears." He likewise said that he had become a plunger. It was doubtless because of these brilliant witticisms that he was afterward made a member of the American Press Humorists. At least there is no other known reason.

Czar of the Oil Pipe Line.

Having thus got his start, he has continued in oil up to this present hour. Arming himself with a railroad rebate other, he proceeded to chase everybody land. It might not be a bad idea for

Rockefeller's pastor at Cleveland, O., to elude the process servers is the "cutest trick" he ever played. Tom Lawson, on the other hand, says that within a year both Rockefeller and ready to buy my stock, Mr. President.' Rogers will be behind the bars. These may be regarded as two expert opinions. The reader may choose which he

Very Smooth and Adroit.

Now that the Missouri supreme court has decided that Rogers and other Standard witnesses must answer questions, it may be that Rockefeller will be still more anxious to keep out of the way. He doubtless knows many things that he does not want to talk about in open court. But the state of Missouri can probably wait as long as he. It will not be exactly convenient for John D. to remain in hiding during the res. of his natural life, and sooner or late, some bright young process server is liable to nab him. Then a Standard Oil chapter is liable to be written that will be still more interesting than those already put in print by Ida M Tarbell. The country will await that event with keen and pleasurable anticipations. Mr. Rockefeller has proved that he is a very smooth and adroit gentleman, but the arm of the law is long, and he cannot escape it indefi nitely. Meanwhile his dodging of a le gal summons, however "cute" it may be, does not place him in exactly an enviable light. People are apt to con clude that when a man makes such strenuous efforts to keep from being a witness there is some reason for wishing to conceal himself and his knowledge. That sort of action when done by poorer people is usually characterized by very uncomplimentary terms. Even "cuteness" may overreach itself. Uncle Sam is getting more and more in earnest about some matters, and a persistent dodging of the courts and refusal to testify are liable to add to that earnestness. John Davison Rockefeller may be the richest man on earth, but he is still an American citiin one hand and a drawback in the zen and is subject to the laws of the

some friend to advise him to come into the reservation.

Mr. Rockefeller has four homesone in New York city, one in the Pocantico hills, near Tarrytown, N. Y.; one at Lakewood, N. J., and one at Cleveland, O. A man with as many domiciles as that and with a telegraph and spy system reaching over the entire country has certain advantages in skipping out of the way of court officers, but he cannot thus evade public opinion, and that, after all, is the supreme arbiter in this country. It is very pervasive and ever active. It may be lulled by gifts to educational institutions and charities, but it is ready to spring up again at a moment's notice. The king of the Standard should not forget the importance of public opinion.

Carefully Guarded From Strangers.

Despite the fact that he has houses and lands scattered about promiscuously this Plutus of petroleum lives very simply. Society knows him not. His only recreations are golf and prayer meeting. At Pocantico, where he officers, he potters around his estates ployees are well housed and cared for, talks to the children and seems very much like a human being. He is called while John D., Jr., is referred to as about his immense estates, generally ing an order here and there and keep forward. While democratic with those strangers. They might have bombs Outside of business no one has ever concealed about their persons or, worse Catering for Clubs and Parties, ther an infernal machine nor a court summons, but only a harmless bottle of hair restorer.

Mr. Rockefeller can tell a story on occasion and is not without an appreciation of humor. He is fond of asking his friends how long a man's legs JOHNSON & BROWN should be, and if they cannot answer the conundrum he tells them gleefully, 'Long enough to reach from his body to the ground." The fact that Lincoln originated that saying does not seem to detract from the oil king's enjoy ment in repeating it.

"Heaviest Hole I Have Ever Known." The president of the Standard Oil is fond of telling about the heaviest hole he ever heard of. It appears that in an earlier day he ordered from a foundry some castings, one solid and one with a hole. The bill was rendered for two solid castings., Mr. Rockefeller called attention to this and received the fol-"J. D. Rockefeller, Cr., by 1 hole, weight 432 pounds, $12.50." "That," chuckled John D., "was the heaviest hole I have ever known." There is another and an earlier story that shows another phase of Rockefel ler's character. The late Amasa Stone of Cleveland was the heaviest stock holder in the Standard Oil company back in the seventies. Stone, who was Johnson Building, City Square, 1382 Hancock a man of importance, later becoming the father-in-law of Colonel John Hay, had a habit of laying down the law. One day he was engaged in that occupation in a directors' meeting of the Standard.

"Just a moment, Mr. Stone," said Rockefeller. "I want you to know before this discussion goes any further that you can run your rolling mills and says that the oil king's hiding himself banks as you please, but you can't run Standard Oil.'

"I presume," said Mr. Stone after a moment's painful silence, "you stand "Certainly."

"Well, I'll take $100,000, and my offer holds good from 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until a quarter after." Whereupon Stone left the room. Rockefeller was not very flush in those days, and no one knows how he raised the money, but at the stipulated time he sent a friend to buy the stock.

A Man of Mystery.

John D. Rockefeller is a much stron ger man physically than is generally believed. He is above the medium height, has a good pair of shoulders and a vigorous step. The peculiar disease that caused him to lose all his hair gives him a very ancient and uncanny appearance. Recently the wearing of a wig modifies this strange aspect. His head is large and high, his lips thin and almost cruel and his eye like a blank wall. It looks through one without telling anything in return. When the man is deeply stirred it flashes with a cunning and almost malevolent gleam, but these occasions are rare. If the eye is the window of the soul John D. Rockefeller knows how to veil his soul so that the world may not see the inmost springs of his action. He has ever been a man of mystery, keen to find out the business secrets of others, but cautious about giving his own, even to his most intimate associates.

For nearly thirty-five years the Standard Oil company has been the subject of numerous judicial inquiries. The interstate commerce commission Telephone, Quincy 105-3. law and the Sherman antitrust law were both aimed at this gigantic trust. But through all the inquiries and legislation the head of that immense monopoly has managed to wriggle out of the clutches of the government and has built up a system the complexity and power of which no one except himself perhaps can measure. J. A. EDGERTON.

ICE LOCOMOTIVE.

Novel Machine Intended to Travel on Frozen Surfaces.

A machine which is in its basic principle a decided innovation has been designed and constructed by a Minneapolis man, Charles E. S. Burch, who has experimented for years in practical demonstration of his idea. The machine in question has been tested and is intended to travel on a frozen surface. The object which the inventor has had in view is the revolutionizing of the means of winter transportation in Alaska.

The ice locomotive is propelled by steam engines, but instead of resting on wheels or runners is supported by four great steel spirals, one at each corner of the body in the places usually occupied by the wheels or runners of ordinary vehicles. The spirals lie with their vertical axes horizontal and are of opposite pitch. The edges of the blades are fashioned like skate blades in order that they may grip the ice well. Each of the spirals is directly connected to a separate steam engine, and consequently the spirals may be operated independently, this method giving unusual control over the car.

ICE AUTOMOBILE.

It can be driven forward, backward, sideways or at any oblique angle desired, and it can even be made to spin around like a top. The model, an illustration of which is herewith shown, is twenty-two feet long, weighs four and a half tons, has engines of forty-two horsepower and steel screws twenty-seven inches in diameter. It is easily seen that the greater the diameter of the spirals the greater will be the ability of the ice locomotive to travel over rough surfaces and to surmount obstacles. Accordingly a machine which the inventor is having built in Canada will have spirals six feet in height. The ice locomotive is steered by means of two semicircular steel disks at each end of Berg the body operated by compressed air. The disks work in unison and are weighted in order better to grip the ice. The bottom of the body is made water tight, so that in the event of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. machine breaking through the ice it will float upon the surface of the water. In that case it would be possithe spiral method of navigation, as is well known, operates successfully.

RAISING SUNKEN SHIPS. Calcium Carbide Utilized In an Ingenious Way.

An ingenious device for raising sunken ships recently invented by a French engineer is described in the Electrical Review. The system depends upon the use of calcium carbide for setting free gas when brought in contact with water. At suitable points in the vessei thereof as have been duly released out of the operation of the mortgage, namely:—certain cases of carbide are placed, which, when brought in contact with water. (Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60.00 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, Timothy Reed, Adams St., Guincy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad c confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Man's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educa-tional class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor,

The Treasurer, William F. Cummings, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, Ernber G. Gay, will be happy to answer inquiries.

The Romance of a Slipper

By Virginia Leila Wentz

When Miss Graham had finished her letter and laid her pen down, she sauntered indolently to the small window and looked across at the pine woods. It was one of those country windows to open which demands strength which is as the strength of ten and which, when opened, refuse to be closed again save with the archaic force of a battering ram.

"Even though I do live in a Harlem flat," pondered Kitty Graham, "I've been accustomed to windows that remained up without any visible means of support. Since I've come to the the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of Berkshires I've learned better. Seems to me that one volume of Thackeray doesn't keep the window up high enough." She gazed searchingly about Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the the room. MILL AFFAIRS TANGLED

Officials Endeavoring to Lucate the Former Superintendent

Waterville, Me., March 24.-The affairs of the Riverview Worsted mills of this city, which are in financial difficulties, assumed a new phase last night when a warrant was issued for the arrest of a former official of the corporation, charging him with wrongfully attempting to dispose of goods owned by the company.

On Thursday shareholders applied to the supreme court for the appointment of a receiver and a hearing will be held at Augusta on Monday. In connection with the application it developed that about $25,000 worth of goods had been shipped, and, according to Treasurer Terry, the goods were removed from the mills without authority.

The officials allege that former Superintendent Stein was responsible for the shipment of the cloth. Terry succeeded in holding up goods valued at $17,000 before they left the Maine Central yards here, but a carload of the cloth, valued at $8000, reached Portland before it could be impounded. The car, however, has been side-tracked in the Portland yard, and is being held pending further legal proceedings. Officers have left Waterville to search for Stein, as he could not be found here.

Figures Are For Maritime Provinces and New England Alone, and Represent Only the Losses That Are Actually Known

Boston, March 24.-Landsmen, remembering what a comparatively mild winter has just passed on shore, little realize what a terrible season it proved at sea. Even a recollection of the unmerous tales of shipwrecks and sufferings of mariners recounted in the newspapers hardly prepares one for the grim story told in the winter's summary for the New England coast and the maritime provinces.

Noting only the actually known losses of men and ships, without taking cognizance of the vessels and men missing, of whom a certain percentage never again will be heard from, this report states that a total of 85 lives and 54 ships, with property amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, were sacrificed to shipping in the winter season, which ended officially on Wednes-

Larceny Committed If Insurance Contributions Were Made With crs--Jerome Gives His Views

New York, March 24 .- If the grand jury, which is investigating some of the conditions developed by the recent legislative investigation, find that contributions of insurance company funds to political campaign committees were must find that larceny was committed.

This opinion was expressed by Judge O'Sullivan in the court of general sessions in answer to a presentment on the jury. O'Sullivan added that it is not within the province of the court to say whether or not there was intent. That is a question which the jurors must determine. He charged the jury to make a thorough investigation into all the facts and to place the responsibility for such crimes, if they find that crimes were committed.

"You are not to go seeking for shelduty," he said. This opinion, in effect, is directly opposite to one upon the same subject which was given by District Attorney Jerome several days ago. Jerome, in his brief submitted to O'Sullivan, held that there was no ground for prosecution of any insurance official in connection with the campaign contritent to defraud had been shown. O'Sulthe question whether or not there was lies. intent is a question which is yet to be determined.

Mr. Jerome was in court when O'Sullivan delivered his opinion and when the judge had finished Jerome asked diciary agreed that insurance cannot be the grand jury to remain to hear him regarded as interstate commerce and upon the subject. He declared that decided to make a report to the house O'Sullivan had misconceived the subject which he had considered, and that if the court held to its opinion it would be the duty of the grand jury to return indictments against George W. Perkins, former vice president of the New York Life Insurance company, for larceny, and against George B. Cortelyou, chairman, and Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer, of the Republican national committee, as receivers of stolen goods.

Mr. Jerome informed O'Sullivan that if he would sit as a magistrate he would submit affidavits concerning the acts committed by Perkins and would ask for a warrant for his arrest. He

When asked if he would go before Recorder Goff, as suggested by Judge O'Sullivan, he replied: "Certainly not. | ture at the University of Minnesota, at-Recorder Goff is a policyholder in the New York Life."

NINE DISTINCT CAUSES

Action to Compel McCurdy to Disgorge Enormous Sums

New York, March 24 .- The first complaint in a series of eight actions already begun by the Mutual Life Insurance company against former President Richard A. McCurdy, his son, Robert H., and the firm of Charles H. Raymond & Co., the company's former Metropolitan agents, is made public.

This particular complaint is against ex-President McCurdy and contains nine separate causes of action. Each of these charges McCurdy with the waste of large sums of money belonging to the company, through alleged unfaithfulness and neglect in the discharge of his duties.

The first five causes seek recovery in the aggregate of $292,500 as alleged contributions to political parties since Jan. 1, 1885. These contributions are stated to have been $15,000 in 1896, $35,000 in 1900, and $40,000 in 1904, to the national Republican campaign committee; $2500 ports the worst voyage of the season. in 1904 to the Republican congressional tor Platt to have been made to the Re- | was met and safely ridden. publican state committee since Jan. 1,

Of these five causes of action the complainant says that these payments were "unlawful and improvident" and were authorized and permitted by Mc-Curdy "through want of ordinary care and diligence."

The sixth cause seeks to recover the sum of $225,000, embracing the $50,000 alleged increase of annual salary has now reached 23, while 20 or more drawn by McCurdy since June 1, 1901, are injured. " It is believed all the inwithout authority, as is claimed, and jured will recover. under circumstances detailed in the testimony before the Armstrong committee.

The seventh cause seeks to recover $600,000 as the aggregate of the respective sums of $25,000 drawn quarterly High water-11:45 a. m.; 12 p. m. from the company for the last six weeks of McCurdy's presidency, on the voucher of the committee on expendid the country except the south. The

The eighth cause deals with the relaions of Louis A. Thebaud, son-in-law of ex-President McCurdy, with Raymond & Co., and the "gratuities and rate of commission" received by the firm.

The final cause of action deals with the sum of $1,282,841, received by Robert H. McCurdy as commissions from 1886 to November, 1905, as superintendent of the foreign department, and charges that by reason of unfaithfulness and neglect by the ex-president A QUESTION OF INTENT these commissions had been allowed at rates which the enormous increase in the foreign business had rendered exorbitant and unnecessary.

Finally the company demands judgment against ex-President McCurdy for the sum of $3,370,341.66, with interest, Intent to Defraud True Own- as damages for alleged unfaithfulness and neglect.

Scope of Fowler Committee

New York, March 24.—Secretary Carroll of the Fowler investigating committee of the New York Life Insurance company says: "The special committee has no further duty to perform with respect to the Hamilton matters or political contributions. Many Senators Taking the Onion Cure For Deafness.

AN ODD APPEAL TO THE SPEAKER

Danville (Ill.) Woman Wants a Law Compelling People to Pay Their Board Bills - How Senator Knox Followed His Physician's Advice on Smoking-A Pennsylvania Congressman's Story of His Bruised Nose.

It is amazing to visit the office of a successful ear and throat specialist in Washington and observe the number of great men who are fighting off deaf ! ness, says the Philadelphia North American's Washington correspondent. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts fears this specter so greatly that his trip abroad last summer was to consult leading authorities in Berlin and Paris. He goes several times a week to a specialist of the capital who has many great names on his book.

At least one-fourth of the upper house is being treated for deafness, throat trouble or failing sight, and the proportion in the lower house is almost as great. This doctor gives several hours a week to fixing up the vocal chords of public speakers after a great strain or getting them in shape for a mighty effort.

The pungent odor of onion is noticeable after these visits, and it seems that this comely vegetable is believed to preserve the hearing and to ease the voices of the lawmakers. No one has ever approached some of the potent forces in the official world without wishing that their tastes were more refined than to include onlons in every menu, but the onions are merely the medicine of this specialist, and he asserts that it is working wonders.

Speaker Cannon recently received a letter from a woman living in Danville. Ill., his home town, says the New York World's Washington representative. The letter, which was addressed to "The Congress, the President, the Speaker and all others in Washington who have power," read:

"The crying need of this country is for a law that will compel people to pay their board bills. Congress must pass this law immediately. The greatest evil of modern times is the man or woman who does not pay a board bill.

"Also, congress should pass in the he has picked it out to compel him to speed. The first part is the ordinary

One of the Pennsylvania members appeared in the house recently with a badly bruised nose, says the Chicago Inter Ocean's Washington correspondent. He maintained a dignified silence about it for two days. Then the questions grew too personal, and he gathered a lot of his tormentors about him and said: "You fellows have been manifesting an unholy interest in my nose. Now, if I tell you how I hurt it will you quit asking me questions?"

They all promised. "Well," he said, "I went over to Philadelphia a few days ago to witness a launching at Cramp's shipyards. I got there early. The manager of the yard, who is a particular friend of mine, invited me down under the ship that was to be launched to see how they hold the ship on the ways. That man is the late Australian, Kieran. Daniels, however, is improving every day, yet at the recent championship meet of the Amateur Athletic union, held in the New York A. But the strain of his recent training and racing has been terrific. He gave not the slightest sign of going stale or breaking down, yet, although six feet tall, he weighs but 147 pounds. Coach Sundstrom has ordered the champion of champions to stay out of the water and rest for a month.

His victories were remarkable in that neither east, west, north nor south could produce a swimmer who had the slightest chance to hold Daniels when once he started his famous "heaving"

Marquand Schwartz of the Missouri A. C. had been heralded as a coming world beater. At the start of each race Daniels toyed with him for twenty-five or fifty yards and allowed him to stay on even terms. Then he put added power in his stroke that lifted a quarter of his body out of water and quickly hurled him into the lead.

There seems to be no limit to his endurance. Night after night he raced won his heats, semifinals and finals and broke records. The last night found him as strong as the first. In addition, he swam on the club's winning relay team.

He used no set rule as to his stroke For twenty-five or fifty yards he usual ly swam the Australian crawl stroke and then finished with the double trud

Instead, both feet are allowed to go along in the course they were taking and then are brought together for the second time. The result is a kick and a half in the time that the average swimmer takes one.

Four years ago the elder Daniels brought a puny urchin, his son Charles to the New York Athletic club, tied a rope around his waist and threw him into the tank. The youngster splutter ed and floundered about and, as he himself now puts it, "swallowed DR. CLAYTON R. MARSTIN

Daniels' father says that for six months he could neither persuade his boy to come nor drag nor carry him anywhere near the tank. The boy wished to row with schoolboy friends. His father forbade him to do so until he had learned to swim. Then the youngster determined to learn the natatorial art.

Every afternoon after school he hurried to the New York Athletic club tank, until his figure became as familiar as the posts about the water. Gus Sundstrom, the coach, soon noticed the exceptional aptitude of the boy. Within a year no schoolboy friends or older acquaintances were a match for

Turbine Vessels For Cunard Line to Be Longest Boats In the World, Measuring Eight Hundred Feet-Can Carry Two Thousand Passengers. Furnishings and Appointments Will Be the Finest of Any Ships Afloat,

A steamship that could run away from a subway express train and race over the seas from New York to Queenstown in three days and eighteen hours, or there and back in a week!

Shipbuilders who predicted this a decade ago were scoffed at, but it will be an accomplished fact when the Cunard line's monster vessels, the Lusitania and Mauritania, begin their ocean express traffic next winter, says the New York Evening World.

The world sat up and marveled at the performances of the Deutschland and Lucania, but the new turbine steamships of the Cunard line will be able to pass them on the ocean almost as if they were anchored. Moreover, they will be the longest boats in the world by almost 100 feet, broader than any of the German leviathans and at the same time possessing the shapely lines of the greyhounds like the Lu-

The Lusitania is now building on the Clyde and the Mauritania on the Tyne. The former will be launched in May and her sister ship a few months later. Both will be equipped to carry traffic before next Christmas. They are expected to develop a speed of thirtyone statute miles an hour, making it possible to cover the distance of 2,800 miles from New York to Queenstown in three days and eighteen hours.

The new turbine steamers are 770 feet long between perpendiculars, or 800 feet counting in the stern overhang. The Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, now the longest steamship in the world, is 705 feet long, with a breadth of 80 feet. The Cunard twins have 88 feet breadth, and even then they will compare with the German boat as a Sandy Hook flyer might with a ferryboat, so fine and clean are their lines.

Unlike the Carmania, the turbine of the Cunard fleet recently put in commission, the Lusitania and her sister are being built for speed. The younger and smaller boat was an experiment in steamship building, the first object being to make the vessel one of singular comfort without seeking for any great development of speed.

The Lusitania will develop almost four times the horsepower in her engines that has been developed in the Carmania. The latter's horsepower is 21,000. The new turbines will have four engines, each capable of developing 18,000 horsepower, or 72,000 horsepower in all. 'The most powerful vessel afloat today is the Deutschland. Her horsepower is 37,500.

"Our two new boats," said Captain James Bernie Watt, senior master, or commodore, of the Cunard fleet, "mark as great a stride in advance over modern steamships as boats like our Lucania and the Baltic of the White Star fleet did over the Umbria type. They will be monster vessels, but as slender and racy in their lines as the Lucania. They will be the true type of ocean grayhound.

"Each vessel will be equipped with four turbine screws, two way aft and two about forty or fifty feet forward. So much has been given up to the development of speed that the Lusitania and her sister will not have any greater cargo carrying capacity than several other smaller steamships of the day. "Both boats will be built with a capacity of 26 knots an hour-that is, about 31 statute miles. The Lucania is capable of 22 knots, and I believe that the Deutschland is a knot faster. The Lusitania will have double the number of boilers and furnaces of the Lucania, but because of the simplicity of the turbine engines the engine room force will not be appreciably greater. "I believe that in smooth water these turbines will be able to go 27 knots an hour, or a little more than 32 miles. The Lucania has made 23 knots in smooth water. The new turbines will eat up 1,000 tons of coal in a day and will carry 6,500 tons in their bunkers. The Lusitania will have a tonnage of 33,000 as against the 25,000 of the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, the 16,000 of the Deutschland and the 12,950 of the Lucania. She will have a displacement of more than 40,000. "You may have some idea of the bigness of these new boats when I say, metaphorically speaking, that they might swing the biggest battleship in the world at their stern. The new Cunard twins will carry 600 first class, 400 second class and about 1,000 third class passengers. Their interior furnishings and appointments will be the finest of any ships in the world. All of the woodwork will be of mahogany. walnut and satin wood. There will be a system of elevators carrying the passengers up and down the greater part of the ship's depth of sixty feet. The new turbines will have four funnels."

Charles Jarrott recently drove up the noted mountain Arthur's Seat, Edinburgh, on a twenty-two horsepower motor car, carrying six passengers, says Tit-Bits. Mr. Jarrott ascended to a height of 1,400 feet, where the party was photographed. This is the first ascent of Arthur's Seat ever made by an automobile. The gradient of the hill in places approaches one in four, with numerous precipitous turns, and no other vehicle has ever climbed Ar-

OVERTIME BILL KILLED

Labor Men's Efforts Appeared About to Be Crowned With Success, but Advocates of the Measure Were Caught Napping

Boston, March 24.-After a turbulent session, during which the members were locked in their chamber and during which 18 rollcalls were ordered, the Massachusetts senate reconsidered its previous action of passing the so-called overtime bill and then, by the vote of 13 to 12, rejected the measure.

The bill prohibited the employment of women and minors in textile establishments before 6 o'clock in the morning and after 6 o'clock at night. It was passed by the legislature in 1904 but was vetoed by Governor Lates. This action by Governor Bates is generally believed to have been one of the causes of his defeat when he came up for reelection. The next year the bill was passed in the house, but met defeat in

This year the efforts of three years of the labor representatives seemed destined to be met with success, for on Thursday the bill was adopted by the senate by the vote of 20 to 17 and the advocates of labor, having in mind Governor Guild's past accomplishments for the benefit of child labor, were confident that the bill would become a law.

When the senate was called together vesterday afternoon five members who had voted in favor of the bill Thursday were absent without a pair. Chairman Buttrick of the committee on labor, who dissented from the overtime bill report, moved to reconsider the action of Thursday whereby the bill was passed for engrossment. Outside the rails the New Bedford and Fall River members from the house had assembled to watch

As soon as Buttrick had made his mo tion to reconsider there we're hurried conferences between the house mem bers and the leading advocates of the bill on the floor of the senate. A quick survey of the chamber showed the labor leaders a majority of two against the bill. Quickly it was decided that a definite vote must be prevented. Senator Cassidy moved that the motion to reconsider be postponed until next Tuesday. On a rising vote 11 favored postponement and 14 opposed and the motion was lost. Several other motions of the same tenor were lost on rollcall

Then the advocates of the bill tried to break the quorum. Senator Mullen had moved that the Buttrick motion to reconsider be tabled. As the roll was being called some of the advocates of the bill started to leave the chamber By request of President Dana the door-

Motions now followed one another in current free of charge. pld succession, all intended to have the effect of postponing further action on the bill, but all these met with failure. Senator Harding made a motion poles will not be necessary. that the debate be closed and that a vote be taken in one hour. This attempt to establish a closure rule was the in spiration for a flood of speeches from various members. Senator Beck de clared that the Republican party would have to bear the burden if this much needed labor bill were defeated by the Republican senate of Massachusetts. Senator Logan tried to secure an adjournment, but his motion was rejected by 12 to 15 on rolleall.

Later the closure rule was adopted. although it brought forth a vehemen denunciation of Senator Bullock, who had moved for reconsideration. Senator Seiberlich (Rep.) declared that certain members of his party would regret the ction on the all-important overtime bill. The session was marked at various intervals by some disorder and by attempts of a large number of senators to address the chair at the same mo-

A final vote on the motion to reconsider showed a tie, but it was broken by President Dana, who cast his ballo in behalf of reconsideration. The division was as follows:

Yes: Buttrick, Clark, Converse, Cummings, Dana, Dean, Harding, Hull, Lane, Nevin, Prouty, Stevens, Taft-13 No: Bullock, Cassidy, Chace, Chaffie, Cusick, Logan, Mahoney, Mellen, Reed,

Schofield, Seiberlich, Taylor-12. Then the vote on the bill itself was quickly taken and the measure was rejected by the same total, 13 to 12, President Dana casting the deciding vote against the proposition. Says Orators Teach Discontent

Des Moines, March 24.-Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, in an address on 'Republicanism" here last night, made an elaborate argument against any immediate change in tariff schedules, because such a change would endanger Republican success in 1908. He referred to the activities of certain Iowa Republicans and said that Republican orators are again teaching discontent.

CARPENTERS' UNIONS

AMALGAMATED AND BROTHERHOOD TO VOTE ON MERGER.

Obstacles In the Way of Amalgamation of Two Bodies-Outline of the Plans to Be Submitted to the Organizations For Decision.

The committee representing the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, which met recently in Chicago to discuss plans for merging the two organizations, adjourned without agreeing on a plan, says Luke Grant in Chicago Record-Herald. Two propositions will be submitted to a vote of the membership of both organizations, and the one receiving a majority vote will be the one adopted. It seems probable, however, that neither will receive a majority vote, as the membership of the United Brotherhood will vote for the plan submitted by their representatives and the Amalgamated society membership will vote for their own plan.

In that event the whole thing will be left where it is now. The only hope which the representatives of the United Brotherhood have is that the members of the Amalgamated society in Great Britain will vote for the brotherhood plan, as it is well known that they are anxious to cut the American branches adrift if they can find a good encuse for doing so. The plan of amalgamation submitted by the United Brotherhood is, briefly, to admit without any initiation fee all members now in good standing in the Amalgamated society and pay them the benefits provided for in the constitution of the U. B. Those members of the Amalgamated society who are now in receipt of superannuation benefit or old age pensions or those entitled to such benefit can have $2.50 a week secured to them by paying 35 cents a week dues. This would effectually kill the old age pension, as the members of the Amalgamated society pay but 35 cents a week dues now, and they receive many benefits in addition to the old age insurance. The allowance paid to old and incapacitated members of the Amalgamated society now is $2.80 a week after twenty-five years' continuous membership, and they are exempt from payment of dues. The only other concession offered by the United Here is a chance for you to put Brotherhood is to add a tool benefit to some of your money into a home of reimburse members whose tools are

B., and a per capita tax of 65 cents a month would be required for all members who pay 35 cents a week dues. The unemployed benefit, sick benefit and strike benefit now provided by the Amalgamated society are left out entirely in the proposition offered by the U. B. for amalgamation.

The proposition submitted by the Amalgamated society representatives is largely the same as that proposed by Adolph Strasser three years ago when izations and which was defeated by the organization into four classes, paying dues of 35 cents, 20 cents, 15 cents and $3.50 a week now paid by the Amalgamated society is reduced to $3 for twelve weeks and $2 for another twelve weeks, no member to receive more than $60 in one calendar year or any benefit in June, July and August. Sick benefits of $4 a week for fifteen weeks are provided for, and $2 a week for another thirty weeks in one year.

All the other benefits now paid by the Amalgamated society are provided for, with some slight modifications of the supposed to take place Nov. 15, 1907, now existing between the organizations is to remain in force. The referendum | will take place on April 23. The wed- 12.07 P. M. must be in by Sept 1, 1906.

The United Brotherhood was organiz ed in Chicago in 1881, and its membership is confined to America and its possessions. The Amalgamated society has its headquarters in Manchester, England, and has branches scattered over the entire English speaking world. Its main strength, however, is in Great Britain, where it practically controls the trade. The Amalgamated society was organized in 1860 and has been built up on the British system of trades unionism, which means high dues and an extended chain of benefits. That is administration of oxygen, but this is dethe most serious obstacle which has to nied. be overcome in discussing amalgama-

The members of the Amalgamated society are insured against lack of employment; loss of tools by fire, water or theft; sickness, accident, old age and death. In addition, they are paid large strike benefits in cases of trade disputes or given traveling expenses to their home city.

The United Brotherhood, being organized on American lines, provides only death benefits for its members, leaving the question of sick benefits to the local unions, and it pays strike benefits when it has the funds.

of the central competitive and the southwestern districts continued yesterday throughout the meetings of the two joint scale committees and when the meetings adjourned last evening no agreement had been reached on the wage scale. The differences seem as far from adjustment as ever. Both joint scale committees will meet today. A vote will be taken today by the joint scale committees on the proposition of F. L. Robbins to restore the 1903 scale for a period of two years. This motion, it is expected, will be defeated by the operators of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and a motion will then be adopted to report a disagreement of the scale ommittee to a session of the joint conference which will be called probably this afternoon. This brings the fight

An Englishman's Visit in 1817

A most amusing account of the visit to Boston in 1817 and the trip up through Long Island Sound on the steamboats Fulton and Connecticut by Henry Bradshaw Fearon, an Englishman on a sightseeing tour of the United States, has just been unearthed in an old book which, it is claimed, belongs to the Congressional library in Washington. He calls especial attention to the social distinctions in Boston, and tells of meeting President Adams and being entertained by him at Quincy. It is reprinted in the Boston Herald

A Young Man Attempts Suicide

Henry Labland, aged 20 years, of Trafford street, attempted suicide Sunday afternoon by cutting his throat. Dr. W. J. McCausland, who was called, for plaintiff for $400 damages and $50 found the young man's throat cut in a bad manner, and he ordered his removal to the City Hospital. The people said that the cut was made accidentally. As Labland had not been right for some time, and his people had been warued to look out for him, it was undoubtedly a case of attempt at suicide. At the hospital it was found that the cut was a deep one, and came very near the windpipe. It was thought, however, that he would recover.

Later in the evening the police were requested to send an officer to the hospital to watch the man during the night, and Officer Matthews was detailed.

Residential and the second How She Met Her Fate

[Original.]

Drinking tea-all of us married women-we fell to comparing notes as to how, when and where we first met our husbands. One had sung in a church choir with the man she married, another had met her fate at a dance in a barn, a third was the wife of one who had fallen in love with her at seeing her run across a back yard. The experiences were not especially startling, and we were growing tired of them when Mrs. Perkins, a meek little woman who had kept silent, was invited to give her first meeting with her hus-

There was a masked man standing in the road pointing a pistol at the stage driver and another man, also masked, waiting near the coach door. The one who had opened the coach door took a sack out of his pocket and came down the line, taking our valuables and dropping them in the sack. I was standing-it was all I could do to keep from fainting-between the young clergyman and the small man who had sat beside me in the coach. I leaned a little against the former for support. The robber got halfway down the line when, finding that his pistols were in the way of his taking our watches and things, as well as holding the sack, put them in his holsters. The next thing I remember was seeing the terrible man who had done all this killing dragging the body of the third robber out of the wood. "Well, it turned out that the small man with the soft voice was 'the quick shooting deputy' of Boulder. He was the most awful man in Colorado, only he was on the side of the law instead of the villains. He turned the bodies ever and looked at their faces with no more qualms of conscience than if he had killed a fly. He seemed to know two of them and said they were beginners, as he had suspected from the first. He returned us our property, and we all got into the coach and drove on. "Until we reached the next town the

Trial Electric Lighting,

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their and the robber fell on his face. In homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition. To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric

> This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary. Per order of Directors,

Malden Bank Watchman Has a

Rather Unpleasant Experience Malden, Mass., March 26.-James E. Derry, a special policeman, and custodian of both the Malden National and Savings banks, was brutally beaten and left unconscious last night by three yeggmen after he attempted to take them into custody on suspicion of being about to rob the bank.

The officer was making his rounds in the bank shortly after 11 o'clock, when on passing a window looking into Main street he saw the shadow of three forms erouching outside. Suspicious, Derry noiselessly unlocked the back door and gliding swiftly to the front, confronted the men and seized the nearest one for the purpose of bringing him to head-

Scarcely had the officer slipped the handcuffs on his man when the others jumped on him and then gave Derry such a beating that his head was cut open, both eyes blackened and his nose fractured. They left him for dead, and as he lay unconscious on the sidewalk the men quickly removed the bracelet from their companion and all quickly fled from the scene.

Ten minutes later a police officer while making his rounds discovered the officer in the street. Derry was quickly removed to the station and the city physician dressed his wounds. A general alarm was then sent out for the purpose of apprehending the trio, who are believed to be yeggmen, who came to Malden for the purpose of burglariz-

Labor Condemns Bay State Senators

Boston, March 26 .- The action of the state senate in killing the so-called overtime bill, a measure which would have prevented women and minors from working in manufacturing establishments between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m., was severely condemned at a meeting of 28 unions of the Building Trades council of the state last night. The senate passed the bill on Thursday, after it had received favorable action by the house, but on Friday reconsideration prevailed and the bill was killed. Four senators who voted for the bill on Thursday and were absent from their seats on Friday were particularly mentioned at the meeting of the council

Preacher Favors Death Penalty

Boston, March 26 .- "Capital punishment in the case of murder is not only just but desirable, expedient and effiacious, so far as man-made laws may be made so," said Rev. Charles A. Crane at the People's temple last night. his topic being: "Shall Tucker Escape the Penalty of the Law?" Shot Woman and Killed Self

Dover, Me., March 26 .- Angered because he found two men visiting his housekeeper, Mrs. Clara Hubbard, when he returned home, Thomas J. Dorr, a farmhand, shot the woman and then committed suicide. The woman has a flesh wound in the neck, which is not considered serious. Dorr was 40 years old and unmarried. Mrs. Hubbard has been acting as his housekeeper, but Dorr has been er on a farm in Greenville, making only occasional visits here. Wesley Chick Gets Life Term

South Paris, Me., March 26 .- Wesley Chick was brought before the court for sentence for killing his great-uncle, David Varney, at Porter. On being asked by Judge Spear if he had anything to say before sentence was imposed, he rose and said: "All I have to say is that I am not guilty of this crime." The clerk then read to him the sentence of imprisonment in the state prison at Thomaston for the term of his natural life, which Chick took without emotion. Denies Violation of Law

Boston, March 26 .- President Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, in an address to the Boston Art club and guests, replied to some of the charges of alleged discrimination which have been made against his company. He denied that either the railroad or he himself had engaged in any business in violation of the law. He added that there had been no violations of the law on the railroad during his administration.

Mother and Child Drowned

Hartford, March 26 .- Mrs. Robert Horner and her 12-year-old daughter, Helen L., were drowned in the north branch of Park river, which runs past the rear of the Horner home. The girl had started across the ice-covered stream when the ice gave way beneath her. Hearing her screams as she sank, the mother rushed from the house and started across the ice. She also broke through and both were drowned.

Coal Mountain of 150,000 Tons Boston, March 26 .- A veritable mountain of coal is now in course of development on the part of Mystic wharf that lies west of the Chelsea bridge. Already 150,000 tons have been heaped together and hourly the great mass rises higher. This supply is on account of the Boston and Maine railroad, which has, in anticipation of a strike, a reserve of 500,000 tons.

LASH FOR ELKINS

Senator Accused of Catering to Corporate Power

A LETTER FROM CUMMINS

Says Railway Rate Investigation Was Not Conducted Fairly and Questions Elkins' Fidelity to the People of the Country

Des Moines, Ia., March 26.-Governor Cummins has mailed to Senator Elkins of West Virginia a reply to the senator's letter in which he criticised statements made by the governor in speeches to the voters of Iowa regarding his examination before the senate committee on interstate commerce, when it had under consideration the railway rate bill.

The governor says that the senator accuses him of falsehood in declaring that his cross-examination was hostile that an attorney of the railway companies sat at the right of Elkins during the examination; that Elkins appeared to be in communication and sympathy with the attorney, and that the attorney handed to Elkins questions to be asked the governor.

"If," says the governor, in his letter to the senator, "you understand your duties and obligations as chairman of a legislative committee to be similar to those of an advocate, I have no criticism to make of your conduct, except to say that you were on the side of the railways instead of the side of the people. I have thought, however, that as chairman of such a committee your duties and obligations were more nearly like those of a judge; namely, to hear both sides patiently, without bias or prejudice, and then to decide im- 653 Washington St., corner South St. partially without fear or favor.

"You heard patiently, but it was clearly apparent in your cross-examination that you had decided the case in favor of the railroads and were de termined to shatter my evidence if you could. The cross-examination shows conclusively that you had made up your mind that the proposed authority ought not to be given to the interstate commerce commission, and that the power sought to be given was unnecessary, dangerous, and filled with disas ter to commerce. It was from begin ning to end just such a cross-examina tion as an attorney for the railroad companies would have conducted, and it was unseemly for you to assume that to Secure Blendin's Pardon Boston, March 26 .- Attorney J. B. D. Jacques, who represented Wilfred Blondin at tue latter's trial for the murder of his wife four years ago, will make another effort for a pardon for the condemned man. The body of Mrs. Blondin was discovered in a trunk in a house in this city. Blondin disappeared about the time the body was found and was not arrested until more than two years later. At first it was thought that Blondin committed the erime at Chelmsford, and shipped the body in a trunk to this city. Later it was decided that the crime was committed in this city and Blondin was tried under an indictment returned by a Suffolk county grand jury. He was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to life imprison-

Mr. Jacques states that he intends to file a petition with the Middlesex superior court, asking that the indictment against Blondin alleging murder at Chelmsford, which indictment is still outstanding, be declared void, and that later he will ask the governor for a pardon for his client on the ground that new evidence had been discovered relating to the ownership of the trunk the new claim being that it belonged to another person. The effort to have the Middlesex county indictment de clared void is because no pardon can be granted where there is still an indictment outstanding.

THE DEAD SEA.

Work of the Salt Divers In This Des-

The awful desolation of the Dead sea, which lies nearly 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, is browhose work is probably as ancient as

From remotest antiquity the salt of the Dead sea has been collected and taken to the Jerusalem market, where it is used for curing hides and for domestic purposes. Dead sea water contains over 25 per cent of solid substances, of which 7 per cent is chloride of sodium, or common salt. The Dead sea contains no living creature. Sea fish put into its waters speedily die. Not a single boat navigates its strange waters, nor is there any sign of life, save the isolated parties of salt divers, who scrape and slowly amass their glistening heaps of crystal near the mouth of the Jordan.

When a sufficient cargo is made ready a long string of camels crosses the desert, and the salt is loaded up into panniers, or "shwerries," and takea into Jerusalem, where it finds a ready market.

Salt, as is well known, has been used as currency from time immemorial, just as bricks of tea are used today in central Asia, especially in the borderland of China and Siberia.-Technical World Magazine.

ARTIFICIAL BALDNESS.

The Ancient and Strange Custom of Shaving the Head. A historical inquiry into the origin which is practiced in several countries, agreement to expire May 1. would be interesting. It was not until the fifth century that STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } in Europe priests began to shave their crowns. The Roman clergy then adopted the circular method and shaved that small round spot on the top of shaved the whole of the fore part of CATARRH CURE. the head from ear to ear. In the Andaman islands every man shaves his head, or, rather, gets his wife to shave it for him. Many other orientals also get baldheaded. As for the Chinaman, his method of shaving is exactly opposed to that of the Roman monk. He shaves all but a round patch, the hair of which grows long and forms the pigtail. When the difficulty of shaving the head is borne in mind the true strangeness of the custom becomes doubly apparent. It is hard to see the advantage of it, yet in one form or another and at one time or other it has been practiced in nearly every country.

Cruel Elephant Hunters. A correspondent of the London Times writes of elephant hunting in Africa: "The most deadly method of killing elephants, and that most frequently employed by the natives of east Africa, is the pit, sufficiently deep-roughly twenty feet-long and wide to engulf and hold an elephant. After a period of frantic struggling, hunger and exhaustion the wretched animal is done to death by native spears. If the size and powers of the animal are remembered it is difficult to imagine a more revolting, brutal picture of torture, but this is the common practice of the natives of the country and is being enacted daily throughout British territory.

Unlucky. There is an ancient jest in Paris which originated with a waiter. A guest had ordered a dozen oysters. "Only one dozen?" asked the waiter,

"Yes, that will be enough." "You are not superstitious, then," said the waiter with a curious smile. "Why?" "Because you are not afraid of being

On the report of our committee on water rates, recommending a meter system we find but little opposition. One of those persons, we learn, is using several hundred dollars worth of water per year for which he pays $27;

On the matter of water used by the city we should like to see the Ledger's itemized account and learn how they get it down to $15,000.00. 700 hydrants at $35.00 each would amount to $22,-500.00. Add to this public buildings, street sprinking, etc., and we are quite sure it would quite reach $30,000.00 per year. All this as well as the water debt the consumers under the present system and not the general public are

Misunderstanding With Postoffice Official Caused Officer to Lose His Prey After Having Prosecuted a Long Search

Boston, March 27.-Leveling a revolver at the head of his captor, United States Marshal Burns, Stephen A. B. Puter of San Francisco, known here as John H. Brownell, who is wanted by the government as a witness in the socalled Oregon land fraud cases and by the state of Oregon on a charge of forging school certificates amounting to $70,000, was able to back off into a crowd on one of the busiest corners of the Back Bay section of the city last

According to Burns, the government and the state of Oregon have been searching for Puter for several months. At the time of the developments in the man named McKinley were implicated. but by confessing to the United States authorities they were able to escape trial, with the understanding that their

Puter, after his release on bail as a witness by the government, went into he brokerage business and last summer it was discovered that Oregon chool land certificates amounting to $70,000 had been forged and placed on he market. Puter disappeared, and the Oregon authorities at once began a search for him, and about the same presence was necessary in the land fraud cases. He was located in Berkley, Cal., but becoming aware of the search, came east and took up his The United States authorities in

Puter was located in a house in the also found that Puter was in the habit ated on a populous corner and getting letters under the name of John H.

Burns decided to wait for him and He recognized the officer as the latter stepped out and asked him to go into the private office of the postoffice Puter complied at once and the two seated themselves, while Postoffice Superintendent Swift went out, as Burns thought, for two policemen. They waited nearly half an hour for Swift and when he turned up he tapped on the window, remarking as he did so, was a hint that the policemen were out side the door, so he told Puter that he was under arrest, and made a hurried search for a weapon of any kind. None was discovered, so the officer and his prisoner stepped out on the sidewalk. Burns found himself alone with a man who was rapidly becoming desperate.

Washington at once, but Burns replied go in the morning. Then Puter asked in the face of the officer. "I'll,kill you, dare to move.' The crowd about the two men was quite dense, as it was a street car transfer point and homebound people were rushing about for their transfer slips. The crowd fell away rapidly at the appearance of the revolver, but Burns jumped at Puter and pushed up his hand. Puter struggled and succeeded in pointing the muzzle of the revolver at Burns' breast for a second In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their time. Again the officer closed with his assembled at station 16, only 100 yards away, for the evening rollcall Puter in the second bout was able to marshal and then gradually backed away from him with the revolver still pointed at Burns, who did not dare to draw his own weapon for fear that the gun play would result fatally to the crowd. Puter was about a dozen yards off when he turned and darted down the street, followed by the excited crowd and the officer. He soon disappeared, however, and Burns, after a fruitless chase for some distance, re turned and reported his loss to the local

GOVERNOR TO ACT

Guild May Send a Special Message on Overtime Measure

Boston, March 27.-Governor Guild has promised the Fall River and New Bedford legislative delegation that he sending a special message to the legissenate on Friday, which forbade women and minors working in factories at night, be revived. The senate on Thursday favored the bill, which had previously passed the house, but on Friday, with four senabill absent, a reconsideration was obtained and the bill killed. This action $8,180.00 aroused great indignation among the labor leaders throughout the state as well as nearly all the members from $4,000.00 the textile centres.

The action of the senate, however, was a bar to further proceedings toward reviving the measure, so the ap peal was made to the governor, who de clares that he will have to consult with the attorney general before he acts as to whether even a message will be sufficient to bring the measure to life again.

Two years ago a similar bill passed $21,611.00 both branches of the legislature, but was vetoed by Governor Bates, who was defeated the following autumn by William L. Douglas, the Democratic candidate.

On Abutters' Bill in Reply To Representative Edward J. Sandberg

Editors Daily Ledger:

In justice to the temperance interests of the State, and as one who for many years has been active in the preservation of the restrictive features of the liquor laws, I cannot let a statement in the letter of Mr. Edward J. Sandberg in your columns of yesterday go unchallenged. This gentleman has told your readers that the "Abutters' Bill" was "not introduced by liquor men or liquor interests." The following is sufficient proof that Mr. Sandberg is in error on this point. The title page of House Bill No. 1060 reads:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts. House of Representatives, Mar. 15, 1906. The Committee on Liquor Law, to whom were referred the petition (with accompanying bill, House No. 14,) of Edward F. Hollis for the amendment or repeal of the law authorizing objections by owners of real estate to granting licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and the petition (with accompanying bill, House No. 40) of the Grand Lodge, Massachusetts Liquor League, for legislation relative to the objections of owners of real estate to the granting of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, report the aecom-

The Magazines.

In the April number of the New England Magazine there is a story how a city has grown from a little town and what bigger ventures she has yet. Miss Kate Sanborn, with the ability for which she is famous, presents in the first of a series of chatty articles, 'Books as I see them." A Literary Conundrum and another capable and bookish article follow. Making maple sugar in the old way and the new by Harry A. Packard, and the story of Vermont's Revolutionary Heroine by Helen Vanderheyden are the contributions of the Green Mountain State. A splendidly illustrated article on, The Trail of the Mormon, by the expert artist and writer, Clifton Johnson, leads in the number.

The whole story of the coal trust, its origin, history and present power, is told for the first time in two notable articles by Hartley Davis on "The Coal Trust, the Labor Trust, and the People Who Pay." Free Trial Electric Lighting,

In order that our citizens who never have had electric lights in their homes or stores may become acquainted with the many advantages of their use, the Quincy Electric Light & Power Company makes this proposition.

To all who make application before April 30th, 1906, and who will spend $20 or more for wiring and installing wires for at least five outlets, the Company will furnish by meter at regular rates, $20 worth of electric current free of charge.

This concession will go far toward paying the entire cost of wiring. For obvious reasons the Company confines this offer to those whose premises are so situated that building new lines or setting new poles will not be necessary.

Quantity of Arsenic Sufficient to Louise Coles of Faxon road. Cause Death Found in His Stomach .- A Case Which Has Stirred Vermont Towns

Barre, Vt., March 28 .- The investigation of the death of Fred Batchelder by poison in this city on March 16 culminated in the arrest of Raymond Mullen of Montreal, a professional nurse, on the charge of murder. The action of the authorities was unexpected by the public and caused something of a sensation in Barre, Montpelier and vicinity. Mullen, who was locked up in the Washington county jail at Montpelier last night, will be given a hearing later. REPAIR OLD IRONSIDES

Congressional Committee Favors $100,000 For That Purpose

Washington, March 28 .- The house committee on naval affairs decided to report an item of $100,000 in the bill for the repair of the old ship Constitution. The idea is that with this amount, while the ship cannot be rebuilt, it can be placed in shape to be anchored at some navy yard to be designated, convenient for inspection by the public, the same as is now the case with Nelson's old flagship Victory at the Portsmouth navy yard.

The building program for new ships in the navy is as follows: One battle ship, to cost, exclusive of armor and armament, $6,000,000, the ship to be of author of a book on politics recently the largest type, the tonnage to be determined by the secretary of the navy; three torpedo boat destroyers, to cost $750,000 each, and $1,000,000 to be expended by the secretary of the navy for submarine boats in his discretion. A FRESH POLICE SCHEME

Conference at Morocco

Its Practicability Agreed Upon by French and German Delegates, Who Are Certain of Their Governments' Sanction

Algeciras, March 28.-Ambassador

White and the rest of the American delegation to the conference on Moroccan reforms are being showered with compliments for what is regarded as their sagacious intervention, which has assured a solution of the last remaining serious difficulty of the conference and a final settlement of one of the most delicrate and complicated the most delicrate and complicated G. Gay, will be happy to answer inquiries. questions brought before the confernce for decision.

Austria's police proposal left the German and French delegates still occupying a totally opposed standpoint relative to police inspection. Mr White, seeing the danger of disagree ment, took the initiative in an attempt to save the situation. He and his colleagues drew up a fresh scheme, laying down the proposition that an inspector shall report simultaneously to both the sultan and the diplomatic corps at Tangier, the latter having authority to order inquiries into the working of the Franco-Spanish police scheme, thus guaranteeing the carrying out of the conference's decision and safeguarding foreign interests and commercial transactions. The diplomatic corps, after informing the sultan, may also at any time order the inspector to inquire and report should any interested government present a complaint.

Before presenting this plan to the committee White approached the principal delegates. The British, Italian and Russian delegates unhesitatingly approved the proposal and promised it their full support. White then conferred successively with the French and German delegates, who agreed to the practicability of the idea and consented to submit the scheme to their respective governments, whose concurrence they consider to be virtually cer-

In the meantime the committee incorporated the scheme in their proposition for presentation to the full con ference, which later adopted it pro visionally, while awaiting the French government's ratification, which the delegates do not doubt will be accorded. The effect on the conference of the acceptance of the American suggestion was immediately noticeable. A change came over the hitherto strictly diplomatic relations of the French and German delegates and they were photographed together on the hotel veranda. One of the neutral delegates present at the moment remarked: "That photograph constitutes the first signature of accord." The successful action of the American delegates has made certain the speedy end of the labors of the conference. No one now foresees the slight est obstacle to final accord. The allotment of ports is not expected to cause trouble. The Russian delegates are preparing a proposition regarding this matter which, it is believed, will be acceptable. The bank question also is capable of easy arrangement. The conference has decided to hold its next plenary sitting tomorrow. In the interim the committee will meet several times in the endeavor to con clude the settlement of details this week. INDICTMENT STANDS

Blondin's Counsel Blocked In Effort to Secure a Pardon

Cambridge, Mass., March 28 .- Judge Lawton of the criminal branch of the superior court declined to quash an in dictment of the Middlesex county grand jury returned in 1902 against J. W Blondin for murder. The court added that it was the prerogative of the district attorney to act in the matter.

Blondin, who is now serving a sen ence of life imprisonment for the murder of his wife in Boston some years ago, was originally indicted by a Middlesex county grand jury when it was believed that the crime had been committed in Chelmsford, where his wife's body was found. Later, when it was learned that Blondin had killed his wife in Boston, an indictment was returned against him for the murder by the Suffolk county grand jury. Under this indictment the prisoner was tried and convicted.

The motion to have the original in dictment nol prossed was made by counsel for Blondin as the first step in proceedings seeking to secure a pardon for his client.

Charred Body on Steamer Newport, R. I., March 28 .- When fire fighters crept over the still sizzling hot steel deck of the burned steamer Plymouth of the Fall River line, which, together with nearby docks, was de stroyed while undergoing repairs, they found the charred remains of Lu cienne Lamathe, who was a fireman on board the steamer. Nothing remains of the steamer but the towering smoke stack with bent and twisted engines at its base, and the steel hull. The damage will reach at least $1,000,000. Besides the steamer, the freighter City of Lowell was badly burned on onside. Along the wharves a long pier shed, the hoisting shears, the paint shop and an old railroad station were totally

Did Not Substantiate Charges Lowell, Mass., March 28.-Rev. E. V. Bigelow, who recently preached two sermons in a Congregational church that reflected upon the enforcement of the liquor laws of the city, appeared before the police board last night upon its invitation to substantiate his charges. After a half-hour's discussion with Chairman Dow, the clergyman declined to submit any of his evidence saying that he had a better way to aid the board of police.

eighteen dollars exclusive of sill cock. The fixtures quoted above are the ones in use ordinarily in a single dwelling house. Each additional fixture of the same nature as those quoted above has a lower rate, but the total sum for the fixtures shall not exceed eighteen dollars. Thus a person may have five or six extra closets, basins, or other fixtures in a single dwelling house without an additional cost for water. It is a matter of convenience to have more than one closet or bowl in the house, and perhaps two closets would use no more water than one as the single closet would have to be used twice as often, but the fact always remains, that with each additional faucet, tank valve, or ball cock, the opportunity for leaks is increased just so many more

Now the person with a meter in his house is generally on the look-out for these leaks and has them repaired as soon as they appear, while the person whose water is not metered allows the water to run to waste without any regard of the cost to the city. He seems to think that because he has paid the sum of eighteen dollars he may use or waste all the water he pleases. We frequently have cases of repair work where faucets and ball cocks have been allowed to

All the water passing through a house drain into the Quincy sewers Report must necessarily be pumped or elevated from the receiving chamber of the Quincy Sewer pumping station (to In Full which it runs by gravity) into the South Metropolitan Sewer. Quincy must pay its proportionate part for the quantity of sewage handled or delivered into the South Metropolitan Sewer, Thus if these thousands of gallons of waste water is decreased a saving will result in the cost of maintaining the pumping station at Quincy, besides the saving on the waste water which would result with a system of The editor further makes a statement

There are indiinefficiency, he adds, among consuls in various parts of the world.

While he criticises the employment of English consuls at some places and the age of some American consuls, his severe criticism is reserved for ex-Consul General Goodnow at Shanghal, ex- Office, Penn Street. Consul General McWade at Canton, Consul Williams at Singapore

The charges against McWade are issuance of fraudulent Chinese certificates, extending protection to China men who claimed to be American citizens, persecution of American citizens for purposes of revenge and notorious corruption in office.

The charges against Goodnow are 82 in number, some serious and some slight. Some are sufficient to support suits at law and give evidence of corruption in office.

The report states that Consul General Wileox, at Hankau, "cannot be said to be a useful consular officer." Regarding Consul Greener at Vladi vostok, the report says: "Everywhere throughout the East I received unfavorable reports of Mr. Greener. His habits are said to be extremely bad." Other complaints of him are that he has faults relative to his accounts. As to Oscar F. Williams, Peirce says that in his two previous posts his record has not been unblemished.

Confessed Using Dynamite

New York, March 29 .- The police found 60 pounds of dynamite buried in a field just outside Jersey City upor information furnished by Charles Moran, an ironworker, who confessed to having attempted to dynamite severa buildings being erected in this city by Post & McCord, against whom a strik is in progress. Moran said he and two confederates stole 100 pounds of dyna mite, used 40 pounds of the explosive and stored the rest in a field near Jer sey City, where it was found.

The Masonic Temple was a five-story building occupied on the ground floor by business firms and on the floors above by offices and lodging rooms. At 1:30 this morning Police Captain Stevens discovered fire in the hardware store of C. L. Jenniss. He immediately turned in an alarm and then rushed into the building to warn the lodgers.

The fire gained headway rapidly and before the work of the firemen became effective it had enveloped the whole building and was threatening to spread to the buildings on either side and across the street. This, however, was prevented and the fire was confined to the temple, which was reduced to a

STAND OF MINERS

Will Insist Upon Advance In Wages at This Time

ARGUMENT OF MITCHELL

American Peop'e Will Ask Why Operators Advance Price of Coal and Cannot Advance the Wages of Employes

Indianapolis, March 29 .- The joint conference of the coal miners and operators of the central competitive district adjourned yesterday until this afternoon, with no apparent settlement of their wage differences in prospect.

A motion to continue the present scale for two years made by the operators was defeated by the solid vote of the miners. An amendment to President Mitchell's motion to restore the scale of 1903, offered by F. L. Robbins of the Pennsylvania operators, to make the restored schedule effective for two years was accepted by Mitchell, sub ject to ratification by the national min ers' convention, which will consider the question today.

This was the only action taken during Wednesday. The rest was argument, during the course of which great earnestness on the part of the miners and both factions of the operators was shown. Mitchell charged that many coal companies are owned by railroads and the profit on coal is not indicated much of it is absorbed by the rail roads. He announced that the miners would continue in the future to ask for more wages if the market justified, and stated positively that the miners would adhere to their demands for an increase at this time

Answering the arguments made during the day against an advance, Mitchell closed the debate for the afternoon with the following statement: "The miners, so far as we are concerned, it case of a strike, will have no riots and no bloodshed. We may, if a prolonged strike takes place, have hunger and we may wear poorer clothes. We may endure greater hardships, but the miners are just as law-abiding and just as patriotic as are the gentlemen on your

R. R. Hammond of the Illinois operators said that the operators' profits were not such as to warrant a further increase and added: "I say frankly that if you cannot convince me by argu ments you cannot convince me by force. I will close my mines forever, rather than be forced to anything against my judgment."

President Mitchell replied: "If Mr. Hammond wants to close his coal mines forever, he will find us waiting when he wants to open them again. This was loudly applauded by the min "The American people," said Mitch ell, are going to ask and insist upon knowing why the operators cannot pay an advance of 3 cents a ton. And we are going to ask you why you can now charge the American people an advance f $1 a ton and not be able to pay us ar dvance of 3 cents a ton." Mr. Robbins, in his offer to pay the advance, called the attention of the other operators to the fact that they had made no concessions. He said: "We have been able heretofore to come together and settle our own affairs without arbitration and without appealing to anyone else. So far as I am con cerned, I want to continue upon that basis. While we have established a two-year proposition that worked against us during the past two years, i is a right principle. The country should not be stirred up and we should not come here under restrictions, as many operators having provided for the strike have done. It is absolutely true that the prices do not justify an adon that proposition, but I do believe we face this crisis.

"With the shutting down of the mines in this country there will be a great industrial suspension that is going to bring infinite misery into the homes of millions of people and cause a setback to national prosperity that now exists. I submit that from a business proposition. The saving of the immense strain and strife, cost in money, blood, hunger, everyone who has been through strikes knows." Robbins closed with an appeal to the miners to sign the scale by districts wherever the ad vance was offered.

SIX DEAD BODIES

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Four of the Victims Terribly Slashed With Knives, While Two Had Throats Cut-- No Evidence of Motive For the Deed Minneapolis, March 29 .- Six murdered Bulgarian laborers were found in an old house at 234 Tenth avenue and the police are uncertain as to how or when the murders were committed, although the evidence indicates that the men were killed during a fight among 12 Bulgarians who had rented the

The police are convinced that robbery vas not the motive of the murders, as considerable money was found on the bodies. They also scout the idea of any ecret society with motives of revenge. Four of the bodies, horribly cut and slashed with knives, were found in a coom on the second floor, while in the ellar were two others with their throats cut. Near the bodies were ound five large bowie knives and a hatchet. All of the men were comparatively young. Their names were secured from letters in sacks and satchels found in the room where the four bodies lay.

J. Kicklenberg, a drayman, says that last Monday afternoon six men asked him to take six packages from the house at 245 Tenth avenue to the Union station. On arriving at the house he found there 12 packages, and, after some haggling about the price, he took them to the station. A young man rode on the wagon with him and the other five men walked. The man who rode said the party was going to Du-At the station the men were joined by several other men, a woman and a little girl. From this statement the police believe that the murders e Pope's Hill. were committed some time between midnight Sunday and Monday morn-S. Magnuson, owner of the house, says that an Italian rented part of the ouse four months ago to be used to house 12 railroad laborers, of whom he was foreman. The 12 men moved into the house and lived quietly, working every day. The men lived, slept and ate their meals in the rooms on the second floor. The Italian foreman was never seen again by Magnuson. An old German who occupied the first floor of the house told Magnuson yesterday that a fight had occurred n the upper rooms Sunday night. The German said he had paid little attention to the fight until he noticed that the occupants of the second floor had gone. After informing Magnuson of he fight the German disappeared. Magnuson informed the police, who broke into the Bulgarians' lodgings. The two bodies in the basement, acdead nearly two days. The bodies in he upper rooms appeared to have been 11.47 P.M. Return

The bodies found upstairs were slashed all over, especially about the 11.07 and 11.37 P.M. faces and throats. One man had fallen against a hot stove and the right side this man lay the bloody hatchet. Near noney-belts containing $506 in gold. On one of the bodies was found a watch that was still running. Some of the bodies had been stripped.

Aside from the foregoing facts the colice have no information on which and 59 minutes past each hour until and includto work, although many unverified runors are under investigation. In two satchels found in the house was a regalia, consisting of caps, robes until and including 11.22 P. M., then 11.37. and kerchiefs, containing characters and emblems which, it is thought, may have belonged to an order of the Greek church. There were also several religious emblems and a biscuit with emblems on one side and a picture of a saint on the other. There were two sets of linen robes and caps on which sacred pictures were crudely printed.

Great Dam and Bridge Gone Casper, Wyo., March 29.-The great dam at Alcova, erected at a cost of $100,000 by the government reclamation service, was washed away by a flood in the North Platte river. The steel bridge, built by the government six miles below the dam at Pathfinder, was also carried away. Cabins, barns and property of all descriptions are floating down in the swollen stream.

Milkmen In a Deadlock

Boston, March 29 .- A deadlock apparently exists between the milk contractors and the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' organization. There is no prospect of an agreement being reached and, although the old agreement expires on April 1, it is not anticipated there will be any serious falling off in the milk supply at this time.

Adams Buried "Heil Fire" Pocatello, Ida., March 29.-Search for explosives which Steve Adams, now held in connection with the assassination of former Governor Steunen-

ber, 1903, resulted in the finding of four of the five bottles of "hell fire" last evening. Fishing Boat Struck Mine

Tokio, March 29 .- A fishing boat struck a floating mine off the coast of the province of Echizen, Japan, and *11.20, *11.50 and 11.50 P. M. (Wednesdays and was blown up. Seven of her crew of Saturdays only.) 10 men are missing.

New Battleship Of Greatest Power and Efficiency

Here is a good contract for Quincy. The Washington correspondent of the Transcript says the House Committee on Naval Affairs agreed Tuesday to authorize the construction of a battleship of the "greatest power and efficency," not to exceed $10,000,000 in cost, and without restriction of displacement, armament protection or peed. Under the provisions adopted the Secretary of the Navy is directed to ecure plans from the board of contructors of the navy and also from the shipbuilding concerns for the proposed eviathan, the tonnage of which is to e determined by him.

Exclusive of armor and armament, he amount specified for the ship is $6,000,000. This is $1,600,000 more for the construction of the hull and machinery of a battleship than has ever been authorized in the American navy, the largest ship having cost $4,400,000. Authority for shipbuilding ncerns to compete in submitting deigns is given to enable the best posible type to be selected.

It is probable the experts will design 20,000-ton battleship, although there are those in the service who believe that advantages of fighting efficiency would be gained by a ship of slightly smaller dimensions, so long as it was capable of carrying 12-inch guns to the number of ten or twelve and to the exclusion of all other ordnance, excepting omething in the way of minor armament to repel torpedo attack and the ssault of the torpedo boats, surface and submarine.

The latter has come to take a promient place in the calculations of the strategists, and the provisions by Congress of enough funds to build four more of the latest, or Octopus, type is eartily approved in the service. The new battleship will be specially deigned, on the other hand, to ward off ne sort of an attack which is destined o come from this subtle enemy in the dark, a condition which will be accomplished by placing the vitals of the ship in such a position as will be the least pen to successful penetration.

The entire building program for the navy for a year was agreed upon Tuesday. Three torpedo boat destroyers, to Division 253 of street railway men of cost $750,000, are authorized; $1,000,000 at the United Presbyterian church on Quincy, of which William J. Walsh is is to be expended by the Secretary of the bill for armored cruisers.

show window at the City Square coal which would have continued to leak inoffice of C. Patch & Son was weighed definitely if it had not been brought to Wednesday, to determine who should the owner's notice forcibly by the fact receive the three and one-half tons of that it was costing bim over $65.00 for one month's supply, which would have been sufficient for almost the whole year. What is true of this case is true of hundreds of others, where water is were secured, also an official weigher, a allowed to carelessly run to waste on unmetered services.

Mr. Editor, do you realize that the greatest waste of water does not occur in the summer when people are using large quantities of water for their lawns, but generally in the winter when people on unmetered services allow it to run to waste to prevent the pipes from freezing? If these same people had to pay by meter they would take suitable precautions to prevent their pipes from freezing without wasting water.

In proportioning a meter rate it should be arranged so it will inflict no hardship on the consumer. Say a minimum rate of twelve dollars for 40,000 gallons, which is in the same proportion as the former rate of $18.00 for 60,000 gallons.

Due consideration should be given the person with only one faucet in the house, as he now pays six dollars it would not be fair to jump the rate from six to twelve, fourteen or eighteen dollars for a minimum rate. It should be arranged so the single faucet taker would be allowed an ample amount of water, say 20,000 or 30,000 gallons of water for a minimum rate of from eight to nine dollars. Or make the minimum meter rate $6.00 as now charged for the first faucet with an allowance of 20,000 gallons which is the approximate allowance at the present time for a single

That a surprisingly large amount of water will rnn to waste through a very small leak or opening is shown by the following: At the pressure of the Quincy Water System which averages about eighty pounds per square inch, a stream 1-32 of an inch in diameter will discharge 390 gallons, and one 1-8 inch in diameter will discharge 6,220 gallons and one 1-2 inch in diameter 99,591 gallons of water in twenty four hours. Until every water service in the city is furnished with a meter, it will be impossible to tell correctly what the House. loss from leaking mains amount to, as this can only be determined by subtracting the total amount registered on the service meters from the total or original amount of water delivered to the city. While there is no doubt that leaks exist, and always will in the water mains, it is not of so serious a cature as you represent. If it was, the effect of the same would be more apparent.

It only goes to show that the consumption in Quincy is infinitesimal when placed beside the consumption of the district, or even of Boston with its population of 600,000 at night, and over a million during the day.

The contention of the Daily Ledger is this, that the method of determining the Metropolitan assessment is not an equitable one, and, that the burden upon Quincy is much heavier than it should be, while the rich towns are favored.

Taxation should be upon valuation, and the first cost of the Metropolitan water system should be upon the valuation of the cities. It may be equitable to assess the cost of maintenance upon a consumption basis, but not so the first

Last year, according to the Metropolitan figures above, the sinking fund and interest requirements upon the first cost of the water system were $1,848,-962,23. All of this should have been assessed upon valuation, but the facts are that only one-third, or $616,320.75, were so assessed, while $1,232,641.48 were assessed upon consumption.

The other item of $328,624.16 for maintenance is all that should have been assessed upon consumption. NEW CRISIS VER AFRICA

Natal Ministry Resents Lo don

G vermment's Interference London, March 30 .- The new government is finding continual trouble in its dealings with South Africa. By interfering to delay the execution of 12 natives convicted of having been concerned in the ambush and murder of policemen in the recent native rising in Natal, which has been attributed to the Ethiopian movement, the imperial authorities have evoked an admittedly grave and delicate crisis which will require the most careful handling.

Dispatches from the South African colonies show that the colonists are boiling with indignation and are calling meetings to protest against a procedure which they regard as calculated to endanger the safety of the whole white population. The conservative papers are loud in denunciation of the government's action.

Premier Wouldn't Obey Orders Pietermaritzburg, March 30 .- The ministry, headed by Charles J. Smythe, had confirmed the death sentence imposed on 12 natives who took part in the murder of policemen during the recent uprising in this colony. Winston Churchill, under secretary of state for the colonies, cabled to Premier Smythe ordering a suspension of the executions pending the home government's consideration of the sentences. The premier curtly refused to do so, whereupon Governor McCullum, under letters patent, postponed the executions. Thereupon the ministry immediately resigned.

The murder of the policemen was an incident in the rising of some of the native tribes at the beginning of this year in resistance to the payment of taxes. Several officials were attacked and killed and the disorder became so threatening that troops had to be em-

Bold Attempt to Rob Bank

Kharkoff, March 30 .- An attempt was made in broad daylight to rob the Volga Komma bank by several college boys and technological students, who quietly walked into the bank, drew revolvers and ordered everybody to hold up their hands. A clerk attracted the attention of guards outside, who immediately barred the entrances to the bank. The students, finding themselves trapped, smashed the windows and jumped out to the street. One policeman was mortally wounded. Four of the would-be robbers were captured.

university, has placed his resignation n the hands of the board of governors. Ill-health is assigned as the reason for the resignation. Trotter recently received notice that Andrew Carnegie had agreed to give a large sum for the erection of a building at the university.

Telegraphers' Wages Raised

Wilmington, N. C., March 30 .- Satisfactory conferences between the telegraphers and agent telegraphers of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway company were completed here, as the result of which new rules and regulations and a new wage scale were agreed upon, affecting 900 men. The increase in the wage scale is about 8 percent.

A my Dasarter Caught Connellsville, Pa., March 30 .-George Lewis, 29 years old, was arrested here as a deserter from troop A. Fifteenth regiment, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. Papers in his pocket showed he had enlisted in February, 1904, at Boston. He acknowledged that he had deserted.

A Veritable Deluge

Shreveport, La., March 30 .- Rain has fallen continuously for three days in central and northern Louisiana. The entire town of Colfax is inundated, the water standing several feet deep in the business portion. All the lowlands in the vicinity of Ruston are overflowed. Rain is still falling.

MEANS A GREAT STRIKE

Number of Men to Go Out In Soft Cord Fields May Reach 384,500 - Anthracite Mini g to Be Suspended on April 3

Indianapolis, March 30 .- Without agreement on a wage scale, the joint conference of bituminous coal operators and miners of the central competitive district adjourned sine die, leaving affairs in such a condition that a strike of from 178,000) to 384,500 soft coal miners, besides 150,000 anthracite miners ordered out, seems inevitable on April 1, the present wage scale expiring on March 31. The mines directly affected are in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and western Pennsylvania.

Miners and operators of the southwestern district, comprising Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, have decided to report a disagreement hoday.

Iowa miners have a greed with the operators to suspend work for 60 days. Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky miners, it is said, will follow the lead of the central district.

The anthracite miners' scale committee last night issued orders for a total suspension of mining in the three anthracite districts beginning April 2. The committee informed President Baer that the miners' scale committee will meet the operators' scale commit tee in New York city on April 3.

isted since 1898 between operators and miners, through which wage scales and other differences have been adjusted.

The final vote in the conference of President Mitchell of the mine workers to restore for two years the wage scale of 1903, which would have been an increase in wages of 5.55 percent. Pennsylvania and the miners of the four states voted for the proposal.

F. L. Robbins and other operators, representing about one-third of the coal production of western Pennsylvania Ohlo, Indiana and Illinois, offered to pay the advance and urged the miners to accept this advance and continue work in their mines, even though the other mines in the four states should be idle. The convention of miners today will decide whether to permit this or to demand that all miners suspend work until all have been paid the ad-

The coal operators of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and those of western Pennsylvania, who have opposed the payment of any increase in wages to the bituminous coal miners, adopted resolutions declaring that, as they have felt and still feel unable to pay any advance in wages at this time, "do hereby propose that the President of in the judgment of such commission have an important bearing upon or relation to the scale of wages, which and about the coal mines of the territory herein involved and other conditions now imposed and insisted upon by the United Mine Workers of Amer ica, such commission to report to the President of the United States its findings of facts, together with its recommendations, and that such commis sion have power to administer oaths and compel attendance of witnesses."

Says Operators Have Not Profited New York, March 30 .- David Willcox, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, has issued a statement to the effect that the operators have not profited by the increase in the price of coal. It has been substantially absorbed, he says, by the great additions to cost which were caused by the strike of 1902 and the subsequent award of the strike commission.

The Mt. Wollaston National bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. payable April 2.

The new iron gates are quite an improvement to the wire fence at the Wollaston station.

At the recent meeting of the High School Masters' club of Massachusetts, C. F. Harper, head master of the Quincy High school, was elected president.

Dr. Jordan's Sunday-school class will entertain several of the other classes of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday-school in the vestry this evening.

Miss Flora Brown of Wollaston has just returned from New York where she has spent several days attending the openings of the large millinery houses.

A letter on the water question has been received from President T. L. Williams of the Board of Trade, which will appear in the Saturday eight-page Daily Ledger.

It will be noticed by a card in our columns today that John R. Nelson, Esq., has an office in Adams Building, and would be pleased to attend the wants of our citizens.

Ladies Night at I.O.O.F, Encampment

There was a very large attendance of patriarchs and the fair sex at the ladies' night under the auspices of Manet Encampment, I. O. O. F., on Tuesday evening. The evening was in charge of an efficient committee headed by Past Chief Frank E. Badger.

During the first part of the evening there was a pleasing entertainment, which included a duet by William and Fred Warmington; solos by Miss Abby Penley with Miss Mabel Anderson as accompanist; piano solos by George Ripley and Miss Mabel Anderson; tenor solo by William Warmington and phonograph selections by Henry Fur-

At this point all were invited to the banquet hall where a turkey supper was served. The decorations of the tables were by Patterson and they looked very attractive.

Supper over the entertainment was continued. The second part included selections by the Manet brass band, an address by D. D. G. Patriarch Jordan, and fancy dancing by Miss Florence Barker with Miss Nellie Barnes as accompanist.

ERY able men have given their lives to the study of Monsoon's headlight, yet science, after no end of investigation, stands in its presence baffled.

The source of its illumination is believed to be understood. I say believed, because in a day when yesterday's beliefs are tomorrow's delusions I commit myself personally to no theory. Whether it is a thing living or dead, whether malign to mackerel or potent in its influence on imperfectly understood atmospheric phenomena, I do not know. I doubt whether anybody knows, except maybe Monsoon himself. I know only that on the West End Monsoon's headlight from every point of view stands high, and that on one occasion it stood between Abe Monsoon and a frightful catastrophe. There have been of late studied efforts to introduce electric headlights on the Mountain division. But there are grizzled men in the cab who look with distrust-silent, it is true, yet distrust-on the claims put forth for them. While Monsoon's headlight does its work-as it has done even long before Monsoon followed it to the West End and will do long after he leaves the West End-why, they say, and reasonably enough, take on new and theoretical substitutes?

While the discussion deepens and even rages in the Wickiup, Monsoon himself is silent. Brave men are modest men. Among ourselves we don't use adjectives. Where Monsoon is known it is not necessary to put anything ahead of his name, except maybe once a month on the payroll, when the crosseyed accountant adds A. or Abe or Abraham, just as he happens to be fixed for time. Monsoon's name in itself stands for a great deal. When his brother engineers, men who have grown seamy and weatherbeaten in the service, put up their voices for Monsoon's headlight, or when talkative storekeepers, who servilely jump at headquarters' experiments in order to court the favor of the high, speak for electricity, Abe Monsoon himself is silent. His light is there; let them take it or leave it, as they will. If the superintendent of motive power should attempt to throw it out for the newfangled arrangement Monsoon would doubtless feel that it was not the first time Omaha had gone wrong, and, for that matter, neither he nor anybody else had assurance it would be the last. However-

The story opens on Bob Duffy. Bob right from the start was what I call a good looker, and, being the oldest boy, he had more of the swing anyway. When Martin came along his mother hadn't got over thinking about Bob. Doubtless she thought, too, of Martin, but he was kind of overshadowed. Bob began by clerking in the postoffice and delivering mail to all the pretty girls. His sympathy for the girls was so great that after awhile he began passing out letters to them whether they were addressed to the girls or to somebody else. This gradually weakened his influence with the government.

Martin began work in the telegraph office. He really learned the whole thing right there at the Bend under Callahan. Began carrying Western Unions stuck at his waist under a heavy leather belt. He wore in those days, when he had real responsibility, a formidable brown soft hat that appeared bent on swallowing his ears. It was about the time he was rising trousers and eleven. Nobody but Sinkers ever beat Martin Duffy delivering messages, and nobody, bar none-Bullhead, McTerza, anybodyever beat him eating pie. It was by eating pie that he was able to wear the belt so long, and you may take that either way. But I speak gladly of the pie, because in the usual course of events there isn't much pie in a dispatcher's life. There is, by very large odds, more anxiety than pie, and I introduce the pie not to give weight to the incidents that follow, but rather to lighten them, though as Duffy has more recently admitted this was not always the effect of the pie itself.

I do not believe that Martin Duffy ever had an enemy. A right tight little chap he was, with always a good word, even under no end of pressure on the single track. There's many a struggling trainman that will look quick and grateful when any fellow far or near speaks a word about Martin Duffy. Fast he climbed. His head never swelled. His hats rested, even after he got a key, same as the original one, right on the wings of his ears. But his heart grew right along after his head stopped, and that's where he laid over some other railroad men I could mention if I had to, which I don't-not here. About the time it looked as if Martin would make a go of it on the road the postoffice inspectors were thinking Bob would make a go of it over the JOB PRINTING road. But he was such a kid of a fellow that the postmaster convinced the detectives Bob's way of doing things was simple foolishness, which it probably was, and they merely swore him out of the service.

It was then that Martin reached out a hand to his elder brother. There were really just the two brothers, and back of them-as there is somewhere back of every railroad man-a mother. No father-not generally; just a moth-

Collectors Constantly on Their Guard Against Fraud.

Collectors of antiques have to be all the time on their guard against fraud. Even then they are often deceived. Artists exist who can impose on the very elect. A well known collector had a precious box of rare enamel. He sent it to Vienna to be repaired, and the ingenious mender fitted it with a new lid. Then he put a new lower part to the original lid, and two collectors were made happy.

A gem cutter took a modern gold Greek ring, recut the stone with an intaglio of an important subject, made a turkey swallow the ring and after some time killed the turkey. The residence in the bird's crop had endowed the gem with all the marks of age.

A scholar in a little known part of Tickets good for 5 lessons. Dalmatia was seeking gold coins and ornaments of the old Servian dynasty. A dealer came to him with a beautiful ly wrought crucifix, which he claimed to be a genuine antique. In examining the article with a glass the student came across a tiny inscription, and, better versed than the dealer gave him credit for being, he read it aloud, "This cross was made in 1893 by -," giving the name of the maker it said. The dealer stood not on the order of his go ing, but left at once.

Many a reputed article is its own undoing. At one time a number of lead coins were put on the market as antiques. It was discovered that the Arabic numerals with which they were dated were of the fashion not invented at the supposed time of their making. Collectors, young and old, trained and untrained, are constantly being taken in. Even museums themselves are not

The Best Quality Comes From the Island of Lipari.

We often hear it remarked, and particularly after the eruption of a volcano, that pumice stone ought to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must have been ejected during the volcanie disturbance. As a matter of fact, how ever, none of the white stone in general use is obtained from active volcanoes. It comes from the deposits of the article discovered in one or two quarters of the globe, the best of which is at present to be found in the island of Lipari, situated in the Tyrrhenian sea. The island is mountainous in character and consists of tuffs and lavas and of highly siliceous volcanic products. The district where the stone is found is called Campo Blanco or Monte Petalo, 1.500 feet above the level of the sea.

After riding a considerable distance, partly along precipitous paths sufficiently dangerous to be interesting and partly through vineyards and over grassy plains, one almost comes suddenly upon a seemingly snow clad valley, inclosed by hills also quite white, and the whole glaringly bright on a sunny day. Into those hills workmen are unceasingly digging deep burrows, working within by candlelight. In their excavations they come across many lumps of pumice stone, which are placed in baskets, subsequently being conveyed along the valley to the seashore where small boats are loaded and sail to the seaport near by, where the stone is sorted, packed and shipped to distant parts either by way of Messina or Leghorn.

Adirondack. The word "Adirondack" comes to us from the language of the Mohawks. With them it was Ha-de-ron-dack and meant wood eaters. This term was applied in derision to a few members of a once powerful branch of the Algonquins, who were defeated by the Iroquois and forced to seek refuge in a fastness of the mountains. They were in great distress, and it is said they sent messengers to their victors asking them to make no further war upon them, as they were reduced to the ne cessity of eating roots and the bark of trees. A few of them finally escaped to the north, and others were captured and held in slavery by the Mohawks.

The Giant of Lobsters.

The largest lobster ever caught on the coast of America was taken by a Belfast (Me.) fisherman in 1891. It weighed twenty-three pounds and measured thirty-seven inches from the end of its tail to the tip of the long front claws. The monster was too large to enter a common lobster trap, but as the trap was being drawn up it was caught in the netting and safely landed. Many years ago a lobster weighing twenty-two pounds was captured near the same place, and the event was considered to be of enough importance to be given a place in Willimson's "History of Belfast."

Thirteen Miners Had a Most Terrible Experience

SHUT UP TWENTY DAYS

Had Lived on Bark, Hay and Putrid Horseflesh -- Bodies of Seven Hundred Men Remain In Courrieres Mines

Lens, France, March 31.-The disaster at the Courrieres coal mines had a startling sequel yesterday when 13 miners were taken out alive after having endured unspeakable horrors during 20 days of entombment. The story of the survivors, so far as it has been told, already discloses that they lived for many days on putrid horse meat amid total darkness and in the stench from scores of decaying corpses. The presence of human flesh would speedlly have forced the starving men to resort to the last desperate extremity if their rescue had not occurred. The survivors were sturdy young miners from 17 to 25 years old, except their leader. Henri Nemy, who is 38 years old. All show the terrible effects of their experiences, being emaciated. exhausted and blinded. Their rescue caused a temporary nervous lucidity, during which they greeted their relatives and graphically related their sufferings. The doctors then enforced quiet upon them, fearing the results of fever and poisoning, through their having eaten decayed horseflesh.

Nemy, who was the most lucid of the miners who escaped, described their imprisonment as follows:

"After the explosion I groped my way about, stumbling over bodies and seeking refuge from the gases. I found some comrades sheltered in a remote niche. We ate earth and bark for eight days and then these provisions gave out. We continued to go groping among the bodies seeking an outlet from our prison, but were forced back time and again. We found some hay which we are and two days after we found a dead horse, which we cut up and ate with the hay and bark. We suffered most from want of water. Finally we became desperate and separated into three parties and communicated with each other by shouts. Last night we felt a draft of fresh air which finally guided us to an opening."

There were touching scenes as wives and mothers greeted those whom they had long given up as dead. Crowds besieged the hospitals to which the men were taken, cheering the survivors and imprecating the ineffective nature of the salvage work that followed immediately after the disaster.

The rescue of these 13 men revived the hope in many families that others are alive and the relatives of those whose bodies have not been recovered demand that efforts be redoubled to bring out any possible survivors.

There is a report that in addition to the 13 men who were brought up out of the mine that there were five others who came with them almost to the bot tom of the pit, but were unable to come further on account of exhaustion The total number of men missing afbodies recovered approximately num bered 500, and there are still unac counted for approximately 700. The engineers explain that smoulder ing fires prevented them from exploring remote passages of the mine, where it was thought that there could be no The mine owners also claim that the strike of miners reduced the number of rescuers available. Many engineers and scientists agree that all in the mine must have died long ago. Engineer Laur, however, dissents, asserting that the salvage work has been deplorably inefficient, and he believes that scores died of exhaustion, owing to the poor work of the salvage

Wright Ambassador to Japan

Washington, March 31.-When Luke E. Wright took the oath of office yesterday and received his commission as ambassador to Japan, he ceased to be governor general of the Philippines. Henry C. London, March 31 .- The storm aroused by the Natal affair has in no way subsided. (Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble Institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, Timothy Reed, Adams St., Julincy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase, davings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young-Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor. The Treasurer, William F. Cummings, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, Ernest G. Gay, will be happy to answer inquiries.

To secure these and other reforms tum. the executive committee of the Federation of Labor evidently felt that the referendum system is necessary, for they also considered the "advisability of having a referendum vote in cities, towns and villages, which was discussed generally, and it was decided to ask Joseph A. public import. Under the referendum system all reforms that organized labor is seeking. such as the abolition of child labor, can be initiated and enacted or any other law that a majority of the people desire, and by petition those laws which the legislature may pass which do not appeal to the good sense of 5 per cent of the voters can be decided ipon by referendum vote. Experience shows that many of those elected by the people to represent them are unreliable, careless or corrupt, and that is the reason the American Federation of Labor indorses and recommends the referendum and the initiative as the only means of securing good government. The plan adopted for securing that reform is by questioning the candidates of all parties and uniting the labor vote on those only who pledge themselves to work and vote for it. That plan being nonpartisan, all can join in carrying it out without interfering with partisan politics or the party predilections of the members of the unions.

The International Cigarmakers' union has taken a step for the betterment of the condition of its members by proposing to lend to individual workers the greater part of its surplus funds to build homes or to establish them in business, says the Buffalo Express.

agreed the plan is practicable. The cigarmakers have in their treasury a sum that varies through the year from $500,000 to $750,000. Interest on this money pays a great part of the union's expenses in times when there is little disturbance, and as the cigarmakers are in general satisfied with their wage scale and working hours the money can be used for other pur-

It is the first time this plan has been suggested in the United States. The officers look upon it as a means of showing the men a return for their investment in the way of dues, in addition to the betterment they have had in higher pay and the eight hour day. In England the plan has been successfully tried among conservative trades

The cigarmakers are known as one of the most conservative organizations in the country.

To Advertise Union Label.

The United Garment Workers are planning a novel campaign to advertise their union label. They have arranged to give the Passion play with moving pictures in the different union halls in Chicago and at the same time display a series of sweatshop pictures. Other labor organizations interested in advertising the union label of their craft are joining the garment workers in the project, and they believe that this method will interest workingmen more than any speeches of organizers could

Moran Will Not Back Down on Insurance Investigation

Boston, March 31.-In reply to a letter sent by Thomas W. Lawson to District Attorney Moran, in which Lawson | ing aided her husband, Charles Howexpressed a wish to withdraw charges made against certain insurance men, Moran last night notified Lawson that his cell-mate, Edward H. Carr, in esthe charges could not be withdrawn. Moran furthermore called upon Lawson to deliver the evidence, and requested him to appear for that purpose jury at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afterat the district attorney's office.

Mr. Lawson said his object in withdrawing the charges was that he feared the salaried agents and canvassers of the insurance companies would be the ones who would suffer, it being his opinion that it might be impossible to prosecute successfully the who made the disturbance and place company heads.

Mr. Moran in his reply concluded: "I appreciate the motive which prompts by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to You to relieve, if possible, the insurmark the place where the house stood in which ance companies' agents from prosecuthe patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of tion. It may be commendable in a private citizen, but it has no place in the district attorney's office."

IN RECORD TIME

Woman Acqu tted of Charge of Aiding Jail Breakers

Boston, March 31 .- Mrs. May Howard was acquitted of the charge of havard, to whom she was married in the Charles street jail last December, and caping from the jail. The case had been on trial two days in the superior criminal court and was given to the noon, a verdict being returned within six minutes. When the acquittal was announced, a large number of women in the courtroom applauded the jury by handclapping. The judge ordered the court officials to pick out any of the persons them under arrest. The officials denied that they could tell who had done the clapping, and no arrests were made. The prisoner was discharged.

The six minutes required for the jury to agree upon its verdict was said by an official to be a record for the court.

Troops to Qual Strikers

Winnipeg, Man., March 31 .- As a result of the disorders attending a strike of street car men, a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Rifles is patrolling Main street. A company of regulars, lined up with fixed bayonets, did not see the crowd which attacked a car and attempted to pull off the men. Mayor Sharpe then read the riot act and was greeted with hoots and jeers. The mob still failed to disperse, and a charge with fixed bayonets was ordered. This kept back the excited men. Six cars were operated yesterday.

Trade Somewhat Disturbed

New York, March 31 .- R. G. Dun & .Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that trade reports are somewhat irregular, owing to widely differing weather conditions and uneasiness regarding the labor situation. Clothing manufacturers and wholesale dry goods houses are especially busy and forwardings of footwear from Boston for the year thus far surpass all previous records.

Prediction of Jewish Massacres

St. Petersburg, March 31.-The League of Russian Writers has issued an appeal to the Russian people to unite to prevent the Jewish massacres which, they claim, are beyond doubt being prepared in southwestern Russia for Eastertide. The appeal says that the police and gendarmes are arranging to let loose the black hundreds upon the members of the helpless race.

Fought on the Gallows Tomson, Md., March 31.-Isaac Winder, a negro, was hanged in the jail yard here for the murder of Frederick T. Rhinehart. When Winder was conducted to the scaffold he reisted the deputies who were pini his arms and a lively struggle ensued, which lasted for 10 minutes before he was overcome and the execution pro-

On every hand any one who is at all observant, may see extraordinary waste going on, and the sooner every service is metered the better it will be for the grounds. taxpayers of Quincy.

I think the rates suggested by Mr. Bradford are very fair, except the mini- plans for a new school building at church. They will reside in the C. mum rate for a single faucet, which, if Atlantic. reduced to $4 would help a great many working people, who feel the burdens of taxation greatest.

We must keep in mind the fact that, when all unnecessary waste is stopped the city will be well able to reduce the present rates.

Hardly, judge, hardly. He must at least have had his suspicions of the purposes of the "yellow dog" fund.

The Pecksniff referred to, by the way, is universally said to be Mr. W. B. Hornblower, the man who is alleged to have been chiefly responsible for the Fowler report and the desertion of McCall. President Cleveland once nominated Mr. Hornblower for justice of the United States supreme court, but the senate rejected him. The senate does some good things

The other chapters of the Hamilton book are coming out in small installments. First there was the publication of the facsimile of an alleged receipt for $75,000 from Cornelius N. Bliss.

Another assertion made by the 'judge" is that he remained in Europe during the Hughes investigation because requested so to do by the board of trustees of the New York Life. Evidently somebody is doing some very adult lying in these matters. There is so much prevarication that no one man could be responsible for all of it. Ananias seems in a fair way of losing his

A House of Gloom.

Hamilton had quite a little to do with the famous "House of Mirth" at Albany. He seems liable to have quite as much to do with creating a house of gloom for high finance circles in

Despite all the scandal, the "judge" maintains much of his old popularity about his home. He was recently reelected president of the Albany club by practically a unanimous vote.

The whole insurance fight is centering more and more on the bill introduced by the Armstrong committee to legislate out of office all of the old trustees of the implicated companies. lton's efforts are directed the board of the New York Life. One of the most sensational struggles in the history of that company has recently been waged in an effort to secure proxies by the present officials in order to perpetuate their regime. The election is scheduled to occur April 11. The Armstrong bill provides that they in order to secure proxies the manage ment has written insurance for noth ing, only requiring that the policy holder so created surrender his proxy to be used by these trustees that Hamilton has denounced as "curs and traitors." To substantiate his claim Lawson publishes statements and contracts that have come into his posses sion. Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the policy holders organized by Law-Ordinarily the "yellow dog" is not a son, has written to President Alexanthe insurance animals they evinced a high priced animal, but the particular der E. May Lift the Insurance Lid.

It is just possible that the insurance lid is to be lifted entirely off. The public has only had a peep in so far. With Hamilton, Lawson, Stuyvesant Fish and the Armstrong committee all tugging at the handle, the present officials may find themselves unable to hold down the cover. Meanwhile let the people not grow pessimistic. The very fact that the light is being turned on is hopeful. Moral adjustment must come. The law of recompense has not been repealed. All nature is in equilibrium and balance. There will be a like evening up process in the human world. Justice and judgment yet live. Righteousness will yet be vindicated. The pure, the true, the honest, the unselfish yet abide on earth. The heart of humanity is good. The heavenly vision has not all departed. Whatever corruptions may come, whatever frauds and social unhealth, the plain people are still sound and whole. They that love simple, old fashioned goodness, that believe in God and their country, that strive for better things and that have not been drawn aside by money madness, they yet can be trusted. ELEVEN ARRESTS

Companions of the Murdered Bulgarians In Custody

PADRONE GIVES "FACTS"

He Says the Slain Men Had No Trouble With Any Persons and Is at a Loss to Account For the Sextuple Tragedy

Duluth, March 30 .- The mystery surrounding the six gruesome murders which horrified the citizens of Minneapolis has been only deepened by the arrest here of 11 Bulgarians who were residents of the house in Minneapolis where the crime was committed. The prisoners are eight men, two boys and one woman

Cross-questioned individually, five of the prisoners tell the same story and maintain their innocence of any complicity in the crime and even their ignorance of it until they were enlightened by the police. If their story is true, the Minneapolis police have struck the wrong trail and it shatters all theories of the murders which have hitherto been held, and leaves the police absolutely at sea for even a theory for the motive for the crime and the identity of the criminals. The facts as told by Kuzman Siekuloff, the spokesman of the party, are these:

For the last year or more some of the Bulgarians from the province of Presbad, in the northern part of Turkey, have been working in the woods and camps of northern Minnesota. The members of this band were all from the same part of the province and were headed by Kuzman Siekuloff, who acted in the capacity of padrone or leader. He was the only member of the band who could speak English, having been in this country about five years, and he provided work for his followers, hiring them out to work in the mines, on the railroads and in the logging camps. During the winter the members of this band have been working near the village of Alborn, in this county. About four months ago Sieku-A thorough and complete examination of loff rented the house on Tenth avenue, each eye by the most approved method without Minneapolis, planning to bring some other of his countrymen over to America. The party included his bride, whom he had married about a year ago while on a visit to his old home.

Petros Stojer, a middle-aged member of the Siekuloff band, was left in charge of the house about two months ago, and since that time he has been keeping "bachelor's hall," getting his own meals and keeping the house in readiness for the other members of the party. One week ago Siekuloff and the six members who are dead completed their work at Alborn and went to Minneapolis with their winter's wages in their pockets. Saturday the party of immigrants arrived from Bulgaria and the 16 people occupied the house Saturday and Sunday. Monday afternoon Siekuloff started for Duluth with the newcomers, leaving the six members of his 9 room House on Upland Road, just old band behind him in Minneapolis. finished, buy and select your own railroad section work, while Siekuloff wall paper, fine location and good intended to bring the new arrivals to the northern part of the state to work in the mines. He arrived here with his party Monday night. The party comprised him self and his wife, two boys about 15 years of age, seven young men ranging from 20 to 35 years of age; and Petros Stojer, a member of the old band, who had been left in charge of the Minneapolis house. Stojer and Siekuloff were he only ones who had spent any length of time in this country, the others having come direct from New York, where they landed. Siekuloff and the members of his party are at a loss to know the cause of the murders, as all were friendly.

Siekuloff and party were located in a lodging house here with more than 30 people packed into four rooms. The majority of them are Austrians and Bulgarians and among them are some of the other members of Siekuloff's band who had not been to Minneapolis at all. Siekuloff says he knows of no criminal organization or feud that could have prompted the murders. Of the six men left at Minneapolis, four were brothers named Jaless and, according to Siekuloff, the story that there was a father and son is incorrect. Asked if they had trouble with any persons in Minneapolis, he said they had not.

As to the articles of a religious significance found in the house, he said his people all belonged to the Bulgarian church and carried those things with them always and held service among themselves. The men will be held here until the Minneapolis police direct what shall be done with them. Made Specialty of $90 Forgeries

Jerome Claims That They Show Felonous Intent

MONEY FOR CAMPAIGNS

Contrary to Morality and Decency to Take It From Policy holders Justified In Argument For the Defense

New York, March 31.-Arguments on the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of George W. Perkins, former vice president of the New York Life Insurance company, who is charged, in a warrant issued by Magistrate Moss, with the larceny of $48,702 belonging to the policyholders of the New York Life, which he advanced to Treasurer Bliss of the Republican national committee, were made before Justice Greenbaum in the state supreme court. Decision was reserved. Briefs will be filed next week by contending counsel and then Greenbaum will take the matter of the legality of Perkins' arrest under advisement.

District Attorney Jerome argued for the prosecution and Messrs. Cohen and Delafield appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Jerome said that criminal intent according to legal authorities, was to appear from all the circumstances of the case. "The question here," he continued, "is as to the right of Perkins to pay the money of the policyholders to r 11 16 abcdefghi 11 44 a political organization for the purpose r 1 13 abc of influencing the result of certain po- r 3 00 abc litical matters at the polls. This is r 4 16 abcdefghi 4 44 very far from being a case where there | r 5 13 abc s an absence of moral guilt or turpitude. Shall the officers of a corporation or a single officer say, take the r 8 08 abcdefghi 8 35 money of the policyholders, take your r 10 25 abc and my money and give it to a political party? I say that such an act is inherently wrong. Whether it is prohibited by law or not, I say that it is a Wollaston, contrary to public policy, contrary to | b Nortolk Downs, public morality, and contrary as well c Auantic, to private morality and common decency. Half of the policyholders may have been Democrats, and to take their money to assist the Republican party certainly goes to the establishment of felonous intent."

Drawing a parallel in justification of the payment of money to the Republican campaign committee, Counsel Cohen said that President McCall of the New York Life Insurance company had at different times directed the payment of large sums of money for the relief of the Johnstown flood and in a yellow fever epidemic at New Orleans. These payments may have been outside the vested authority of the president, he said, but surely not illegal; certainly very far from criminal.

It was explained to the court that Perkins had advanced his personal funds to Bliss and had been repaid months afterward by the New York

Mr. Cohen argued that none of the code definitions of larceny applied to Perkins' case. When he read the clause dealing with improper payments be said to be an officer having control of funds within the meaning of the statute; that the only officers so inthe checks?"

"I think that is the meaning of the law," replied Cohen.

Justice Greenbaum then asked whether Mr. Cohen thought that his Interpretation would shield from conviction of larceny an officer who accepted money wrongfully given to him or paid to him by check by an officer having that authority. Mr. Cohen sald that if criminal wrongdoing was charged, it was covered by other provisions of the penal code, but he maintained that it would not be larceny under the code. During Jerome's reply to the arguments for Perkins, Justice Greenbaum asked: "Do you maintain that it is unlawful to contribute the funds of a company for such a purpose as is covered by this case?"

"The money of the policyholders? Yes," replied the district attorney. "But do you say that of contributions from any sort of a company?"

"Oh, as to limited liability companies, when a father and members of his family are the only stockholders, no," said Jerome. "But with any great corporation or trust company I say it is Immoral in the highest degree to divert its funds without the consent of every party in interest."

The union will be formed of the wives, daughters, sisters and sweethearts of union workers and their friends who feel their cause is just and have money to spend earned by union

Cornelius Ford, president of the Cenand president of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, and Thomas Quinn, James O'Lowe and Edward and Mont Clair, now located at the Fitzsimmons, officers of the same bodies, form the committee on organization of the new union. About 150 women have been enrolled, and the first general meeting will be called just as soon as the committee has completed its scheme of instruction. This instruction is the all important feature, since each "spender" must learn to enter a shop, glance around and instantly know just which goods bear union labels, which bear none and which have imitations set forth to fool the public.

As every branch of industry has its own labels, with many subdivisions of each, there are thousands of marks for the women to learn. They are willing to learn, and feel confident that after they are organized no Jersey storekeepin stock any wares not sanctioned by "union spenders."

KEITH'S THEATRE.

An unusually attractive variety bill is an-

especially notable for the large number of new omers to Boston. Harry Houdini, whose name is the topic of everybody's conversation, rem ins over for ano her week although he will have an entirely different program. No entertainer who has come to Boston in years has aroused the comment and wonderment that he has, and it is sate to say that his new entertainment will prove more sensational than ever.

To anyone who erjoys a good hearty laugh, but automobilists e-pecially, the coming of Harry

Tate's "Motoring" will be most welcome

There has been no funnier or more novel bit of entertainment presented on the stage this season,

in fact it is so much funnier than anything else on the boards that there is nothing to be compared with it. As usual, an entire new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be
